The role and place of communion ministers

I have received the approval letter from Archbishop Thompson for commissioning communion ministers for our parish. I will be commissioning them next weekend after the homily. Those of you who participated in the training and education session a couple of months ago will come forward to the altar steps after homily.

“The proof of his boundless charity that Christ the Lord left to his Bride the Church, namely, the inexpressible and supreme gift of the Eucharist, requires us to deepen our appreciation of this great mystery and to share ever more fully in its saving power ... The new conditions of the present seem to demand that, without prejudice to the supreme reverence due to so great a sacrament, access to communion be made easier, so that by sharing more fully in the effects of the sacrifice of the Mass, the faithful may more willingly and intensely give themselves to God and to the good of the Church and of all humanity.” (Congregation for the Divine Worship, Immensae Caritatis, 1973). With these words, the Church desired to permit lay men and women to assist with the distribution of Holy Communion, thus making the Eucharist more readily available to the faithful in all circumstances.

The common expression “Communion ministers” are actually called, “Extraordinary Ministers of Holy Communion” (not Eucharistic minister) because the ordinary ministers of communion are bishops, priests and deacons. These men distribute communion by virtue of ordination. The role of Extraordinary Ministers of Holy Communion does not replace that of the Ordinary Ministers, but supplements it on a provisional basis (Redemptionis Sacramentum, 2004, 151). That is, in a given situation when there are sufficient numbers of priests or deacons present, the Extraordinary Ministers will not serve.

That being said, we have 54 ministers who are willing to serve in this important ministry. Our parish needs these ministers to assist the priest and deacon in distributing communion. The two major areas of need are 1) assisting at Sunday Mass; and 2) taking communion to those in hospitals, nursing homes and the homebound. I am grateful to all existing and new ministers for their willingness to assume this important ministry. We have a good system in place for scheduling ministers for Mass called Ministry Scheduler Pro. I hope everyone uses this system on a regular basis. Please keep all our communion ministers in your prayers so they may grow in love of Christ and in holiness.

Fr. Sengole Gnanaraj

Ministry Overview: Laurie Miller

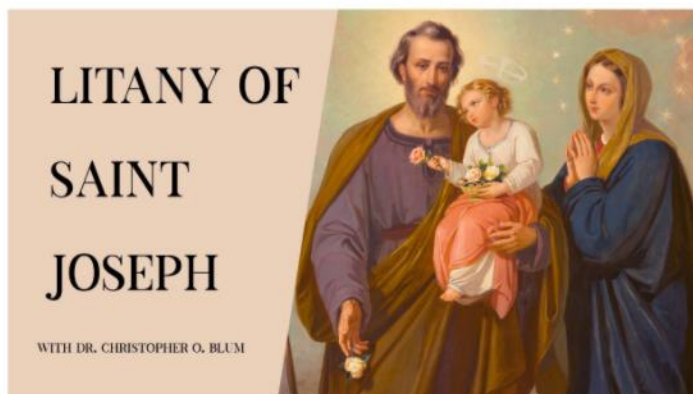

Vincent de Paul.

What is your role in the parish? I am the parish secretary. I have worked at St. Elizabeth Ann Seton since June of 2016. I am responsible for scheduling Fr. Sengole’s appointments, visits to hospitals, nursing homes and visits to the homebound for their pastoral care. When Fr. Sengole is away, I coordinate visiting priests for Masses. I also coordinate funerals, baptisms and weddings and the parish master calendar of activities. My daily activities include answering phone calls, working with the money counters, parishioners and preparing the weekly Sunday bulletin. As an active parish volunteer I am the sacristan for Holy Family. I also work with Cursillo, Knights of Columbus, and St.

What is your favorite Bible passage? Proverbs 3:5-6 “Trust in the LORD with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding, in all your ways submit to Him and He will make your paths straight.”

What would be the greatest help to you in your ministry? No day is ordinary, typical or routine. I would ask you for patience. The best help I could receive from others is to have information as soon as possible to share with our parish family. Please do your part in communicating with us, especially when you have changes to your contact information.

Volunteers Needed at Food Pantry

For decades our Catholic community has been involved with the community food pantry. The number of volunteers available to carry out this mission has decreased in the past few years. We have been requested to help resupply strong and dedicated volunteers. Post-COVID Food Pantry procedures have changed, with heavier pre-sacked bags being distributed. A team of five volunteers is needed each day the pantry is open to clients. A person able to work the computer and assist clients at a fairly fast pace is needed. The pantry is open Wednesday or Thursday from 12:30 - 3pm; sometimes a little later. Within the Catholic community, please contact Brad Whited, 765-259-1069 or John Kutter, 765-993-9895. The Food Pantry volunteer coordinator is Becky Shaw, 765-960-5028. Please leave a message and she will return your call.
