

Marian Flowers

There are many flowers linked to Mother Mary, each representing something different about her.

Rose

The rose is called the “queen of flowers,” just as Mary is the Queen of Heaven.

Carnation

Carnations are often seen as a symbol of a mother’s love. They remind us of Mary’s deep love for Jesus and for all people.

Lily

The lily is white and pure, and it reminds us of Mary’s clean heart and closeness to God.

Periwinkle

Also called “Virgin Flower,” the periwinkle’s soft colour points to Mary’s faithfulness and loyalty to God

Marigold

This flower’s name comes from her (“Mary’s gold”)! It symbolises the joy and light Mary brings, like sunshine in people’s lives.

Pansy

This is sometimes called “Our Lady’s Delight.” Its shape and colours remind us to ponder and pray, just as Mary did.
