OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST,
KING OF THE UNIVERSE

NOVEMBER 22, 2020

Giving Thanks for the Things We Do–Together

Today we celebrate the great solemnity of Our Lord Jesus Christ, King of the Universe. In the gospel, we're placed right in the heart of Jesus' great teaching about when he comes again. He comes, of course, in glory as a king who takes his place on a throne. And we're all seated before him. It's a time of judgement.

That's when he begins to separate those who helped people with basic needs from those who didn't feel a need to do it. Those who helped, share life with him forever. That's because Jesus identifies himself with our human experience and makes himself present to us; that presence doesn't discriminate. He's with the poor as much as he's with the wealthy. So, if we neglect someone, it's like neglecting him. But if we help someone in need, it's like helping him.

The things we do matter. But what Jesus helps us see, is that doing good things isn't about checking off items on a "to do" list; it's about having an inward disposition to be ready to help and care for those we encounter in our everyday lives regardless of who they are. It's a way of life. The Kingdom of God isn't about putting up boundaries that allow us excuse ourselves from being concerned about others, but taking those boundaries down.

As a parish, we witness over and over that our heart is with those in need. We feed the hungry, give drink to the thirsty, provide coats those who need one; we visit the sick, and we reach out to the imprisoned—not just behind bars, but those who are imprisoned in other ways, too. The things we do define us as a parish. We're trying to build up the Body of Christ in our midst (see Ephesians 4:12). The important thing is we do it together. A body needs every single part to function well, which is why we need you.

The pandemic cannot take away what we're building. If anything, it's strengthening us because we won't let it interfere with our desire to be a source of hope for those who need to see it. We keep moving forward, even though there are challenges all around us.

What makes this passage very moving, is that it leads us into this week when we celebrate Thanksgiving. This Thanksgiving will be very different for so many families this year including my own. Gathering together may have to be virtual, but it may be a Thanksgiving that leads us to truly appreciate the importance of the people in our lives who mean the most to us. We may not be able to be physically present, but we can still be very much present to one another. We can express it in words, prayers, sharing stories, laughs, tears, and simply getting on-line or on the phone to say "Thanks for being a part of my life."

As much as we enjoy Thanksgiving for the meal we share, it's really about something deeper and more profound. It's about thanking God for the love we experience in life. Instead of holding onto what we're missing, we can hold onto what we have and what nothing can take away.

Happy Thanksgiving everyone!

—Fr. Mike

Excerpts from the Lectionary for Mass ©2001, 1998, 1970 CCD

Many Americans are fascinated with England's monarchy. For many different reasons, we are drawn to the regal pageantry and all of the protocols associated with royal lifestyles. What's most amazing is that for all of the media attention focused on the comings and goings of English royalty, they really have very little effect on the day to day dealings of their country. Thoughts and images of kings and queens are often centered on this story book understanding of who and what they are. We associate protocols, etiquette, and proper words and actions to how we approach members of a royal family. These tools serve the necessary purpose of keeping them isolated, enthroned, and at a distance. There is something attractive about being an observer of ritual, pomp, and circumstance. It's almost theatrical.

Is this how we see Jesus Christ, too? We often behave as if Christ is an isolated, enthroned, royal, and even ineffective king. Jesus wants nothing to do with having the status of an earthly king. Jesus also does not want to be watched, observed, or set apart. He wants to get down and dirty with the very stuff of life especially the poor, marginalized, confused, hurting, lost, broken, imprisoned, and forgotten ones. Jesus is the king who turns the tables on us and wants not only our attention but our engagement and conversion. He wants us to get dirty too.

How we treat other people is at the heart of Christ's kingdom. "Whatever you did for one of the least brothers of mine, you did for me." At different times in our lives we are all counted among the "least" ones. We may not be physically poor, but we can easily become emotionally and spiritually poor. We may not be marginalized as many physically are, cast aside because they have too many needs or don't quite fit in. But who hasn't experienced isolation, loneliness, inner turmoil, angst, heartache, or loss? Almost every human being has experienced brokenness at one point or another, or will most definitely at some future point, facing discouragement, fear, insecurity. People are thirsty for more than water. We are imprisoned by our prejudices, misconceived notions and ideas, self-focused obsessions and ideologies. There is a lot of pain and many least ones around us. Stop, look and listen. This is what Christ the King is asking us to do. Look deeply into the eyes and soul of your sisters and brothers, all of them, and see Christ himself.

Being a spectator and observing all of the pageantry isn't enough. Jesus wants us to inherit the kingdom and live the kingdom. It is built on the blocks of love, mercy, compassion, hope, faith, and blessing. It engages those who want it, changes and informs minds, inspires and transforms hearts, converts and renews souls, and sets things right. There is such a great need around us. Are you ready and willing to do whatever you can to serve in God's kingdom?

To the Friends I've Known

By Ron Rolheiser, OMI

Recently, reading Commonweal magazine, I was struck by this line by Jerry Ryan, a Little Brother of Jesus: "I have lost contact with so many people who meant a lot to me at different stages of my life, people I loved dearly and really cared for and who had given me so much and made me what I am."

That's so true for me and, I suspect, for most of us. People enter our lives, friendships develop, and then some of those friends disappear from our lives. Sometimes we move away, sometimes they move away, sometimes things change and we drift apart, or sometimes the affective bonds that held us together disintegrate and they, and we, move on. To the degree that we're sensitive, there's always some pain and guilt in this. It's not an unhealthy thing to feel the loneliness of that loss, nor is it unhealthy to feel that somehow we've failed and been less than attentive.

Indeed sometimes we have been less than faithful, but mostly the blame for that (to the extent that some applies) lies inside our inculpable inadequacy. Only God is adequate. Only God has a heart big enough to be attentive to everyone personally and intimately at the same time. Only God never moves away or grows tired. And only God has the strength to forever be faithful. We cannot not be inadequate.

I struggle mightily with that inadequacy. Being a missionary, given the work I do, and given the quirks of my personality, I find myself perennially overwhelmed by my inadequacy in the area of staying close to family and friends, including very dear friends. The task isn't easy.

First, I come from a very large family which through the generations has expanded into a virtual tribe. It could be a fulltime job just staying in touch with family. Next, I've been ministering for more than forty years and during that time have lived inside various Oblate houses with almost two hundred different people. Community is family and, again, it would be a fulltime task just staying in meaningful touch with them all. Then, during my years of doing graduate work, I had the privileged opportunity to develop long-lasting friendships with a number of classmates from different parts of the world. Finally, during all those years of ministry, I've met hundreds of students in classrooms and thousands of people doing workshops and retreats. Most of those encounters were temporary and casual, but through the years a good number of meaningful friendships developed there as well. And, while all this was happening, I've lived and worked in four different countries and made friends in each of those places.

Then today there's the further struggle to stay in touch with all the contacts that one necessarily has to deal with on social media.

How does one keep meaningful contact with everyone? How does one not betray friends by simple neglect?

Even as I'm deeply thankful to have so rich a treasury of family and friends, not infrequently I'm overwhelmed with the task of staying in meaningful contact with them and at those times I feel some guilt about forever being out of touch with so many people I was once close to. Sometimes friends whom I have been out of touch with remind me, and not always delicately, of my neglect of our friendship. But as the years go by and the problem grows larger rather than smaller, I am making more peace with my inadequacy and guilt - if not always with some of my neglected friends.

What helps is to remind myself constantly of what a great grace it is to have so large a family and to have such a large number of friends. There are few things for which to be more grateful. Next, I do try to stay in meaningful touch with them to the extent that time, energy, and distance allow. Most importantly, though, given my inadequacy, I try to meet my family and friends at a place where time, energy, and distance are eclipsed by an immediate, intimate presence. There's one place where we're not inadequate, where we can be at more places than one at the same time and where we can love countless people individually and intimately, namely, inside the Body of Christ.

Scripture tells us that, as believers, we form together a body that, as much as any living body, is a true living organism, with all parts affecting all other parts. Inside that body we're present to each other, not fully consciously of course, but deeply, truly, actually. And to the extent that we're living our lives faithfully and sharing honest friendship and fellowship with those who are immediately around us, we're not only healthy enzymes helping bring health to the body, we're also present to each other, affectively, in a way that touches us at the deepest level of our souls. There is a place where we are not neglecting each other.

And so, to all my friends: we're still together!

LIVE THE LITURGY INSPIRATION FOR THE WEEK

Titles and privileges, palaces and guards, banquets and benefits, servants and fine living, are all things earthly folks associate with kings and royalty. These have no place in Christ. To understand the kingdom of Christ and what it means to have Christ as our king, one must be willing and able to understand transformation, engagement and empowerment. To live in the kingship of Christ, we have to live deeply and contemplatively; allowing God to change not only how we act, but how we feel, think, and see. It is not an easy journey or one that is always welcomed. Sometimes, it is easier and safer to live as if Christ were our earthly king. It's a more black and white world. But the kingdom of Christ exists in a world of gray where the hungry, thirsty, those who are strangers, naked, ill, and imprisoned find a welcome home. It is a kingdom that doesn't always make sense, where the last are first and the weakest are most strong. World economics and secular philosophy doesn't like this kind of king. Maybe that is why they crucified him the first time and continue to. Whatever we do to the least of God's children, we do to God. Do you really want to inherit the kingdom?

THANKSGIVING FOOD COLLECTION THIS WEEKEND

St. Hubert Parish Thanksgiving Food Collection will be held on November 21st & 22nd. Non-perishable food items and gift cards will benefit St. Aloysius and our Parish Community Life Program.

Please assist us with food donations that would complement any Family Thanksgiving Dinner, such as stuffing, canned vegetables, cranberries, fruits, gravy, rice, beans, pasta, hearty soups, chili, mac and cheese, dried beans, crackers, cookies and paper products.

Donations of gift cards of $25 dollars are suggested to help those families purchase a turkey, ham or other food products to make a memorable Thanksgiving dinner.

Thank you in advance for your generous donations helping less fortunate families.

Peace be with you and those you love at this time of Thanksgiving.

Helping Hands Ministry

We'd like to believe that when needing support, we all have a family member or friend close by to help out. Unfortunately, this is not always the case. Or, perhaps, a great deal of support is needed requiring more support than family members are able to provide. The Helping Hands Ministry was formed to assist members in our parish, free of charge, in various ways:

- Rides to appointments, grocery store, Mass
- Relieving a caregiver by sitting with homebound family member
- Handy work or yard work
- Housework/cleaning
- Meals for those recovering from illness
- Just ask!

To request assistance or to volunteer, please contact the St. Hubert front desk at 847-885-7700, ext. 102. Your request will be shared with the Helping Hands Coordinator.

November 2020 Playlist

Café@Home is a way to explore faith in a new way. This month the topic is lament. We've provided a playlist--a menu of options for exploring the topic. Activities may include videos, scripture, prayers, books, activity ideas, and links to additional resources.

Lamenting is a biblical term for expressing our frustration, sadness or distress to God. Please join us as we ponder this theme as a parish community, because during these last seven months there has been much to lament.

You can find the playlist with resources on our webpage:

Giving Thanks on Giving Tuesday

Persevering with Faith, Hope and Charity

We had some great plans for 2020—it was our year to celebrate 60 years as a parish. And though a lot changed in March, one thing remained the same: we hold onto our faith in Jesus Christ who centers us and compels us to help others. We're persevering because we have hope in our mission which not only engages us in our worship life, but provides compassion, education and charity to those who come to us. We're a light for many in the midst of darkness. We give thanks for our parish and what it means to us.

But the reality is that with the disruptions that COVID-19 has had on parish life, we find ourselves having to adjust financially to keep going like so many other families and small businesses have had to do. We've cut expenses, reshaped the budget, and are doing what we can.

With our overall weekly giving still below our budget by 20% since July, and without the ability to do a special collection at church, we are hoping you will consider supporting us at Thanksgiving time with a one-time gift on Giving Tuesday—a day when we pause to remember and give thanks for the many good things organizations are doing to help others.

As we work to overcome our shortfall, we truly appreciate everything everyone is already doing, week after week, month after month, to support the parish we love. We're persevering with hope, knowing God is blessing us and keeping us together. Thank you for considering a donation.

Giving Tuesday is officially December 1, 2020 but there's no reason you can't give before or after that date and see your impact instantly on our progress bar. Your donation is 100% tax-deductible to the extent allowed by the IRS, and all proceeds will benefit the ministries of our parish, which includes our church and school.

Job Support Group Meeting

9:30–11:00 AM Every Monday Morning

The Saint Hubert Job and Networking Ministry continues in its mission to assist the job seeker and job changer with the introduction of “virtual” Accountability/Job Support Group meetings via Zoom. The meetings are a way to address your career and job connection concerns with one of our team members, as well as one another, learn more about the resources available to job seekers, and to share information and support with a small group of attendees.

If you would like to register for this event, send an email with the subject, “Accountability/Job Support Group,” to sainthubertjobministry@gmail.com. You will receive an invitation to join the Zoom meeting.

November 23, 6:00–7:00 PM

Job Seeker’s Exchange

Whether you are a newcomer to the Saint Hubert Job Support Group or one of our members, feel free to attend the meeting, for job seekers, which precedes our regular Monday meeting on the 2nd and 4th Monday of each month, where you can sit in and learn from the questions and answers of others. Stop in prior to the start of our regular meeting.

Recognizing the Signs of Domestic Violence

It’s hard to tell whether a partner will eventually become abusive.

Most relationships start off normally. As time goes by, however, behaviors change. A partner may become more controlling as the relationship grows. He or she may become possessive of the other person. These changes usually don’t happen overnight. They often occur gradually. Domestic violence may look very different depending on the relationship. One thing that is very common in a domestic violence situation is that the abusive partner begins to exert power and control over the other partner in multiple ways. Knowing how to recognize the signs of domestic violence in a relationship is important.

How do I know if I’m in a domestic violence situation?

Domestic violence takes many forms - physical, psychological, economic, sexual, emotional, and spiritual. The abuser may engage in violent and controlling behaviors such as physical assault, sexual abuse, rape, threats, intimidation, harassment or humiliation. Abusers may repeatedly belittle their partners or voice constant unreasonable criticism. Some abusers exert economic control over their victims by withholding money and access to financial resources. Victims often experience feelings of deprivation and isolation. If you feel like any of these things are happening to you, you are in a domestic violence relationship.

What should I do if I feel like I’m in danger?

Reach out for help. Call the 24-hour Illinois domestic violence hotline at 877-863-6338. Learn more about domestic violence by exploring resources available through the police department or the internet.
