CONNECTED IN THE SPIRIT – PASTORAL PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE

Update from Crystal Welch (SB) &Sally Gravatte (SM), CIS Core Team Chairs

The Core Teams working in collaboration with the Cohort Team, St. Isidore the Farmer and St. Martin of Tours, completed their study from the parishioner survey and reviewed the fruits of their conversations and have submitted the Cohort Plan for the Archdiocesan Planning Commission to review, highlighting how the parishes in the cohort, St. Boniface, St. Isidore, St. Martin, and St. Meinrad, might work together in the future meeting the pastoral needs of the local church. The cohort has suggested the linking and partnership model. St. Boniface and St. Meinrad will remain linked, sharing a pastor and staff while remaining financially separate. Suggested, a partnership with St. Isidore and St. Martin to dialog and partner with sacramental preparation, confirmation, marriage preparation, and RCIA. This would also prompt serious conversation to move support staff from St. Meinrad to St. Isidore. (Currently Caroline manages a good portion of the programs and activities of St. Martin, including facilities and finances, sacramental records, Mass intentions, liturgical ministers, coordinates portions of their Ham Shoot).

Also after evaluating the parish surveys, submitted to the Archdiocesan Planning Committee, as part of the comprehensive report, identified were the three greatest strengths and three areas parishioners hope to improve as part of the pastoral plan:

St. Boniface	St. Meinrad
Strengths	Strengths
1 Parish works well together	1 Liturgy
2 Faith formation is strong and growing	2 Service and social outreach
3 Sacramental Life is strong	3 Financial stability
Areas to Improve	Areas to Improve
1 Develop Art & Environment Committee	1 Evangelization
2 Parental involvement in sacramental preparation	2 Develop a youth coordinator
3 Youth involved in liturgical ministry	3 Use of Technology

PADRE'S POST

Hello from Belize! The 12 of us traveling from our parish family arrived safely before noon on Sunday and settled in to the Starfish House, our home for the week, a residence owned by Hand in Hand Ministries. On Sunday afternoon we had a tour of the city, visited with Clive and his family, a family that I had built for five years ago. Clive and his two children were once living on the streets. Without a home the children would have been put up for adoption. Kevin is now 17 and Kenya is 11. Kevin has just finished high school, is working full-time this summer and is scheduled to begin junior college this fall and Kenya is doing well and told me about school, friends and her part-time job. It is amazing to see their progress and opportunity because of the Building for Change Program.

On Monday morning, we traveled to a primitive lumber store to gather and load our supplies, and we traveled to a village nearby called Hattieville, a village in the Belize District, with a population of about 1,300 people. The village of Hattieville is 15 miles southwest of Belize City and takes its name from the infamous Hurricane Hattie that wreaked havoc around the country in 1961. A refugee camp was set up to shelter the many residents of Belize City who were left homeless after the devastating storm. Many residents ended up staying permanently, and so was born the village of Hattieville. It is also the home of Belize Central Prison, the sole correctional facility in the country of Belize. Its local nickname is the 'Hattieville Ramada'. It was established as a replacement for a century-old prison that closed and later became the Belize Museum. The prison houses men and women, and it houses adults and adjudicated youth.

Upon arriving at our build site we met Ms. Areatha and her son Ahkeen, age 16. She is a single parent who cannot afford to build a house on her own. Ms. Areatha and her son Ahkeen have been living with her mother and her adult brother in a house about the size of the children's liturgy room at St. Meinrad Parish. Ms. Areatha had been sleeping on an old couch in the corner while Ahkeen had been sleeping in a bed with his grandmother in the same room with his uncle. Ms. Areatha is a self-employed beautician, who is hard-working and has provided for her child, including his education. High school education here is not free. If you do not have the resources your education stops at eighth grade. Getting to know Ms. Areatha, Ahkeen and their extended family throughout the build was a great experience for each of us. The build went well, the weather cooperated and the house blessing was very moving. To see the joy Ms. Areatha and Ahkeen received in the gift we offered was a sacred moment that will not soon be forgotten. Because of our skill sets our build was done with efficiency and so we spent a good portion of Thursday working at the build site of the new outreach center bending rebar, driving nails out of concrete forms and other odd jobs giving the crew building the outreach center a hand. When the outreach center is completed, Hand In Hand will be located in one place in Belize City. Currently they rent five locations for their mission and ministry, including a clinic and daycare for children, HIV/AIDS retroviral medication program for expecting mothers, the Building for Change program and ongoing education for house recipients teaching life-skills classes such as parenting, personal finance and hygiene to empower and encourage positive lifestyle changes. On Friday, we continued our sightseeing including a water tour through the rain forest and on Saturday we will take a water taxi to Caye Caulker. Caye Caulker is a small limestone coral island off the coast of Belize in the Caribbean Sea measuring about 5 miles by less than 1 mile. The town on the island is known by the name Caye Caulker Village. We will spend the morning snorkeling a reef located off Caye Caulker. It is the world's second longest barrier reef. We will swim with nurse sharks and sting rays, and in the Coral Garden you can see many fish and beautiful colorful corals. Saturday night we will gather for Mass at the Starfish House and depart on Sunday morning for Indiana. Our week together has been filled with many blessings, our evening theological reflection time has been a good way for us to get to know each other, build community and to see where God is working in each of our lives. Thank you for your prayer for good health and safe travel for our group.

Feast Day Celebration A big "Thank You" to Jim Gogel and the Men's Society, as well as parishioners, friends and neighbors who worked to prepare for the St. Boniface Feast Day Celebration. This was the Men's Society's first time preparing and hosting this annual celebration. A follow-up meeting will be scheduled soon and plans for next year's celebration will begin. Your input is welcome and needed as we shape this annual celebration in memory of our holy patron.

Website is Live One of the clear markers in the Connected in the Spirit comprehensive survey from our parish family was a need for greater communication, internally and externally, including social media and use of technology to communicate. Our website went live on Thursday: sbcatholic.church and smcatholic.church. With the use of a website, information can be easily found and the use of the printed bulletin can be more directed towards pertinent information, highlighting news, events and activities. Also, the eBulletin will be easily found on the website.

Please remember the website is a 'work in progress' and will be developed over time. The office staff is learning how to use the program. I ask that organizations, programs and activities submit a list of officers, including contact information, a 3-sentence summary describing the organization, program or activity, and a photograph. Groups will have a page where they will be highlighted and provide contact information and important dates.

Have a blessed week. In your kindness, please keep Deacon James and Deacon Chaz in your thoughts and prayers as they prepare for priesthood ordination later this week. May God continue to bless their lives and ministries for years to come. PAX - Father Anthony, OSB
