Dear Parishioners,

It's not officially "summer" for another week, but it's sure feeling like it right now! For those of us who can tolerate the heat and humidity or who have easy access to air conditioning, it's probably not much more than an inconvenience. Please be aware, though, that there are still many folks who don't handle extreme weather conditions well. They may have health conditions or minimal/no access to relief. These are opportunities for us to do corporal works of mercy: check on the elderly, the infirmed, the unemployed people in our communities; offer them help as you are able. Remember that "whatsoever you do for the least of these, you do for Me." (Matthew 25:40) This includes the rest of God's Creation, too, so be sure the animals are also looked after.

Something else to remember is to take care of ourselves. It is important to keep in mind that, no matter our station in life, we are all God's children. He has created each one of us with a particular mission, large or small. But He didn't just create us to work for Him - He created us to love Him, above all. He wants us to care about ourselves - our own well-being - because He loves us. Scripture tells us that "we love Him because He first loved us." (1 John 4:19) We don't have to try to please a harsh, uncaring master who sits over us waiting for us to do his bidding. We have an all-knowing, all-powerful, ever-present Master who loves us and only asks for our love in return. In that love - when we truly learn to love God - we are happy in doing His will (our mission). There is no happier place to be on earth than participating in God's work. In this love relationship with our Savior, we must realize that we need to take care of our own health and well-being in order to help care for others. If we are not in good physical condition, we may not be much help for others. The same goes for our spiritual health. The old saying goes, "Garbage in, garbage out." This fits our physical as well as our spiritual sustenance.

Let's spend some time this summer caring for each other. Relax. Eat well. Enjoy each other's company. Breathe deeply.

"Be still and know that I am God." (Psalm 46:10)

FAQs about Marriage & Annulments

Can a Catholic marry a non-Catholic who has been divorced? Yes, once the non-Catholic has received an annulment. The Church believes that a person can have only one valid marriage in one's lifetime (except for death of one's spouse). The non-Catholic marriage must undergo the same review as the Catholic marriage and be declared invalid before one is allowed to marry in the Catholic Church.

How do I start the process? How long does it take? Is it very expensive? The process begins in the parish. A priest, deacon, or pastoral minister will assist you in preparing the documents that will need to be submitted to the Tribunal. The length of time varies with each case. There is no cost for an annulment.

What happens after my case is sent to the Tribunal? The Tribunal seeks to find the truth regarding the question of the validity of the marriage. The process involves contacting the former spouse, gathering written testimony from the parties and witnesses. All testimony is reviewed by Church officials trained in the areas of Canon Law, Theology, or Social Sciences. The Church judge will then issue a decision, with moral certainty, regarding the validity or invalidity of the marriage.
