Deacon's Corner

What Not to Wear at an Ordination

Reading this weekend's bulletin, I noticed a piece on the Anniversary of Fr. David's ordination in 2007, which got me thinking about my own ordination on a Pentecost weekend in 2009 at the Diocese of Monterey's Madonna del Sasso Church in Salinas, CA. The formation for the permanent diaconate in the Diocese of Monterey is a five year process in which the candidates and their wives met every Saturday at different parishes for instruction on various subjects. During those five years, my wife and I formed several close friendships with couples in our cohort; a few that remain to this day.

One of the friendships formed was with a candidate named Andres, who had been raised and educated in Mexico City; graduating with a doctoral degree in physics and eventually hired at the Naval Postgraduate Academy in Monterey, CA. Andres, and his wife Claudia, settled in Monterey because of Andres' teaching position at the Academy. The interesting thing about Andres, . . .

Deacon's Corner (cont'd)

other than being a brilliant scientist, was his Mexican accent. If you are familiar with the character Inigo Montoya in the 1987 release of the movie "The Princess Bride," who sought justice for his father's death, you have an idea of Andres' accent.

Anyway, a couple of days before our ordination mass at Madonna del Sasso, he called and asked me what he should wear. Jokingly, I suggested that he not wear 'thongs.' (when I was a kid, thongs were the rubber flip-flop sandals worn by many young people). After offering my advice, there was a very long pause and then Andres, in this Inigo Montoya accent, "Nooooo . . . I don't think wearing thongs is a good idea."

During the ordination there is a moment when the candidates were called forward and instructed to lay prone on the cool floor in front of the sanctuary wearing a white alb and of course black socks and dress shoes. I vividly remember laying on the floor of that church weeping and trembling from the exhilaration of completing the five years of formation as the choir at the cathedral sang The Litany of the Saints:

"Holy Mary, Mother of God,
All: Pray for us.

Saint Michael,
All: Pray for us.

Holy Angels of God,
All: Pray for us.

Saint John the Baptist,
All: Pray for us.

Saint Joseph,
All: Pray for us.

Saint Peter and Saint Paul,
All: Pray for us . . .

I remember a powerful and tangible stirring of the Holy Spirit on that Pentecost weekend when the Spirit of God sealed the ordination of fifteen men as the bishop accepted each candidate with the words, "Receive the Gospel of Christ, whose herald you have become. Believe what you read, teach what you believe, and practice what you teach." Amen?
