End of Life Decisions

There is an insert in this edition of the Bulletin entitled, "Making End-of-Life Decisions as an Informed Catholic." The insert comes to us from the Archdiocese of New York and the New York State Catholic Conference.

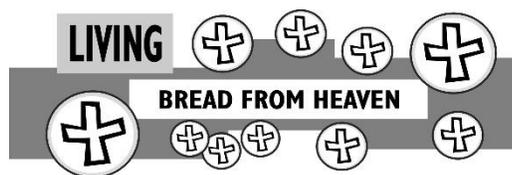

There are often very difficult decisions to be made about the use of medical technology at the end of life. Which procedures can be considered ordinary and proportionate? Which would have to be judged extraordinary and disproportionate? The former should be provided to those who are ill. The latter need not be.

Sometimes what is ordinary treatment for a young person, e.g. invasive surgery, is extraordinary for a very elderly person. As the insert states: "Declining disproportionate treatment is not the same as killing a person – it is accepting the inevitability of death by natural causes."

It all gets rather complicated, especially when one considers the context of the times in which we live, with the frequency of "assisted suicide" and euthanasia. These are never morally acceptable acts. Consider these words of Pope Francis and Pope St. John Paul II:

"Palliative care is an expression of the truly human attitude of taking care of one another, especially of those who suffer. It is a testimony that the human person is always precious, even if marked by illness and old age. Indeed the person, under any circumstances, is an asset to him/herself and to others and is loved by God. This is why, when their life becomes very fragile and the end of their early existence approaches, we feel the responsibility to assist and accompany them in the best way."
(Pope Francis, Address to the Pontifical Academy of Life, March 5, 2015)

"True 'compassion' leads to sharing another's pain; it does not kill the person whose suffering we cannot bear. Moreover, the act of euthanasia appears all the more perverse if it is carried out by those, like relatives, who are supposed to treat a family member with patience and love, or by those, such as doctors, who by virtue of their specific profession are supposed to care for the sick person even in the most painful terminal stages."
(Pope St. John Paul II, The Gospel of Life)

Words of Pope Francis (Part I of III)

"Three words sum up Mary's attitude: listening, decision and action. They are words that point out a way for us too as we face what the Lord asks of us in life. Listening, decision, action

Listening. What gave rise to Mary's act of going to visit her relative Elizabeth? A word of God's angel: 'Elizabeth in her old age has also conceived a son' (Luke 1:36). Mary knew how to listen to God. Be careful: it was not merely hearing, a superficial word, but it was listening, which consists of attention, acceptance and availability to God. It was not in the distracted way which we sometimes face the Lord or others: we hear their words, but we do not really listen. Mary is attentive to God. She listens to God.

However, Mary also listens to the events—that is, she interprets the events of her life; she is attentive to reality itself and does not stop on the surface but goes to the depths to grasp its meaning. Her kinswoman Elizabeth, who is already elderly, is expecting a child; this is the event. But Mary is attentive to the meaning. She can understand it: 'with God nothing will be impossible' (Luke 1:37).

This is also true in our life: listening to God who speaks to us, and listening also to daily reality, paying attention to people, to events, because the Lord is at the door of our life and knocks in many ways; he puts signs on our path, and he gives us the ability to see them. Mary is the mother of listening, of attentive listening to God and of equally attentive listening to the events of life."
