Prayers for our Parishioners & Families

Please pray for Norbert and Phyllis Tigges as they mourn the loss of their daughter Carol Lee.

Please pray for Kari Cornwell and Clint Ross, Kim (Kloewer) Ross's husband. Kari is recovering from surgery due to a blocked bile duct and Clint is recovering from open heart surgery.

Please pray for a fellow parishioner who is struggling at this time. Only God knows the person and the struggle, but please lift them up in prayer.

Please pray for the family of Nick and Tanya Boyle, specifically Pam Carroll and Jammie Carroll.

Let us continue to remember, and pray each day, for these people and their families.

Greyson Harskamp Steve Wolfe COVID 19 Victims Pattie Cockerham

We know there are many who are in need of prayer while they await a diagnosis, endure medical treatments, those who quietly deal with a serious or even fatal condition, and those who are afraid to go to the doctor because they fear the worst. Please remember them as well.

Father Tony's Corner

Jesus begins his public ministry with the message that the Kingdom of God is at hand, and conversion and faith in the Gospel are needed to welcome Kingdom of God in to one's life. In today's Gospel, he gives us two parables to understand what the Kingdom of God is: the sowing and reaping of grain and the growth of a mustard seed. By teaching in parables, he is trying to explain deeper spiritual realities using the everyday realities understood by his listeners. The Kingdom of God reflects this profundity: it is reflected in the Church and her work, but also in the whole work of salvation, of God, conquering hearts, one by one, throughout the centuries, until his reign of love endures forever in the hearts of those who welcomed it. The example of the grain shows us that this requires cultivation, waiting for the right time to reap the spiritual harvest of our labors, but also that God does the heavy lifting. The growth that is quiet, slow, and unseen, at times even when we are not doing anything, comes from him and his grace working in our souls and the souls of others. The example of the mustard seed shows that it starts small: in Jesus' earthly ministry it went from him to twelve disciples, then to thousands by the time narrated in the Acts of the Apostles, and to the whole world and throughout history. The Kingdom does not just represent something small that has an incredible capacity for growth and expansion; like the cool shade of the mustard plant, it makes room for everyone to find rest and consolation because God wants everyone to be saved and to come to a knowledge of the truth. If there is a Kingdom, there must also be a King, and if there is a King, there must be subjects. That is how he sees the Church. God's Kingdom is the realm where hearts obey him out of faith and love. The kingdom of this world is the realm where hearts obey themselves out of self-centeredness, egoism, and fear. If we really want to help Christ redeem the kingdom of this world by transforming it, through his grace, into the Kingdom of Christ, we have to keep hearkening to the King and carrying out his commands, even when they are uncomfortable for our selfish tendencies. Obeying someone else, though, is almost always a challenge for us sinners. Jesus knows this, and so he does not ask us for blind, mindless obedience. He uses parables to explain and promise that by following and obeying him, our lives will be fruitful. The virtues that give true, lasting beauty to our lives, that give our lives meaning and deep happiness are like the seeds in the Lord's parables. They are planted in our hearts at baptism, and as we follow and obey Christ in our daily lives, they grow and flourish. Being good citizens of Christ's Kingdom is the sure path to an abundant spiritual harvest here on earth and forever in heaven. By making us citizens of his Kingdom and his messengers and representatives in this world, God gives each one of us the opportunity to put our own creativity at the service of that Kingdom. God is continuously inviting us to follow him, to build our lives on the rock of his friendship by obeying his commandments and his teaching. But the commandments are just the beginning of the spiritual life. God does not want us to be robots; he wants us to be companions, to be free citizens of heaven. He does not program us, like machines; he inspires us, like soldiers or artists. He wants us to get to know his plan, and then to freely contribute with our own creativity, intelligence, and imagination to the task of building up his Kingdom in the world. Think of all the saints in history who used their freedom to find better, more ingenious ways to love God and love their neighbor, and in so doing they made everlasting contributions to Christ's Kingdom. We all have that same freedom - it is a gift of God's mercy! That is what it means to be a Christian: to build our lives on the solid foundation of friendship with Christ and obedience to his Kingship, but to build energetically and creatively, as love always does. Today, Christ renews his commitment to us, let us thank him, and let us renew our commitment to his everlasting Kingdom.
