Fifteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

FROM THE DESK OF THE PASTOR

If God sent a prophet into our living room, we would probably listen carefully to what he had to say. At least, that's what we would like to think. But listening to God's word isn't always as easy as it appears. In today's First Reading, for example, we see a true prophet, chosen and sent by God, totally rejected.

Amos had been telling the people of Israel that they needed to return to the basics of their religion, following the commandments and giving up their self-indulgent idolatries. You would think that with God's authority and power behind him, everyone would simply hear and obey. But the message wasn't comfortable for them, and so they rejected it, and they sent the prophet Amos packing. The same phenomenon appears in today's Gospel. Jesus is giving some instructions to his first apostles. And part of those instructions involves the proper way to react when people reject what they have to say. Jesus is preparing them for rejection - he knows that fallen human nature doesn't like to be pushed outside of its comfort zone. But his message of salvation does just that; it pushes us out of our comfort zone. Today the Church is asking us to reflect on how well we listen to God's prophets, to his words. Our hearts are like the house Jesus mentions in the Gospel. If we welcome God's word, his grace will come and stay there, bringing peace, wisdom, and salvation. But if we don't, God's word will shake the dust from its feet and move on.

Fr. Russ

Catholic Quotes

St. John Chrysostom

There is nothing colder than a Christian who is not concerned about the salvation of others . . . Do not say, I cannot help others: for, if you are truly a Christian it is impossible not to. Natural objects have properties that cannot be denied; the same is true of what I have just said, because it is the nature of a Christian to act in that way. Do not offend God by deception. If you said that the sun cannot shine, you would be committing an offense against God and making a liar of Him. It is easier for the sinner to shine or give warmth than for a Christian to cease to give light: it is easier for that to happen than for light to become darkness. Do not say that that is impossible: what is impossible is the contrary . . . If we behave in the correct way, everything else will follow as a natural consequence. The light of Christians cannot be hidden, a lamp shining so brightly cannot be hidden.

Catechism of the Catholic Church

The Church is apostolic

857 The Church is apostolic because she is founded on the apostles, in three ways:

- she was and remains built on "the foundation of the Apostles," The witnesses chosen and sent on mission by Christ himself;
- with the help of the Spirit dwelling in her,

the Church keeps and hands on the teaching, The "good deposit," the salutary words she has heard from the apostles;

- she continues to be taught, sanctified, and guided by the apostles until Christ's return, through their successors in pastoral office: the college of bishops, "assisted by priests, in union with the successor of Peter, the Church's supreme pastor".

The Apostles' mission

859 Jesus unites them to the mission he received from the Father. As "the Son can do nothing of his own accord," but receives everything from the Father who sent him, so those whom Jesus sends can do nothing apart from him, from whom they received both the mandate for their mission and the power to carry it out. Christ's apostles knew that they were called by God as "ministers of a new covenant," "servants of God," "ambassadors for Christ," "servants of Christ and stewards of the mysteries of God."
