Rev. Raul Miguez
St. Brendan
333 East 206th St
Bronx, NY 10467

Dear Father Miguez,

Sincere thanks from here and Maryknollers around the world for your kindness. Fr. Romane St. Vil, MM enjoyed the weekend and the people of St. Brendan were very receptive.

Needless to say, this is a great help towards our efforts to bring the "Good News" to all nations. May this kindness rebound to you and your people.

Father Miguez, would you note our sincere thanks to your parishioners in your bulletin or during your announcements? There will be a grateful remembrance in our Masses and prayers. May God bless your own wonderful labors.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

While there is no written Dress Code concerning how the faithful should dress when attending Mass, common sense dictates proper and modest attire and an environment of silence and devotion when in the Real Presence of the Lord. Mass is not a social gathering. Those who recognize the Real Presence of the Lord in the Church show respect, reverence, and pride.

SCRIPTURE INSIGHTS

Perhaps you have seen the sculpture of a man chiseling himself out of a block of stone. It represents the self-made person who creates his own destiny through intellect and hard work. Today's readings warn against this illusion and remind us that everything we do is by God's grace.

In the First Reading, God declares that Shebna, the man in charge of King Hezekiah's palace, will be cast out, presumably because he overstepped his authority and took his position for granted. (See Isaiah 22:16, before today's reading picks up). In his place, God will establish Eliakim and make him part of the royal family. The "key of the House of David" is not an actual key. Rather it is a symbol of the authority God is conferring. What are Eliakim's credentials? He is a servant of God.

The Second Reading concludes Paul's teaching on justification by faith. Earlier (9:30-31), Paul had written that paradoxically Gentiles (non-Jews) who never pursued righteousness receive it (that is, through the Law). Thus, Paul marvels that we cannot know God's mind, but we do know that everything comes to us by God's grace and not by our own accomplishments.

In today's Gospel, sometimes called "The Great Confession," Peter professes Jesus as the Messiah and Son of God. Jesus responds by calling him petros (Greek, meaning a small rock) and declaring that he will build his Church on this petra (Greek for "mass of rocky ground"). The meaning of "binding and loosing" is unclear. It may refer to the binding of Satan in exorcism, the power to excommunicate, or authority to teach definitive doctrine. Notice, however, that Peter did nothing to earn this position of authority. The revelation came from the Father.

- ◆ In today's Gospel, why does Jesus call Simon Peter "blessed"? What does this suggest about Peter's relationship with Jesus and his role as God's servant?
- ◆ What can you glean from today's readings about the dangers of thinking that you are a self-made person?
- ◆ What might it mean to lead as a servant?

Aunque no hay un Código de Vestimento escrito sobre cómo deben vestirse los fieles cuando asisten a la Misa, el sentido común dicta vestimento adecuado y modesto y un ambiente de silencio y devoción cuando en la Presencia Real del Señor. La Misa no es una reunión social. Aquellos que reconocen la Presencia Real del Señor en la Iglesia muestran respeto, reverencia y orgullo.
