circumstances all around us. If we put our faith in this message, like Mary in today's Gospel, we too will be called blessed. But there is another part to God's Providence. Mary did not just believe in God's promise; she acted on her belief. She said yes to God's invitation; she put her life in his hands. In fact, her yes was the full expression of her faith. During this week before Christmas, we too have a chance to give our faith in God its full expression. Amidst all the hustle and bustle of these holy days, God's Providence will invite us not only to enjoy his grace and peace, but to spread it, to be visible signs - living billboards - of his goodness: whether by how we treat the shopping clerks, or by how we behave at the office Christmas party, or by the patience we show to our visiting relatives, or by taking time to reach out to the less fortunate, or by inviting the lonely neighbor to come over for a cup of coffee, or to join us at Christmas Mass. God's Providence guides the course of history, but he does not want his children to just be spectators - he invites us to be active partners in his work of everlasting peace. Today let us make our heavenly Father smile by accepting that invitation.

ALTAR AND ROSARY SOCIETY BY JODI BASSETT, PRESIDENT

Being a bit of a workaholic, I tend to not enjoy holidays. They interrupt an otherwise good work week. Yes, I know, holidays are designed to give us breaks from the routine and stresses of our jobs, and thus are essential to our well-being.

Christmas is a rather unique holiday, in that people plan for weeks or months for it, spend unnecessary amounts of money to prove their love to those important to them, attend parties, school programs, eat too much, drink too much, and generally experience higher than usual amounts of stress. Most other holidays don't have this much involvement.

In the days of Mary's pregnancy, holidays were much less observed, if at all. And yet, when the expecting Elizabeth heard Mary's greeting, Elizabeth's baby leapt in her womb. Elizabeth recognized Mary as the mother of Jesus, the Savior, such that even her baby responded joyfully. Imagine if you can the scene of this event. No trees, tinsel, carols, gifts, crowds, parties or special once a year food or drink. It was just two women greeting each other and marveling over the great blessing of the soon to arrive Savior.

What better reason to take a break and celebrate?

Father Tony's Corner

Well, the wait is almost over. Christmas is only 2 days away. May be our Advent has flown by, and we cannot believe that Christmas is already just around the corner. Perhaps we are asking ourselves, where did Advent go? Or may be Advent has been very fruitful for us this year. Either way, today is a moment to recommit. The Church gives us this Fourth Sunday of Advent as a last reminder that Christ is coming. Today's first reading ends with these powerful words: 'He shall be peace'. Who is he talking about? Jesus Christ. It is interesting because prophet Micah does not say that the Savior will bring peace, but that He is peace. Why is He peace? Because peace means wholeness. If we are not ok with God, then we cannot be at peace with ourselves or with others. But in Jesus, in the sacraments that make him present here today, we come to be at peace with God. In the sacrament of Reconciliation, our sins are forgiven and we are at peace with God. In the Holy Eucharist, we receive the Body and Blood of Jesus Christ and we are united to God. And that experience brings an awareness of the great story into which all our individual stories fit. We start to see others with the eyes of Christ. So Christ himself is Peace. The Prince of Peace is about to be born. How is Jesus asking each one of us to be open and ready for this gift? A few suggestions. One of the many lessons God teaches us through the great event of Christmas is the power of his Providence. He guides the course of history, wisely and gently, but powerfully and securely, without violating human freedom. When we come to know Jesus Christ, his person, his message, and his mission, we come to understand and trust God's Providence. Even though sin has turned this fallen world into a valley of suffering and tears, where evil often seems to be victorious of good and injustice often seems to triumph over justice, when we look at the baby Jesus lying in the manger on the first Christmas, our hearts are strengthened and our hope in God is confirmed. God is at work in the world, slowly setting things right. God was present in a stable-cave at Bethlehem, an obscure little town far away from the headlines of ancient times. And he is present and active in all the little Bethlehem's of the world today: in your heart and mine, in our homes and families, in our hospitals and on our battlefields. The Good Shepherd is there, gently guiding the course of history, leading his children to the green pastures of true wisdom, lasting joy, and eternal life. Knowing this brings interior peace, even amidst the exterior storms. Today the Church reminds us that Jesus truly is the Lord of history, that God's Providence is powerful enough to guide the course of world events, and to bring meaning and order to the struggles and sufferings of our own lives. This loving and wise omnipotence of God, revealed by the babe in Bethlehem, is meant to be the source of our interior peace, a peace that goes deeper than the stormy

ANNOUNCEMENTS

- Christmas Mass Schedule: We are looking forward to Christmas, our annual festival commemorating the birth of Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ chose to be born in a smelly, cave near Bethlehem over two thousand years ago. And today, He wants to come into the smelly, dark cave of our hearts and fill it with light, joy, and peace. He wants to come in as a Little Baby, because He wants us to hold him in our arms, to adopt him, to make him the companion of our lives. Let us thank our God for not giving up on us, let us promise Him that we will walk with him, enjoying his friendship and love.

I want to thank all those who devote so much of their time, energy and life for the parish family day after day and thereby bring immeasurable blessings to the parish family.
