FR. PETE ELIZARDO

Love God and love your neighbor. This short and clear commandment expressed the whole of the law of God. Today we don't like to think of God's word as a law, so we can say simply that this short statement sums up the whole of our Christian life. It is so very simply yet we (humanity) make it seem so very difficult.

Loving God has always been a bit difficult because God is not present the way that another person is present. This difference also has made loving God easier because we are never quite sure what it means to love God or we draw our own conclusions as to how to love God. We do know that we must prefer God and His word, His Scriptures to all other realities.

The invitation to love God and to love our neighbor becomes very concrete in the love of neighbor. It is not just any neighbor that we must love, but the neighbor who is right in front of us. The neighbor is not the person who lives next door but any human being who happens to enter our life. This neighbor is especially the person that we don't want to help, the person who may have injured us, the person who seems unworthy of our help, the person who will take more of our time than we want to give. This neighbor is not only the one you want to see and befriend, but the one you do not want to see and at times, do not want to befriend.

Always in the Gospel we find this teaching of the Lord Jesus: love those who are easy to love as well as those who are the most difficult to love.

As we consider this invitation to love, we can understand more completely why our ancestors in the faith were not faithful to the Lord, as we hear in the first reading today. Moses was clear in his teaching. Moses taught the people what he knew that God wanted taught. The Scriptures continue to teach us what God wants of us. It is much easier to change the meaning of the Scriptures than it is to change our hearts. So in the history of our faith, both in the Old and the New Testaments, we find the tendency to turn away from God, the tendency to change what God wants into what we want.

How often we fail the test to love when we are challenged by some to want to not love them. My dear family, if you or I allow such people or circumstances to cause us not to love, then we lose. The true victory is ours that regardless of the actions or words of others that try to tear into you, you remain firm in the gift of love that comes from God.

Last weekend, the Tree of Life Jewish Synagogue was brutally attacked. A man filled with great hatred entered the synagogue and began to shoot the congregants who were there. Rabbi Jeffrey Myers, the rabbi of Tree of Life Synagogue, later went on to say, "My cup overflows with love…That's how you defeat hate." He expressed the importance of how you do not allow one's hate to change you to where you lose your ability to love only to have that replaced with your ability to hate. Rather, you allow others to fill you with their love to where your cup is overflowing with love that defeats and destroys hate.

Jesus continually calls us to repent and to return to the clear teachings given in Scripture and the clear teachings that He gives to us.

We have a choice: We can allow our hearts to be changed today to where God's love is in charge and we will love continuously or we can continue as we are, with hearts hardened by doing things our own way, where love will be limited and eventually become hate.

Jesus calls to us: Love God and love your neighbor. Listen to Him.
