Dear Friends,

History books are full of epic journeys of discovery, some of them westward-leading like the one we celebrate today. A very different expedition set out in 1804 to cross the continent of America. President Thomas Jefferson was keen to establish an American presence in the Pacific Northwest before any European colonizers got there. He sent a mission: not three kings, but around forty-five people, including heavily armed soldiers, led by Captain Meriwether Lewis. They traveled by canoe, not by camel; but they did navigate by the stars as Lewis had training in the use of s sextant. It was a dangerous undertaking thru uncharted territory. The Native Americans were likely to defend their hunting grounds. So the expedition took peace offerings: not gold, frankincense and myrrh; but silver medals, ribbons and trinkets. They brought along another token of peace: Sacagawea, the sixteen-year-old Native American wife of a Canadian fur-trapper who acted as a diplomat and interpreter. She gave birth to a baby boy during the journey.

Following the mission upstream, an Indian trail took them to the Columbia River which flows into the Pacific. The expedition returned after two years, having reached its goal. Along the way they formed trading alliances with indigenous tribes and gained valuable knowledge about plants and animals.

The mysterious visitors to the stable in Bethlehem teach us what it is to live by faith. Committed and persevering, poring over ancient scriptures and searching the night skies, theirs was a lifelong quest for meaning. They were courageous, too, setting out without knowing their destination. They went looking for a king, but did not go away disappointed when they found God at home amongst the poorest people. Before this gracious child they fell to their knees in wonder. They offered him their all.

How interesting that a nursing mother should feature in both journeys. Meriwether Lewis calculated that a young woman carrying her baby would make his military expedition appear peaceful. He used them to get what he wanted. As for the wise men, they knelt in adoration when they saw the Christ child with his mother. They demanded nothing in return for their priceless gifts. For Mary's baby was the ultimate goal of their journey, not a mean to an end.

For all who share the ancient longing for a savior king, our spiritual path may not be so different from that of the wise men. We too may feel mysteriously guided, though, as the wise men discovered, stars have a habit of disappearing, leaving us to fumble our way forward in faith. But of this we may be sure: however winding the road, however long we take to get to our Bethlehem, Jesus and his mother will be waiting for us there.

Happy New Year!

Your friend in Jesus, Msgr. Zach

Queridos Amigos,

Los libros de historia están llenos de viajes épicos de descubrimiento, algunos de ellos con rumbo al oeste, como el que celebramos hoy. Una expedición muy diferente partió en 1804 para cruzar el continente americano. El presidente Thomas Jefferson deseaba establecer una presencia estadounidense en el noroeste del Pacífico antes de que llegara ningún colonizador europeo. Envió una misión: no tres reyes, sino alrededor de cuarenta y cinco personas, incluidos soldados fuertemente armados, dirigidos por el capitán Meriwether Lewis. Viajaron en canoa, no en camello; pero navegaban por las estrellas ya que Lewis tenía entrenamiento en el uso del sextante. Fue una empresa peligrosa a través de un territorio inexplorado. Era probable que los nativos americanos defendieran sus terrenos de caza. Entonces la expedición tomó ofrendas de paz: no oro, incienso ni mirra; sino medallas de plata, cintas y baratijas. Trajeron consigo otra muestra de paz: Sacagawea, la esposa nativa americana de dieciséis años de un cazador de pieles canadiense que actuó como diplomática e intérprete. Ella dio a luz a un bebé durante el viaje.

Siguiendo la misión río arriba, un sendero indio los llevó al río Columbia, que desemboca en el Pacífico. La expedición regresó después de dos años, habiendo alcanzado su objetivo. En el camino, formaron alianzas comerciales con tribus indígenas y adquirieron valiosos conocimientos sobre plantas y animales.

Los misteriosos visitantes del establo de Belén nos enseñan qué es vivir por fe. Comprometidos y perseverantes, estudiando escrituras antiguas y escudriñando los cielos nocturnos, la suya fue una búsqueda de significado para toda la vida. Ellos también fueron valientes y partieron sin saber su destino. Fueron a buscar un rey, pero no se fueron decepcionados cuando encontraron a Dios en casa entre la gente más pobre. Ante este gracioso niño cayeron de rodillas asombrados. Le ofrecieron todo.

Qué interesante que una madre lactante deba figurar en ambos viajes. Meriwether Lewis calculó que una mujer joven con su bebé haría que su expedición militar pareciera pacífica. Los usó para conseguir lo que quería. En cuanto a los magos, se arrodillaron en adoración cuando vieron al niño Jesús con su madre. No exigieron nada a cambio de sus invaluables regalos. Porque el bebé de Mary era el objetivo final de su viaje, no un medio para llegar a un final.

Para todos los que comparten el antiguo anhelo de un rey salvador, nuestro camino espiritual puede no ser tan diferente al de los sabios. Nosotros también podemos sentirnos guiados misteriosamente, aunque, como descubrieron los sabios, las estrellas tienen la costumbre de desaparecer, dejándonos buscar a tientas nuestro camino hacia la fe. Pero de esto podemos estar seguros: por más tortuoso que sea el camino, por mucho que tardemos en llegar a nuestro Belén, allí nos estarán esperando Jesús y su madre.

¡Feliz año nuevo!

Tu amigo en Jesús, Mons. Zach

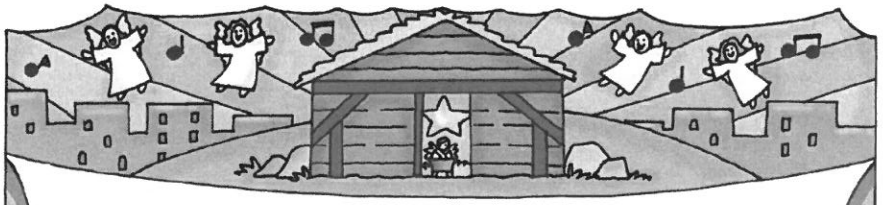
God's Word for Children



Epiphany of the Lord

Before Jesus was born, the prophet Micah wrote that Bethlehem would be an important place (Micah 5:1).
Draw a line through the first word and then every other word after that.
The words that are left will tell you part of what was written about this famous town.

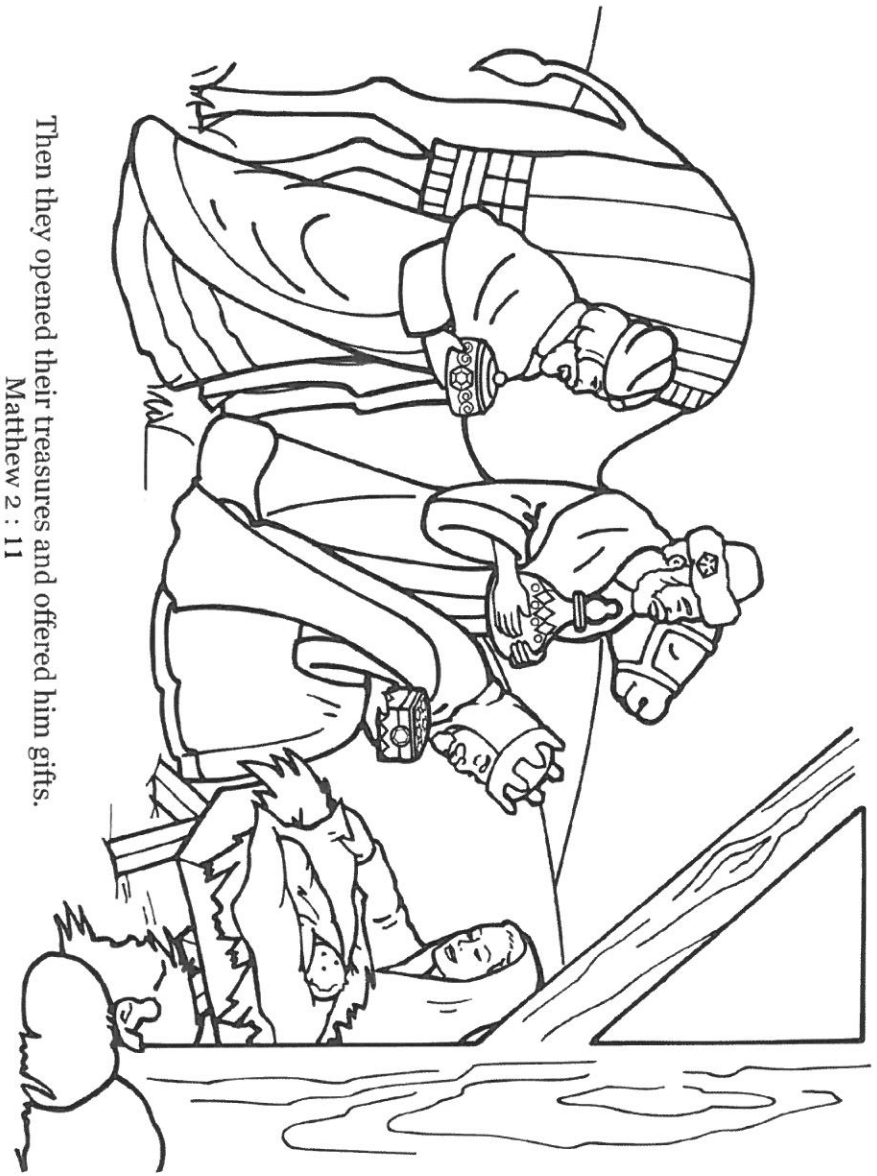
When	From	until	you
sent	shall	search	come
decide	a	star	ruler

" ".



Then they opened their treasures and offered him gifts.
Matthew 2 : 11

CATHOLIC CORNER

ALL SHALL COME BEARING GIFTS

The prophet Isaiah foresaw that knowledge of the Messiah would spread to foreign lands.

Caravans of camels shall fill you,
dromedaries from Midian and Ephah;
All from Sheba shall come bearing gold and frankincense, and proclaiming the praises of the LORD. (Isaiah 60:6)

Many different people heard the news about the Messiah. Some called him a new king. Wise men from the East went searching for him. They stopped in Jerusalem to ask where they could find the newborn king. They brought gifts, just like the ones Isaiah mentioned. Isaiah knew that when the Messiah came he would be for all people. Jesus came to give his life for everyone for all times.

If you had a chance to travel with the wise men, what gift would you bring? Think about the many gifts you have. Your gift might not be something you can carry or see. It might be something inside you that you can share with Jesus and with others, like your sense of humor. Draw a picture of your gift. Remember, you do share your gift with Jesus each time you share it with another person. Add the picture to your booklet.

The Christmas season ends today.

Keep your booklet with your Christmas decorations so you can look at it again next Advent.
