Bishop Joseph Strickland tells Catholics to 'speak for what you believe' in powerful speech at Dodgers protest (LifeSiteNews,

June 17, 2023) — Bishop Joseph Strickland of Tyler, Texas, called on Catholics to "speak to the world the message of Jesus Christ" and be "ready to die" for Him in a powerful speech at a protest Friday night, June 16, against the L.A. Dodgers' blasphemous "Pride Night." "Brothers and sisters, we can't be shy about our faith," he said to cheers, urging Catholics to "be strong enough to speak for what you believe." Bishop Strickland led Catholics and other protesters in a massive prayer rally at Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles, protesting the Dodgers' honoring of the "Sister of Perpetual Indulgence" a blasphemous anti-Catholic drag queen group. The

"Sisters" use their homosexual perversion to mock the Catholic Church and religious sisters and blaspheme the Eucharist and the Holy Mass.

Please join us Sunday nights 6pm at St. Therese to pray the Rosary & litany for our world & personal intentions before Jesus in the Tabernacle.

Pope Francis Must Stop the Madness

Fr. Gerald E. Murray, J.C.D., The Wanderer (March 2, 2023)

The situation of the Catholic Church at present is one of grave disorder, due in large part to the willingness of Pope Francis to say, do, and tolerate things that no pope in history has ever said, done, or tolerated.

His recent off-the-cuff remarks instructing priests not to deny absolution to anyone who comes to Confession, for instance. This is in direct contradiction to the teaching of the Church concerning the requisite dispositions required for the valid reception of God's pardon in the sacrament of penance. Penitents who, for whatever reason, refuse to repent of the sins they may accuse themselves of in confession cannot be absolved.... An obstinate sinner should never be given absolution for an offense for which he is not repentant. His refusal to abjure his sins renders him incapable of receiving God's sacramental pardon. What is the logic of absolving someone who clings to his sins? ... Yet that is what Pope Francis told priests they should do.

This moral laxism is accompanied by a regrettable hesitancy to defend, vigorously and publicly, the Church's teaching on matters of sexual morality when that teaching is openly repudiated by Cardinals, bishops, and priests. Courageous defenders of the Church's moral teachings are unfairly vilified as ideologues, pharisees, rigorists, propagators of rigidity, "backwardists." Critics of those teachings, such as Cardinals Hollerich, Marx, McElroy, Bishop Bätzing, and Fr. James Martin, S.J. are given papal favor and influential roles. There is no meaningful papal rebuke or discipline for their persistent campaigns to overthrow the moral and anthropological teachings of the Church.

No one is being fired for attempting to change the Church's unchangeable teaching that God created us male and female; that the only morally good use of the sexual faculty is the physical union of man and wife in marriage, in view of propagating the human race in a faithful, loving, and permanent marital bond. We are incessantly bombarded with propaganda asserting that God made some people with "same-sex" attraction and therefore He must intend for them to act upon their sexual desires; that sodomy is as good and holy a use of the sexual faculty as marital intercourse, and thus unions based on sodomy deserve the Church's blessing; that God made some people to have a male body who are really female, and vice versa. This intolerable wave of doctrinal error is sweeping over the Church while Pope Francis remains largely passive and silent.

The preparations for the October Synod on Synodality are being determined by the heterodox campaigning of those enjoying papal favor. Instead of discussing ways of defending the Church's contested moral teachings, those teachings themselves are under assault in the discussions underway. The hoped-for result of this relentless questioning of doctrines that have always been taught by the Church as unchangeable would be a gradually growing acceptance by the faithful of a supposed need to re-examine whether those teachings really are unchangeable, given the alleged "new world" in which we are living. Predictable claims about a shift in Catholic public opinion (real or fabricated) will then be followed by a new "Spirit-inspired" proclamation that Catholic teaching was in fact wrong about homosexuality and transgenderism, etc.

Tolerance of doctrinal error is not part of the mandate given by Our Lord to St. Peter, and the Apostles and their successors. If those successors fail in their duty, they inflict harm upon the faithful. Souls are put at risk by those shepherds who teach men to love sin and reject virtue. It is completely beyond the power (ultra vires) of any pope, Cardinal or bishop to change the unchangeable moral and anthropological teachings of the Church. It's false and reprehensible to claim that there are no such things as unchangeable teachings, or that what was considered unchangeable in times past can become changeable in more "enlightened" times.

We are not accustomed to a situation in which opposition to various acts of the pope and his chosen associates is not at all a form of disloyalty, but rather a requirement of fraternal charity flowing from the primordial loyalty owed to God and His revelation by those who serve Jesus Christ in the Church. When error and immorality are propagated by those charged by Christ with refuting error and discouraging immorality, our duty is to call out those shepherds, rebuking them with the charity of truth....

Pope Francis' manifest neglect of his duty to defend the Church's teaching in the face of grave errors urgently calls for a "tough love," i.e., intervention in which courageous Cardinals and bishops, setting aside customary politeness and deference, frankly tell the pope that this madness must be stopped. Now.

Tens of thousands of children are alive today because Roe v. Wade was overturned

(LifeSiteNews, June 19, 2023): This Saturday marks one year since the Dobbs v. Jackson decision from the U.S. Supreme Court declared that abortion is not a constitutional right in America and inaugurated the post-Roe era. State-level battles promptly ensued, with some pro-life laws immediately going into effect, and abortion activists gaining success in states such as Michigan and Montana. So what is the state of the abortion wars one year after Dobbs? Reliable data estimated that a total of 32,260 fewer abortions were committed in the United States in the first six months after *Dobbs—with Bloomberg reporting that in “Alabama, Arkansas, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, West Virginia and Wisconsin — there were 265 abortions per month on average from July to December. That’s a 96% drop from April and May.” Despite a relentless torrent of negative news coverage attempting to portray abortion as essential and pro-life laws as cruel and dangerous, Gallup showed a slight increase in pro-life sentiment.

We still have a number of parishioners who have not picked up their Main Raffle tickets in the back of church. Please do so. Also, some Festival signs remain for the taking. It is very important that our parishioners get sponsorships for the Festival. Please consider doing a sponsorship from yourself, family members, friends or solicit businesses that you frequent and familiar with. The sponsorships go a long way to help offset the cost of putting on Kenosha's Best Church Festival.

We will be needing help in setting up & taking down the Festival grounds on Thursday, July 13th and Monday, July 17th starting both days at 8:30am. Lunch will be served both days to the workers. Any questions regarding the Festival & sponsorships you can call Tom Rizzo at H-262-595-0525 or C-262-818-3540 or Claudia Presta at 262-914-0672
