The Parable on the 33rd Sunday in Ordinary Time Year A. of the Talents teaches us that God desires us to use our talents for His purposes and expects us to be faithful stewards. In this parable, a master leaves money with his servants. Two invest and double it, earning praise and more duties. The third hides his money, gets scolded, and loses it.
The moral of the story is that we should use our God-given talents to serve Him and others, rather than burying them out of fear or laziness.
