SURVIVING DIVORCE HOPE AND HEALING FOR CATHOLICS

Surviving Divorce was created to bring hope and healing to those who have experienced the pain and loneliness of a broken marriage. It is for the newly separated and divorced and those still struggling with issues many years later. It will help them answer their questions, restore hope, and begin authentic healing. Developed and hosted by Rose Sweet, Surviving Divorce features experts on relationships and divorce as well as personal testimonies from Catholic men and women who have experienced the breakdown of their families. They courageously share their stories with heart, humor, and wisdom. As they witness to their pain and the healing power of Christ in their lives, participants will laugh, cry, and identify with their journeys from heartache to healing.

Goals of the program:

- Work through the emotional upheaval of separation and divorce.
- Find personal healing and hope.
- Discover a deeper understanding of God's love for you.
- Gain wisdom and comfort from experts and others who share your experiences.
- Navigate new concerns like custody, court hearings, and finances.

PASTOR'S CORNER

Spiritual Lessons from St. Francis de Sales “In the two parts of the Soul there are four Grades of Reason” (Continued)

There are two degrees of reason in the superior part of reason. One of them reasons according to faith and supernatural light, the other simply assents to faith, hope and charity. Saint Paul's soul found itself pressed by two different desires, the one to be delivered from his body, so as to go to heaven with Jesus Christ, the other to remain in this world to labor in the conversion of souls; both these desires were without doubt in the superior part, for they both proceeded from charity, but his resolution to follow the latter proceeded not from reasoning but from a simple intuition and a simple feeling of the will of the Master. The supreme point of the spirit of Paul assented to it rejecting all the conclusions reached by reasoning.

If faith, hope and charity be formed by this holy assent given in the highest point of the spirit, how can reasonings which depend on the light of faith be made in the inferior part of the soul? We see lawyers dispute with many arguments on the acts and rights of parties to a suit and the parliament or senate settles all the strife by a judgement by its higher position. Even after the judgement is pronounced the advocates and auditors do not give up discussing among themselves the motives parliament may have had. Similarly, the reasoning and above all the grace of God have persuaded the supreme point of the spirit to consent to and form the act of faith by way of judgement. After this our understanding does not at once cease discoursing upon that same act of faith already conceived, to consider the motives and reasons for it. But always the arguments of theology are stated at the pleading place and bar of the superior portion of the soul, but the consent is given above, on the bench and tribunal of the point of the spirit. The knowledge of these four degrees of the reason is much required for understanding all treatises on spiritual things.
