14TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

“Come to me, all you who labor and are burdened,
and I will give you rest.” - Mt 11:28-30

The Invitation

The gospels are speckled with invitations from Jesus. “Come and see.” “Follow me.” “What are you looking for?” “What do you want me to do for you?” “I must stay at your house.” “Do you want to be healed?” Those are just to name a few.

Jesus invites us to see more about what life with him is all about. Ultimately, he is leading us to God the Father. And as we hear him tell us in the gospel today, it doesn’t require years of wisdom to know the way, just the heart of a child, because the heart of a child is open to being loved, surprised, amazed, taught and held.

And so, today we hear one of Jesus’ invitations that’s hard to pass up. “Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest.” He wants us to know we can lean on him. Spiritually, it’s comforting to hear when we’re going through very difficult times in life and feel overwhelmed. It’s an invitation to pray and to bring what we’re going through to Jesus who will walk with us through whatever it is we have to face. He may not remove the burden, but will help us lift it to keep us moving forward.

But, interestingly, it’s also something we can think about when others make us feel a relationship with God is out of reach, too hard, or just unattainable unless we have advanced degrees in theology—years of schooling and wisdom.

When Jesus says, “Take my yoke upon you and learn from me,” he’s referencing the yoke of the Old Testament law that the wise religious leaders in his day put on everyone’s shoulders. It was too hard to bear and lift because it restricted any kind of movement. Jesus’ yoke—his teaching, which is based in the law to love—allows us to easily pick up the yoke of the law, which will move us closer to God. His yoke is easy because he gives us the freedom to choose it.

If we want to know the Father, we can. Know Jesus who shows us the way to him. The invitation is always before us.

New Beginnings

Jesus’ invitation to come to him is also good to hear as we begin the work of uniting Saints Matthew and Hubert. The prayer that unites us is the Mass, which the Church calls the source and summit of our Catholic faith life. It’s like the heartbeat of the Body of Christ, because it keeps us going. It keeps us in synch. And the good news is that whether we gather at St. Hubert Church or St. Matthew Church, we experience the same presence of Christ who unites us, strengthens us, and walks with us.

Please know that Fr. Matt and I are committed to giving you 100% as we work between the two locations. Don’t hesitate to call us or reach out to us. The people at the St. Matthew site will also be introduced to our three deacons at Masses over the course of the month—Deacons Steve Baldasti, Allen Tatara and Larry Smith.

When we gather for Mass, and pray with each other, we’re answering Jesus’ invitation to “come to me.” We may be about 3 miles apart, but we’re closer than we think. The Mass has the power to bring us together.

As we head into the future, one filled with hope, let’s continue to pray for each other and with each other.

—Fr. Mike

*Take my yoke upon you and learn from me,
for I am meek and humble of heart;
and you will find rest for yourselves.
—Matthew 11:29*

Do you ever feel restless? I certainly do. Daily tasks and challenges, but also the more basic demand of simply existing – sooner or later, this can all feel crushing and tire us out.

Which is why Jesus' words are such stunningly good news: "Come to me all you who labor and are burdened and I will give you rest" (Matthew 11:28). How vastly weird that this man speaks as though he is capable of giving us the deep repose we desire. Is his claim the height of absurd grandiosity? No, because next he immediately proclaims that he is "meek and humble of heart." We here touch a mystery: Jesus is capable of giving us rest because he is the one who forever reposes in the heart of God the Father. He is "yoked" to the Father in his divinity. But he is humbly "yoked" to us, sharing in our humanity.

The good news, my fellow tired-out friends: we don't have to despair in our burdens and exhaustion, no matter how heavy they feel. This week, join me in opening our hearts to hear him say to us, "Come! I will give you rest." We come to him in the Church, Eucharist, the Scriptures, prayer, in the poor. There he will give us rest.

— Father John Muir

Finding Rest for Our Souls

Several years ago, Yale philosopher, Nicholas Wolterstorff, wrote a book entitled, Lament for a Son. It's a chronicle of his struggles to come to grips with the death of his 25 year old son, Eric, who died in a mountain climbing accident.

His approach is like Job's. He keeps asking: "Why? Why was a young person with such potential so tragically struck down? How does one make sense of a life that ends before it's given a chance to really achieve anything?"

Assessing Eric's untimely death, he comments: "His project was never finished. His notes lie mute in boxes. ... Does that matter? Most human beings do not contribute to the cultural deposit of humanity. They live out lives of routine as farmers, as housewives, as factory workers, as husbands, as mothers, as fathers; after two or three generations the earth knows of them no more. Others make creative additions to culture, things that get passed on through time. Would Eric's project have been such an addition? I do not know. Does it matter? Is his death to be lamented more than the death of another twenty five year old who spent his life in routine but through that routine loved those he knew, trusted God, and cherished the earth? What is it that we carry into God's abiding kingdom? Is it only love and faith and trust? Or is it culture too? I lament all that might have been, and now well never be." (Lament for a Son, pp. 21-22)

Wolterstorff makes this lament in the face of the death of his young son. But death takes many forms and, when our youthful day dreams die, we also ask the question: "Does it matter?"

Does it matter that, for virtually all of us, our notes written and unwritten, will lie mute in boxes? Does it matter that our life stories, with all their unique and precious insights, will not interest anyone, nor indeed even be known, after we die? Does it matter that, as Thoreau says, when we reach middle age we are forced into the kind of realism that salvages a woodshed from the materials we once gathered in hopes of building a bridge to the moon, or a palace or a temple?

These are painful questions and we do not do anyone a favour if we simplistically dismiss them with the suggestion that they should not arise in someone who prays and is humble. To fear living and dying in obscurity is not a sign of megalomania. The longing to leave a mark, to be significant, to have everyone in the whole world, now and in the future, know and appreciate us, is part of the ache for immortality. That ache, whether we admit it or not, is the drive behind much of what we do.

It's also behind a lot of our restlessness. Socrates once said that we come into life possessed by a divine madness which pushes us to try to recover wholeness by embracing another, by trying to perpetuate our seed, and by trying to get others to remember our deeds. Plato and Aquinas agreed. Popular philosophies of self-development, despite their habitually excessive narcissistic quality, say the same thing. They tell us that something inside of us needs "to plant a tree, have a child and write a book!"

But we don't need anyone to tell us this. The ache for immortality is part of our hard wiring, an instinct nearly synonymous with our drive for life itself. We are compulsively driven to leave something behind which will tell future generations that we were significant. Only in a true saint, in someone whose faith in God is so strong that he or she knows and trusts that the only mark (whether one is speaking of love or cultural achievement) which truly remains is the hidden mark one makes in the body of Christ, is this ache transformed so that it no longer restlessly haunts our every action. Those of us who aren't saints play out and act out the same familiar tapes and scripts. We compulsively plant trees, have children, and write books because we are in the business of trying to make some immortality for ourselves.

When Christ says: "Come to me all you who labor and are heavy burdened, and I will give you rest," the rest of which he speaks is not a rest that we can give ourselves through a good night's sleep or a good vacation. It's a much deep rest, a rest for the soul, a rest from all the compulsive restlessness that emanates from our congenital propensity to achieve that special something that would forever leave a mark.

Join Our Prayer Shawl Ministry

We welcome you to join our ministry! We are open to skilled, as well as new, stitchers. We look forward to prayerfully working toward God's ever present love and fellowship through the Prayer Shawl Ministry.

We gather the first Sunday on each month, 1-2:30 PM in the Parish Ministry Center on the St. Hubert Campus. We start back up on Sunday, September 10 (second Sunday of the month because of Labor day).

Do you know someone who needs a prayer shawl...perhaps a family member or a friend? A prayer shawl can be that special tangible gift as a reminder of God's ever present Love.

To learn more about the ministry or to request a Prayer Shawl please contact Marie Staffa at 847-885-7700, ext. 124 or mstaffa@sainthubert.org.

VISIT OUR PRAYER GARDEN

In the middle of the NW suburbs is a prayer oasis located behind St. Matthew Church.

Take a break from a busy day to pray, reflect or enjoy nature at our beautiful Marian Grotto or walk the Stations of the Cross.

The Garden is open from sunrise to sunset year round.

This month's Food Drive is on JULY 15 & 16

Donations of food and grocery gift cards will benefit St. Aloysius Sharing Parish.

BAPTISMAL MINISTERS

The Baptism team needs help! We need extra hands to help with Sunday Baptisms. It will not take a lot of your time and I promise you will find it rewarding.

Time/Talent Needs:

Baptismal Ministers provide a climate of hospitality for the parents of the babies coming for baptism, as well as their relatives and friends. These ministers also assist the priest or deacon, as necessary.

Qualifications:

A sense of hospitality. An ability to make others feel comfortable and welcome. A love for children. The opportunity to observe a couple of Sunday afternoon baptisms.

Level of Commitment:

Baptisms take place every 2nd & 4th Sunday afternoon at three time slots 1:30-2:30; 2:30-3:30; 3:30-4:30. You can sign-up for any time slot or two or three! We understand that your availability might vary, depending on the time of year on average we estimate attending a baptism once every six weeks to two months.

Contact:

Please call Mike Keenan at 847-885-7703 or email him at mkeenan@sainthubert.org.

Come join the Knights of Columbus Council 6964 every 2nd Thursday of the month at 6:30 as they pray the Rosary.

The Knights welcome all to join them at St Hubert Church. Spend some prayer-filled moments at church. Bring your Rosary and join this community in prayer.

CHILDREN'S MINISTRY OF INITIATION CMI Sacramental Preparation THE BEST EXERCISE... WALKING WITH GOD

Children's Ministry of Initiation (CM) is a family centered program. If you wish to have your child initiated (receive the sacraments of Baptism, Confirmation, Eucharist) into the Catholic Church, but have not been actively practicing and wish to resume practicing, this process would be a great place for your family to journey together. The instructional sessions take place over the course of the standard school year for two years. This process provides for the catechetical (teaching religious principle by questions and answers) needs of the students, and guides them through the various rites of the Church which will lead to their initiation during the Easter Vigil.

For more information, contact Marie Staffa at 847-885-7700, ext. 124 or mstaffa@sainthubert.org. Classes will be held on the St Hubert Campus
