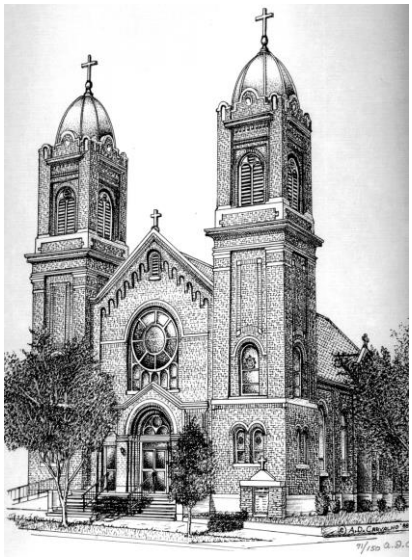
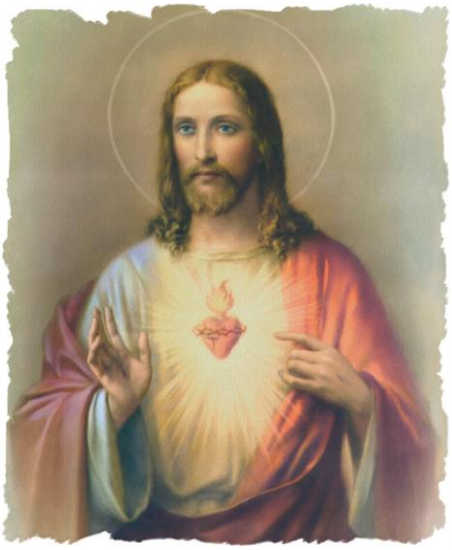
Sacred Heart Catholic Church

Twenty-eighth Sunday in Ordinary Time–October 15, 2017





Reflection from the Pastor:

Among the many things that we could pull out of this Sunday's Gospel, there is one line that seems to catch the attention of many: "My friend, how is it that you came in here without a wedding garment?" The king is upset that his guest is not properly dressed, although in fairness to the guest, he was pulled from the street and invited to come to the wedding. Yet, despite the suddenness of the invitation, the king still expects that the man takes the invitation seriously and honor the king and his son by dressing appropriately. Weddings, after all, are important events that deserve our extra effort. So, then, what about our attire for Holy Mass? Given the choice between not coming to Mass at all for lack of decent clothes or dressing casually, I am of the firm opinion that one should attend Holy Mass. But with forethought and planning, which the Mass certainly deserves, one can almost always choose to dress "above average", that is, to wear special clothes for Mass. Nice, presentable clothes do not mean expensive clothes. In fact, oftentimes people will spend considerable amounts of money to get very casual looking clothes because of the logo they bear. Consider this question when choosing your clothes: is Mass just one more thing to do during your weekend, or is it the event of the week?

Meditación del Párroco:

Entre las muchas cosas que podemos sacar del Evangelio de este domingo, hay una línea que parece llamar la atención de muchos: "Amigo mío, ¿cómo es que viniste aquí sin ropa de boda?" El rey está molesto por su huésped que no está bien vestido, aunque en justicia al huésped, fue sacado de la calle e invitado a venir a la boda. Sin embargo, a pesar de la repentina invitación, el rey aún espera que el hombre tome la invitación en serio y honre al rey ya su hijo vestirse apropiadamente. Las bodas, después de todo, son eventos importantes que merecen nuestro esfuerzo adicional. Entonces, ¿qué pasa con nuestra vestimenta para la Santa Misa? Dada la elección entre no venir a la Misa por falta de ropa decente o vestirse casualmente, estoy de la firme opinión de que uno debe asistir a la Santa Misa. Pero con la previsión y la planificación, que la Misa ciertamente merece, casi siempre se puede elegir vestido "de mejor calidad", es decir, llevar ropa especial para la Misa. Ropa presentable no significa ropa cara. De hecho, a menudo la gente va a gastar cantidades considerables de dinero, debido a la insignia que llevan, para obtener ropa muy casual. Considere esta cuestión al elegir su ropa: ¿es la Misa sólo una cosa más que hacer durante el fin de semana, o es el evento más importante de la semana?
