From The Deacon's Desk...

Reading from Isaiah we glimpse the ultimate aim of Christian stewardship: Giving glory to God. "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lord God of hosts! All the earth is filled with his glory!" This proclamation inspires the familiar hymn we sing at the end of the Preface of the Eucharistic Prayer; a very ancient proclamation in our liturgy. We were born to give God glory, and we proclaim it by the way we live the Eucharist and bear witness to the gospel of Jesus Christ.

En la primera lectura de Isaías nosotros obtenemos una visión del objetivo final de la corresponsabilidad cristiana: dar gloria a Dios. "¡Santo, Santo, Santo es el Señor de los ejércitos! ¡Toda la tierra está llena de su gloria!" Esta proclamación inspira el conocido himno que nosotros cantamos al final del Prefacio de la Oración Eucarística, una proclamación muy antigua en nuestra liturgia. Nosotros nacimos para dar gloria a Dios, y lo proclamamos en la manera en la que vivimos la Eucaristía y damos testimonio del Evangelio de Jesucristo.

Pope calls for respectful dialogue with other religions

By Editor Catholic News Service, February 1, 2016.

(UCAN)--Pope Francis urged Catholics in Asia to commit to "respectful dialogue" with followers of other religions in a video message at the closing Mass of the 51st International Eucharistic Congress in Cebu City on Jan. 31.

"This prophetic witness most often takes place, as we know, through the dialogue of life," Pope Francis told more than 1 million people, including some 12,500 delegates from 73 countries, who attended the weeklong international gathering.

Through the "testimony of lives transformed by God's love," Catholics best proclaim the promise of "reconciliation, justice and unity for the human family," he said.

The pontiff urged Catholics to "go forth as missionaries to bring the message of the Father's tenderness and mercy" and follow Jesus' example by reaching out to others in a "spirit of respect and openness in order to share with them the gifts we ourselves have received."

"We are called to bring the bond of God's merciful love to the whole humanity," said Pope Francis, adding that every Catholic is called to bring the good news of Christ's "redemptive love to a world in such need of reconciliation, justice and peace."

"Christ's presence among us is not only a consolation, but also a promise and a summons," he said, adding that it is important for every Christian "to be a true missionary disciple" in the midst of conflicts, injustices and humanitarian crises being experienced around the world.

"We know how important it was for Jesus to share meals with his disciples, but also, and especially, with sinners and the outcast," he said, adding that Jesus "was able to listen to others, to hear their stories, to appreciate their hopes and aspirations."

"Pope Francis again lauded the Filipino people's faith and resilience amid disasters as he recalled his visit to the country in January last year.

"I was able to witness at first hand the deep faith and resilience of its people," the pope said, adding that since the Filipino people received the faith some 500 years ago "they have given the world an example of fidelity and deep devotion to the Lord and his church."

The Catholic faith arrived in the Philippines in 1521 when Portuguese explorer Ferdinand Magellan landed on the island of Cebu. The pope said Filipinos have since then become missionaries, "spreading the light of the Gospel in Asia and to the ends of the Earth."

Pope Francis pointed out that even as super typhoon Haiyan devastated the country in 2013, "it also brought in the goodness of others ... an immense outpouring of solidarity, generosity, and goodness."

In his homily, Cardinal Charles Maung Bo of Yangon, the pope's personal envoy to the congress, thanked Filipinos for their hospitality and for "making us proud to be Catholics."

"The fruits of [the International Eucharistic Congress] should be renewed apostolic and missionary zeal. Go and proclaim Christian hope. Philippines need hope. The church needs hope, our family needs hope," said the cardinal from Myanmar.

The prelate called on Catholics to reach out to young people, saying that "instead of expecting the youth to return to the church, the church must return to the youth."

"A church that neglects the youth writes its own death sentence," said Cardinal Bo.
