Divine Worship

Continuing from Archdiocesan Liturgical Handbook (ALH) Chapter 1H states:

Section 1.38.2: It is appropriate that a new ambo be blessed according to the rite described in the Book of Blessings before it is put into liturgical use.¹⁵²

Sacrarium

Section 1.39.1 The practice is to be kept of building a sacrarium, a special sink in the sacristy. The sacrarium should have a cover, a basin, and a special pipe and drain that empty directly into the earth, rather than into the sewer system. After Mass, when the vessels are rinsed and cleansed, the water is poured into the sacrarium so that any remaining particles that might be left will not be poured into the sewer but will go directly into the earth. When the purificators and corporals are rinsed before being washed, the water is disposed of in the sacrarium. It can also be used to discard old baptismal water, left-over ashes, and the previous year's oils, if they are not burned.¹⁵³

Alter Cloths and Linens

Section 1.40.1: Just as the altar is a sign for us of Christ the living stone, altar cloths are used "out of reverence for the celebration of the memorial of the Lord and the banquet that gives us his body and blood." By their beauty and form they add to the dignity of the altar in much the same way that vestments solemnly ornament the priests and sacred ministers. Such cloths also serve a practical purpose, however, in absorbing whatever may be spilled of the Precious Blood or other sacramental elements. Thus the material of altar cloths should be absorbent and easily laundered.¹⁵⁴

Section 1.40.2: Besides sacred vessels and sacred vestments for which some special material is prescribed, other furnishings that either are intended for strictly liturgical use or are in any other way admitted into a church should be worthy and suited to their particular purpose be cleaned in the sacrarium. Care should be taken, however, that proper cleaning methods are used to preserve the beauty and life of the altar cloths.¹⁵⁵

Section 1.40.3: Altar linens, because of their use in the liturgy, especially those which will receive the sacred species, should be "beautiful and finely made, though mere lavishness and ostentation must be avoided." They are deserving of special respect and care, are always kept clean, and should be washed in the traditional way.¹⁵⁶

"The Lord is truly risen, alleluia. To him be glory and power for all the ages of eternity, alleluia, alleluia."
Luke 24:43

Dear Parishioners,

The Lord is risen from the dead, let us rejoice and be glad. In the Easter Vigil, the Church meditates on all the wonderful things God has done for his people from the beginning of creation. New members of the church are reborn in Baptism. The whole Church is also called the Eucharistic table which Christ prepared for them through his death and resurrection.

On Easter Sunday, we come together to continue to celebrate Christ's Resurrection. We praise him and thank him, by receiving Jesus in Communion. We are all renewed and given strength to live our Christian faith daily.

May the merciful love of the Lord give us all the graces and may His spirit be with us.

Fr. Nicolaus Marandu
(Pastor)
