While they were eating, he took the bread, said the blessing, broke it, gave it to them, and said, "Take it; this is my body." Then he took a cup, gave thanks, and gave it to them, and they all drank from it. He said to them, "This is my blood of the covenant, which will be shed for many. Amen, I say to you, I shall not drink again the fruit of the vine until the day when I drink it new in the kingdom of God."

MESSAGE FROM FR. DAVID

Pentecost and the Life of the Church—Part 3

The life of the Church for us is to be based upon love. Jesus told us that we are to love one another as He loved us. By this the world will know that we belong to Him. The life of the Church is a communal life of repentant sinners who deny themselves, take up their crosses to follow Christ and to love one another as He has loved us. Yes, there will be sacrifices to make. Yes, there will be hardships to endure. We hope not like those Paul endured, but still. In the life of the Church, we ought to be able to catch a glimpse of the life of the world to come. In the already, we should be getting a preview of the not yet.

There's the life of the world and then there's the life of the Church. In the world, you are on your own. Just think of one very simple fact about life as we know it in the here and now: locks. We have to live with locks. What family would go off on a two week vacation and not lock their house? That's just one small feature of life in the world. But through the Church, we're told of another life, the life of the world to come, a world where no one will need any locks.

The life of the Church reminds of the not-yet. It points us towards the life of the world to come.

The Holy Spirit gave birth to the Church. The Holy Spirit preserves the words of Jesus in our minds. It's because of the Holy Spirit that Paul was able to endure what he did. And it's the Holy Spirit giving the Church its life, and giving us our life in loving communion with one another and with our Lord Jesus Christ that enables us to live this life of the Church that we celebrate at Pentecost. Amen.

Blessings in Jesus, Fr. David

Pentecostés y la vida de la Iglesia — 3ª Parte

La vida de la Iglesia para nosotros debe basarse en el amor. Jesús nos dijo que debemos amarnos unos a otros como Él nos amó. Por esto, el mundo sabrá que le pertenecemos. La vida de la Iglesia es una vida comunitaria de pecadores arrepentidos que se niegan a sí mismos, toman sus cruces para seguir a Cristo y se aman unos a otros como Él nos amó. Sí, habrá que hacer sacrificios. Sí, habrá dificultades que soportar. Esperamos que no sean como las que San Pablo soportó, pero aún así. En la vida de la Iglesia, deberíamos poder vislumbrar la vida del mundo venidero. En el ya, deberíamos obtener una vista previa del aún no.

Está la vida del mundo y luego está la vida de la Iglesia. En el mundo, estás solo. Solo piense en un hecho muy simple sobre la vida tal como la conocemos aquí y ahora: las cerraduras. Tenemos que vivir con candados. ¿Qué familia se iría de vacaciones por dos semanas y no cerraría su casa con llave? Esa es solo una pequeña característica de la vida en el mundo. Pero a través de la Iglesia, se nos habla de otra vida, la vida del mundo venidero, un mundo donde nadie necesitará candados.

La vida de la Iglesia recuerda al todavía no. Nos apunta hacia la vida del mundo venidero.

El Espíritu Santo dio a luz a la Iglesia. El Espíritu Santo conserva las palabras de Jesús en nuestra mente. Es gracias al Espíritu Santo que San Pablo pudo soportar lo que hizo. Y es el Espíritu Santo dando a la Iglesia su vida, y dándonos nuestra vida en amorosa comunión unos con otros y con nuestro Señor Jesucristo, lo que nos permite vivir esta vida de la Iglesia que celebramos en Pentecostés. Amén.

¡Bendiciones En Jesús! Padre David
