From The Deacon's Desk...

In today's reading from the prophet Isaiah, there is a guarantee that the unleashing of God's Word will bear much fruitfulness. The Word of God will accomplish whatever God sends it forth to do. His Word is given to us as a gift to be nurtured, shared and made to "bear fruit." The góspel warns that the seed may not always fall where it will flourish without further assistance. As stewards and disciples we are sent to cultivate the grond both before and after the seed is scattered. The challenge is whether or not we are exercising good stewardship over God's Word. Have we been "fruitful" and unleashed God's Word? Do we share it or do we leave that task to others?

En la lectura de hoy del profeta Isaías, hay una certeza de que la Palabra de Dios esparcida dará fruto abundante en el mundo. La Palabra de Dios completará todo aquello para lo que Dios la ha enviado. Su Palabra nos es dada como un don para ser cultivado, compartido y hecho para "producir fruto." La pregunta es si estamos ejercitando, o no, una buena corresponsabilidad de la palabra de Dios. ¿Hemos sido "productivos" con la Palabra de Dios? ¿Hemos esparcido la palabra de Dios? ¿Compartimos nosotros la Palabra de Dios, o dejamos esta tarea a otros?

Naumann: 'Pope Francis's job isn't to make a bishop's life easier'

By Editor, Catholic News Service, July 12, 2017

(CRUX) Archbishop Joseph Naumann of Kansas City-Kansas has a reputation for being one of the most staunchly orthodox, doctrinally firm members of the American hierarchy, and he candidly concedes a maverick pontiff such as Pope Francis sometimes makes his life difficult.

"The pope's given us a lot of teaching opportunities, I'll say that!" Naumann said, laughing.

"He's comfortable with more ambiguity than previous popes. He wants more of a dialogue on these issues, but he is also clear that he hasn't changed any teaching."

Naumann added in joking fashion, "I've heard individuals say that [Francis] shouldn't give interviews above a certain altitude, because it seems like he creates teaching moments for us at that point!" referring to the pope's in-flight news conferences at the end of foreign trips.

"For those of us who are charged with teaching and preserving the truth, which is part of his role and our role as bishops, I think he's in some ways made it more complicated," Naumann said.

Then, however, he delivered the money quote: "But maybe his job isn't necessarily to make our life easy."

Naumann spoke to Crux during the "Convocation of Catholic Leaders: July 1-4" in Orlando, Florida, a gathering of almost 3,500 bishops, clergy, religious and laity.

The 68-year-old Naumann said that worrying trend lines such as the rise of people with no religious affiliation and defections from the Church are symptoms of something deeper, which is a failure to foster a personal relationship with Jesus Christ.

"I think there is this longing to encounter Jesus Christ, but we need to facilitate that better within the Church. I think once people have that, it creates an openness to our teaching, our dogma, and people long to try and cultivate the virtues," Naumann said.

"In our Archdiocese, that's our super-priority: Trying to create a culture of evangelization in our parish communities, and in every aspect of the Church. For instance, we have a doctor who's been evangelizing his fellow doctors to come once a month for ongoing formation. That's the kind of thing that I hope we can multiply in many ways, and really help our Church be more 'mission-oriented' than 'maintenance-oriented.'

The Archbishop continued, "Years ago at the University of Kansas there was this integrated humanities program run by John Senior and his colleagues, which diagnosed that one of the great problems is people were becoming disconnected from creation, from reality, from beauty first of all.

They were talking about television and things like that, much more so today with young people who are so tied into the means of communication.

They're wonderful and can do great things, but there is, as I see it, a great loneliness amongst people, a great disconnectedness. I think we see this in the family life, which has become broken in so many ways."

Question of the Week

15th Sunday—Matthew 13:1-23

Key Passage: "This is why I speak to them in parables, because 'they look but do not see and hear but do not listen or understand'. Isaiah's prophesy is fulfilled in them which says: 'Gross is the heart of this people, they will hardly hear with their ears, they have closed their eyes, lest they see with their eyes and hear with their ears and understand with their hearts and be converted and I heal them'."

Question for adults: When has you're your heart opened your eyes and/or your ears?

Question for children: How do you see or hear with your heart?
