Beware of Scam Emails

Earlier this year, several parishioners received scam emails pretending to be from members of our parish staff. We want to remind everyone to remain cautious, as these scams can still occur.

Please remember: if the parish or clergy needs something from you personally, we will contact you directly by phone or in person to schedule a meeting.

We will never ask for gift cards, money, or personal information through suspicious emails or text messages.

Please stay vigilant and do not fall victim to these scam attempts. If you are unsure about a message claiming to be from the parish, contact the parish office before responding.

Thank you for helping keep our parish community safe!

Fifteenth Week in Ordinary Time

Jesus teaches through the parable of the Sower, inviting us to reflect on how we receive the Word of God in our daily lives. The seed of his word is always generously sown, but fruitfulness depends on the condition of our hearts.

This week calls us to examine whether we are truly open to God's voice or distracted by worry, busyness, or worldly concerns. Christ encourages us to become fertile soil hearts that are receptive, faithful, and willing to be transformed by his grace. As we grow in discipleship, we are reminded that even small acts of faith can yield an abundant harvest when rooted in God's love.

Our Lady of the Mountains Thanks FOCUS priests!

The parish extends heartfelt gratitude to Father Mathias for his faithful service, pastoral care, and generous presence among us. We are especially grateful for his support and dedication in his role with the Focus Team, where ministry has helped strengthen and inspire many. We thank him for the time shared with our community and assure him of our prayers as he continues his priestly mission.

May God bless him abundantly in all that lies ahead.

A Message from Archbishop Golka

As members of the Archdiocese of Denver, we are blessed to have the guidance of our Shepherd, Archbishop James Golka. In light of recent events concerning the Society of St. Pius X (SSPX), Archbishop Golka has shared a pastoral letter encouraging us to remain united in Christ and steadfast in the communion of the Catholic Church. We invite all parishioners to take a few moments to read his message and reflect on his words of faith, hope, and unity. And a link will be provided in our flock note to the letter and website as well. Thank you for joining us in praying for the unity of the church and for all those seeking to follow Christ faithfully.

Office of the Archbishop

July 7, 2026

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

Grace and peace to you in our Lord Jesus Christ.

I write to you regarding the Society of St. Pius X (SSPX). After a warning from the Holy See not to conduct episcopal ordinations, the Society proceeded on July 1, without papal authority, to consecrate four new bishops. The Holy See has since notified those involved that by their actions they have incurred excommunication in accordance with the law of the Roman Catholic Church. This has caused a grave wound to the unity of the Church.

This is a sorrowful moment for us all. Every division within the Body of Christ stands in contrast to Jesus' prayer at the Last Supper: "that they may all be one" (John 17:21). Apostolic succession (communion with the successor of St. Peter, the first pope) is an essential mark of the Church established by Jesus Christ.

While many faithful Catholics have a deep love for the Church's liturgical traditions, this situation is not about the form of the Mass. At its heart is full communion with the Church and fidelity and obedience to the Holy Father.

As your shepherd, I have a responsibility to provide clear guidance. Out of care for souls, I must instruct the faithful of the Archdiocese of Denver to refrain from participating in the activities of SSPX in any location, including these locations within our archdiocese:

St. Isidore
32100 E. Colfax Ave.
Watkins, CO 80137

Annunciation Chapel Society of St. Pius X
290 E. County Road 56
Fort Collins, CO 80524

I know this news will be difficult for some who sincerely love the Church and have been drawn to SSPX. I encourage all the faithful to remain rooted in parish life, the celebration of the sacraments, and unity with the Holy Father. If you know individuals involved with SSPX, accompany them through this with charity, patience, and prayer, always reflecting the love of Christ. Laity involved with the SSPX community who wish to worship Christ in communion with the Church are welcome in any of our parishes; you may feel especially at home at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, in Littleton, where the Priestly Fraternity of St. Peter celebrates the traditional Latin Mass.

Let us pray for the bishops, priests, religious, and faithful associated with SSPX, asking the Holy Spirit to heal this painful division within the Church.

Please also join me in praying for Pope Leo XIV, and for the unity of the Church throughout the world.

Mary, Mother of the Church, and St. Catherine of Siena, Doctor of the Church, pray for us.

Sincerely in Christ,

+ James R. Golka

FAQ regarding SSPX and Schism

Updated: July 5, 2026

Q: What is the Society of St. Pius X (SSPX)?

A: The Society of St. Pius X (SSPX) was founded in 1970 by French Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre, who opposed several teachings of the Second Vatican Council (1962–1965), including those concerning ecumenism, religious liberty, collegiality among bishops with the pope, and the Church's relationship with Judaism. The Society also rejected the liturgical reforms that followed the Council. Today, the SSPX operates seminaries, schools, chapels, and missions throughout the world.

Q: What happened on July 1, 2026?

A: On July 1, 2026, the Society of St. Pius X proceeded with the unauthorized ordination of four bishops in Écône, Switzerland, without a pontifical mandate, despite repeated appeals from Pope Leo XIV and the Holy See not to do so. The Holy See declared these ordinations a schismatic act.¹ The bishops who ordained and those who were ordained incurred canonical censures, and the Dicastery for the Doctrine of the Faith subsequently issued norms for the reconciliation of SSPX clergy and faithful who wish to return to full communion with the Catholic Church.

Q: What is schism in the Catholic Church?

A: Schism is the refusal of submission to the Pope or of communion with those who are united with him.² It is a grave rupture of the Church's visible unity.

Q: What does it mean to be in full communion with the Catholic Church?

A: Catholics are in full communion with the Church when they are united by the profession of the Catholic faith, participation in the sacraments, and communion with the Pope and the bishops in union with him.³

Q: What is the Vatican's position on the Society of St. Pius X?

A: The Holy See has declared the July 1, 2026, episcopal ordinations a schismatic act and has established norms for the reconciliation of priests and certain lay faithful associated with the Society of St. Pius X. These norms reaffirm the Church's desire for reconciliation while requiring full acceptance of the teachings of the Second Vatican Council, fidelity to the Roman Pontiff, and acceptance of the legitimacy of the Church's liturgy, sacraments, and discipline.

Q: What if I have attended an SSPX chapel?

A: The Dicastery for the Doctrine of the Faith makes clear that not every lay person who has attended an SSPX chapel bears the same level of canonical responsibility. Those who attended only for liturgical or spiritual reasons and did not reject the authority of the Pope or the teaching of the Church are not presumed to have incurred a penalty. The Dicastery encourages these faithful simply to return to worship in full communion with the Catholic Church and not to attend SSPX liturgies in the future. Anyone with questions about his or her situation is encouraged to speak with a parish priest.

Q: May Catholics attend SSPX Masses or participate in SSPX activities?

A: No. Out of pastoral concern for the faithful, Archbishop James R. Golka instructs Catholics in the Archdiocese of Denver to refrain from participating in the liturgies, sacraments, or activities of the Society of St. Pius X. Catholics are encouraged to worship at parishes and chapels that are in full communion with the Catholic Church.

Q: What about the sacraments?

A: Baptism is almost certainly valid regardless of the minister's standing in the Church, so a baptism celebrated by an SSPX priest remains real and need not be repeated. The Confessions and Marriages illicit when performed by an SSPX priest.⁴ If you have a marriage scheduled with the SSPX please contact your local diocesan priest as soon as possible, to help ensure your upcoming marriage can be sacramentally valid.

Q: Is reconciliation possible?

A: Yes. The Church always desires reconciliation. The Dicastery for the Doctrine of the Faith has established a process for SSPX clergy and certain lay faithful who wish to return to full communion with the Catholic Church.⁵ Reconciliation includes a profession of faith, acceptance of the teachings of the Second Vatican Council, recognition of the legitimacy of the Church's liturgy and sacraments, fidelity to the Holy Father, and, where applicable, the remission of canonical censures.
