The prayer that St. Pope Paul VI lifted up to St. Joseph on 1 May 1969:

O St. Joseph, Patron of the Church! you, who side by side with the Word made flesh, worked each day to earn your bread, drawing from Him the strength to live and to toil; you who experienced the anxiety for the morrow, the bitterness of poverty, the uncertainty of work: you who today give the shining example, humble in the eyes of men but most exalted in the sight of God: protect workers in their hard daily lives, defending them from discouragement, from negative revolt, and from pleasure-loving temptations; and keep peace in the world, that peace which alone can ensure the development of peoples. Amen.

The FUEL DONATION RAFFLE DRAW will be TODAY at the end of the 10:00 am Gospel Mass.
Good Luck to Everyone!!

St. Joseph the Worker, 1st May 2023

[Pope Francis January 12, 2022]

St. Joseph the Carpenter. Jesus practiced his father's trade. It was quite a hard job, having to work with heavy materials such as wood, stone, and iron. From an economic point of view, it did not ensure great earnings. When as an adult he began to preach, his astonished neighbors asked: "But where did this man get this wisdom and these mighty works?" (Mt 13:54), and were scandalized by him (cf. v. 57), because he was the son of the carpenter, but he spoke like a doctor of the law, and they were scandalized by this.

This biographical fact about Joseph and Jesus makes me think of all the workers in the world, especially those who do grueling work in mines and certain factories; those who are exploited through undocumented work; the victims of labor: we have seen a lot of this in Italy recently; the children who are forced to work and those who rummage among the trash in search of something useful to trade...

[Let us think] of the victims of work, who suffer from work accidents. Of the children who are forced to work: this is terrible! A child at the age of play, who should be playing, is forced to work like an adult! Children are forced to work. And of those—poor people!—who rummages in the dumps to look for something useful to trade: they go to the dumps... All these are our brothers and sisters, who earn their living this way: they don't give them dignity! Let us think about this. And this is happening today, in the world, this is happening today.

But I think too of those who are out of work. How many people go knocking on the doors of factories, of businesses [asking] "Is there anything to do?"—"No, there's nothing, there's nothing. [I think] of those who feel their dignity wounded because they cannot find this work. They return home: "And? Have you found something?"—"No, nothing... I went to Caritas and I brought bread."

What gives dignity is not bringing bread home. You can get it from Caritas—no, this doesn't give you dignity. What gives you dignity is earning bread—and if we don't give our people, our men and women, the ability to earn bread, that is a social injustice in that place, in that nation, in that continent. The leaders must give everyone the possibility of earning bread because this ability to earn gives them dignity. It is an unction of dignity, work. And this is important.

It is good to think about the fact that Jesus himself worked and learned this craft from St. Joseph. Today, we should ask ourselves what we can do to recover the value of work; and what contribution we can make, as the Church, so that work can be redeemed from the logic of mere profit and can be experienced as a fundamental right and duty of the person, which expresses and increases his or her dignity
