Issues of Peace & Justice

In today's second reading, we can hear frustration in Paul's voice as he implores the Corinthians, "Let there be no divisions among you." "In today's world, justice and human dignity are at an alarming risk amid global power imbalances. How can we live in this time of destabilization and conflict, and free ourselves from evil? We need to encourage and support every spiritual, cultural and political initiative that keeps hope alive, countering the spread of 'fatalistic terms, as if the dynamics involved were the product of anonymous impersonal forces or structures independent of the human will.' For, as has been suggested, 'the best way to dominate and gain control over people is to spread despair and discouragement, even under the guise of defending certain values.' Against this strategy, we must promote self-awareness in civil societies, forms of responsible association, experiences of nonviolent participation, and practices of restorative justice on both a small and large scale. Leo XIII had already made this clear in his Encyclical Rerum Novarum: 'The consciousness of his own weakness urges the human person to call in aid from without. We read in Scripture: 'Two are better than one, for they have the advantage of their society. For if they fall, one will lift up his fellow; but woe to him who is alone when he falls and has not another to lift him up.' And further: 'A brother that is helped by his brother is like a strong city.'"

"May this be one of the fruits of the Jubilee of Hope, which has moved millions of people to rediscover themselves as pilgrims and to begin within themselves that disarmament of heart, mind and life. God will surely respond to this by fulfilling his promises: 'He shall judge between the nations, and shall decide for many peoples; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. O house of Jacob, come, let us walk in the light of the Lord'" (MESSAGE OF HIS HOLINESS POPE LEO XIV FOR THE LIX WORLD DAY OF PEACE).
