27th Sunday in Ordinary Time

At some point in life, everyone gets measured. Report cards, evaluations, test scores, driver exams, and license exams grade our knowledge, ability or accomplishments. Informal evaluations look at our abilities or our work to see how well we did as an amateur gardener or musician or ballplayer. We want to know how well we did and compare ourselves to some standard to see if we 'measure up.' When we do, we can take pride in our efforts and try to do even better next time.

The spiritual life has its form of measurement too. When we are focused on God's will and put our faith into practice, we experience God's peace. St. Paul says that this peace will 'stand guard' over our hearts and minds. There is a sense of satisfaction as we reap the rewards of faith—things that are true, good, pure and decent. Everyone has a role to play and no one is excluded. There is a place for everyone and every gift.

When your spiritual life needs a boost, practice your faith. Be kind to others, serve the poor, practice acts of kindness, pray more fervently, attend daily Mass or read the Gospels carefully. Give faith a more central and prominent role in your life. You'll find that grace will help you measure up!

~James Gaffney © Pilot Bulletins

*A*lmighty and eternal God of the world, your goodness is beyond what our spirit can touch and your strength is more than the mind can bear. Lead us to seek beyond our reach and give us the courage to stand before your truth.

Many of our retired priests regularly fill in on weekends, cover vacations and serve in prison ministry.
