Verse to reflect on this week:

Jesus said to his disciples: "Do not think that I have come to abolish the law or the prophets. I have come not to abolish but to fulfill. Amen, I say to you, until heaven and earth pass away, not the smallest letter or the smallest part of a letter will pass from the law, until all things have taken place."

Books to borrow from the Notre Dame Parish Library located in the Pastoral Center are open Wednesday from 10:00 AM - 12:00 Noon. If you are unable to come during these times, please call Deborah Harris at 214-538-9105.

As Lent arrives on February 18, I thought it would be interesting to read about a conversation between Jesus and His mother, the Holy Virgin Mary. These words are direct quotes from The Mystical City of God – The Divine History and Life of the Virgin Mother of God manifested to her handmaid Sister Mary of Jesus, also known as Mary of Agreda. We know Mary for saying very few words in the Bible except for the wedding feast at Cana and maybe a few others. With the passion, death and resurrection coming up soon, I'm hoping that you will ponder on Jesus and Mary's conversations.

On Holy Thursday at the earliest dawn the Lord called his most beloved Mother, and she prostrated herself to his feet saying, "Speak my Lord and Master, for thy servant heareth." Raising her up from the ground, He spoke to her in words of soothing and tenderest love: "My Mother, the hour decreed by the eternal wisdom of my Father for the accomplishment of salvation and restoration of the human race and imposed upon Me by his most holy and acceptable will, has now arrived; it is proper now We subject to Him our own will, as we have so often offered to do. Give Me thy permission to enter into my suffering and death, and, as my true Mother, consent that I deliver Myself over to my enemies in obedience to my eternal Father. In this manner do Thou also willingly co-operate with Me in this work of eternal salvation, since I have received from Thee in thy virginal womb the form of a suffering and mortal man in which I am to redeem the world and satisfy the divine justice...To sacrifice Me now of thy own free will to the decree of my eternal Father, this shall be the return which I ask of thee for having made thee my mother; for He has sent Me in order that by the sufferings of my flesh I might recover the lost sheep of his house, the children of Adam."...

Having prostrated Herself at the feet of her divine Son and Master, and in deepest reverence, kissing his feet answered: "Lord and highest God, Author of all that has being; though Thou art the Son of my womb, I am thy handmaid ... obeying the will of the eternal Father and thy own...The greatest sacrifice which I can make, is that I shall not be able to die with thee...That thou shouldst endure all these torments for the salvation of mankind shall be my only relief in my pains...Oh my Son and infinite delight of my soul; give fortitude and strength to thy afflicted Mother; admit Her as thy disciple and companion, in order that she may participate in thy Passion and Cross"...

Having the Lord's permission, She added another request, "I am not worthy to ask what I desire from my inmost soul; but Thou O Lord, art the life of my hope, and in this my trust I beseech Thee, if such be thy pleasure, to make me a participant in the ineffable Sacrament of thy body and blood. Thou hast resolved to institute it as a pledge of thy glory and I desire in receiving Thee sacramentally in my heart to share the effects of this new and admirable Sacrament." The Lord on His part answered Her with great tenderness and granted Her request, promising Her the blessing of Holy Communion at the hour of its institution. The Savior then commanded the holy angels of her guard to attend upon Her in invisible forms and to serve and console Her in Her sorrow and loneliness.

At the close of this interview the Son of the eternal Father gave His blessing to His beloved Mother. Our Savior, having thus parted with his most beloved Mother and sorrowful Spouse, and taking along with Him all his Apostles, a little before midday of the Thursday of the Last Supper, departed on His last journey from Bethany to Jerusalem..."I go to prepare the treasures, by which the creatures, made according to thy image and likeness, are to be enriched and adored, so that they may be restored to the height of thy friendship and to eternal happiness, and in order that thy holy name may be known and exalted among all creatures...No soul shall be deprived of a salvation most abundant; and thy inviolate equity shall stand justified in all those who despise this copious Redemption."
