AUGUST 20, 2023

Well done, good and faithful servant

In loving memory of
Rev. Michael Scherschel

Dear Parish Family,

It has been quite a journey for us lately, hasn't it? If ever there was any doubt in our minds if God was with us, we only have to look at the Gospel that followed the sudden passing of our beloved Pastor. The words of St. Peter echoed in Fr. Mike's last bulletin when he wrote, "Lord, save us!" Lord, save us. Yes, this is where we now begin, with a cry for help. Like the desperate Canaanite mother, we must not be afraid to feel our own desperation before God. Many times, over and again, Christ warned his disciples not to become self-reliant apart from God. "Without me, you can do nothing," Jesus told us (John 15:5). Like the woman in this weekend's Gospel, we humbly pick up "the scraps that fall from the master's table." (Mt. 15:27). This is where we must start, with heart-felt prayer.

Fr. Mike and I once had a very enlightening conversation. While sitting down with both Fr. Mike and Fr. Glab, I learned a lot about what their vision of parish life should consist of. Fr. Glab shared with me how important it was for the people to be properly catechized, scripturally. He is a natural and gifted teacher, so that made sense to me. Fr. Mike on the other hand emphasized the importance of being a people of prayer, not just together as a community, but even more importantly in one's own personal life, at home, where only the Father can see. I was impressed by them both, and I realized at that moment that our joined churches stand on solid foundations.

Let's begin this new bulletin article, a merged article for both churches, with a prayer. In this weekend's readings, we hear from the Prophet Isaiah, "...my house shall be called a house of prayer for all peoples." This is what we must become. Above all else, this is our priority. Without personal prayer, without that fundamental relationship with Jesus Christ, which is so precious and life-giving, then any endeavor we might have, any hope we might lean on, any goal we might have as merging communities, each with their own unique identities, will ultimately only fail. Dear family, don't be discouraged by recent events! Don't be perturbed by the cry from your hearts, "Lord, save us!" This is a great place to start - full reliance on our God who is so absolutely reliable. As St. Padre Pio famously said, "Pray, Hope, and Don't Worry."

-Fr. Matt-

Gospel Meditation

Encourage Deeper Understanding of Scripture

The suffering of a child symbolizes uniquely terrible evil as well as despair about the future. This week's Gospel gives a "limit" case in which Jesus encounters this evil in the form of a mother with a suffering daughter. What he does is stunning and massively helpful for us if we bravely ponder the details.

The Canaanite woman comes to Jesus and begs his mercy. "My daughter is tormented by a demon," she declares to him. Shockingly, he responds first with silence, then with a dismissive comment, and only then finally accedes to her third request. Is this simply a lesson in perseverance in our petitions to God, who is like a genie in a bottle? Does that justify the humiliation and pain this woman suffers? Is the Lord cruel?

I don't think so. Notice how the encounter ends. She compares herself to a dog at the table of a master. Jesus responds by praising her great faith and fulfills her deep desire. Somehow this non-Israelite woman intuits that this harrowing situation is not dumb suffering. She senses that the door of God's family is, in Jesus, being opened to her and her loved ones. She trusts she is at the Lord's table, and her desires will be fulfilled and that all her sufferings — and her daughter's, too — will lead a great banquet. In our sufferings this week, the Lord wants us to treat him less like a genie in a bottle and more like the Master who has taken us — lost little dogs that we are — into his home forever. Trust that and keep praying in the face of evil.

— Father John Muir

5 Meditation: Ron Rolheiser, OMI

The Gospel Challenge to Enjoy Our Lives

Joy is an infallible indication of God's presence, just as the cross is an infallible indication of Christian discipleship. What a paradox! And Jesus is to blame.

When we look at the Gospels we see that Jesus shocked his contemporaries in seemingly opposite ways. On the one hand, they saw in him a capacity to renounce the things of this world and give up his life in love and self-sacrifice in a way that seemed to them almost inhuman and not something that a normal, full-blooded person should be expected to do. Moreover he challenged them to do the same: Take up your cross daily! If you seek your life, you will lose it; but if you give up your life, you will find it.

On the other hand, perhaps more surprisingly since we tend to identify serious religion with self-sacrifice, Jesus challenged his contemporaries to more fully enjoy their lives, their health, their youth, their relationships, their meals, their wine drinking, and all the ordinary and deep pleasures of life. In fact he scandalized them with his own capacity to enjoy pleasure.

We see, for example, a famous incident in the Gospels of a woman anointing Jesus' feet at a banquet. All four Gospel accounts of this emphasize a certain raw character to the event that disturbs any easy religious propriety. The woman breaks an expensive jar of very costly perfume on his feet, lets the aroma permeate the whole room, lets her tears fall on his feet, and then dries them with her hair. All that lavishness, extravagance, intimation of sexuality, and raw human affection is understandably unsettling for most everyone in the room, except for Jesus. He's drinking it in, unapologetically, without dis-ease, without any guilt or neurosis: Leave her alone, he says, she has just anointed me for my impending death. In essence, Jesus is saying: When I come to die, I will be more ready because tonight, in receiving this lavish affection, I'm truly alive and hence more ready to die.

In essence, this is the lesson for us: Don't feel guilty about enjoying life's pleasures. The best way to thank a gift-giver is to thoroughly enjoy the gift. We are not put on this earth primarily as a test, to renounce the good things of creation so as to win joy in the life hereafter. Like any loving parent, God wants his children to flourish in their lives, to make the sacrifices necessary to be responsible and altruistic, but not to see those sacrifices themselves as the real reason for being given life.

Jesus highlights this further when he's asked why his disciples don't fast, whereas the disciples of John the Baptist do fast. His answer: Why should they fast? The bridegroom is still with them. Someday the bridegroom will be taken away and they will have lots of time to fast. His counsel here speaks in a double way: More obviously, the bridegroom refers to his own physical presence here on earth which, at a point, will end. But this also has a second meaning: The bridegroom refers to the season of health, youth, joy, friendship, and love in our lives. We need to enjoy those things because, all too soon, accidents, ill health, cold lonely seasons, and death will deprive us of them. We may not let the inevitable prospect of cold lonely seasons, diminishment, ill health, and death deprive us of fully enjoying the legitimate joys that life offers.

This challenge, I believe, has not been sufficiently preached from our pulpits, taught in our churches, or had a proper place in our spirituality. When have you last heard a homily or sermon challenging you, on the basis of the Gospels, to enjoy your life more? When have you last heard a preacher asking, in Jesus name: Are you enjoying your health, your youth, your life, your meals, your wine drinking, sufficiently?

Granted that this challenge, which seems to go against the conventional spiritual grain, can sound like an invitation to hedonism, mindless pleasure, excessive personal comfort, and a spiritual flabbiness that can be the antithesis of the Christian message at whose center lies the cross and self-renunciation. Admittedly there's that risk, but the opposite danger also looms, namely, a bitter, unhealthily stoic life. If the challenge to enjoy life is done wrongly, without the necessary accompanying asceticism and self-renunciation, it carries those dangers; but, as we see from the life of Jesus, self-renunciation and the capacity to thoroughly enjoy the gift of life, love, and creation are integrally connected. They depend on each other.

Excess and hedonism are, in the end, a bad functional substitute for genuine enjoyment. Genuine enjoyment, as Jesus taught and embodied, is integrally tied to renunciation and self-sacrifice.

And so, it's only when we can give our lives away in self-renunciation that we can thoroughly enjoy the pleasures of this life, just as it is only when we can genuinely enjoy the legitimate pleasures of this life that we can give our lives away in self-sacrifice.

Adult Ministry of Initiation (AMI) Becoming A Catholic OCIA Process (Formerly RCIA)

Whether you were born into the Catholic Faith and looking to deepen your faith, or inquiring about becoming Catholic, please join us as we explore, rediscover, and share, our Catholic Culture. Each week a new topic is offered to enrich your faith journey.

Those who joined the AMI process tell us that they entered to fill the need for family and security in their life. Becoming Catholic was a means to find what was missing in their daily life. Do you know someone who may be struggling with "keeping it all together"? Past attendees also indicated that they were invited by a co-worker, friend, or family member. A simple and sincere invitation from a friend is many times all that is needed in their life. If you know someone who may be looking for the peace that comes through faith, I encourage you to extend an invitation. We are always happy to provide additional information about the AMI process.

We welcome all inquiries and look forward to accompanying you soon.

MEN4JESUS is an opportunity for the men from local Catholic parishes to get together to build a faith-filled brotherhood and reflect upon and improve our current spiritual lives. During this second season of the program, we will focus on improving our prayer life, gaining a better understanding of scripture, learning new insights about the special seasons of the Church, and gathering strength from the Holy Spirit. Our hope is to gain insights from sharing, learning and reflecting that will make us better Catholic men.

The seven monthly gatherings will incorporate social time, prayer, videos, scripture readings, group discussions, guest speakers and personal assignments to strengthen our Catholic faith. We gather once a month in the Parish Ministry Center at St. Hubert Church on Saturday mornings from 7:30 to 9:00 AM for a total of seven times, ending with a special Easter preparation event on March 23rd. You can sign up at any time and you do not need to make a commitment to attend every MEN4JESUS gathering when you join. There is no charge to join the MEN4JESUS program.

During our first season, last year, we had over 40 men signed up with an average of 25-30 participating at each monthly gathering. We received very positive feedback about the program on our season-ending survey! Come and explore how enhancing your faith and relationship with God can help you overcome any obstacles you confront and find inner peace. Come join us! You will be glad you did!!

Proclaiming the Word - Lector Training
Thursday, August 31st
7:00 - 9:00 PM at St. Hubert Church

Lectors have a critical role in the celebration of the Mass. They boldly and clearly speak the Word in a manner which channels the Holy spirit into the hearts of the people of God. Because lectors proclaim not just any word, but the Word of God, it is essential that they develop the skills required to communicate God's message competently.

Through the use of voice, eye contact, and personal presence, lectors help God's Word come alive for the assembly. This training will provide the skills and self-confidence needed for those who wish to become lectors at either St. Matthew or St. Hubert.

The training is for new ministers as well as those who are in need of a refresher. This ministry is open to both adults and high school teens.
