14TH SUNDAY ORDINARY TIME A- REFLECTION

Zechariah 9:9-10 Psalm 145 Romans 8:9, 11-13
Matthew 11:25-30

In the time before the Civil War, enslaved people sang to encourage one another. As often as not, their songs chanted coded messages about escape routes — whether literal or psychological. Thus we hear, "Gonna lay down my heavy burden, down by the riverside ... ain't gonna study war no more." The first line of this spiritual speaks of a real dream: crossing the river into free territory. The second calls forth the interior freedom to escape bitterness. This song celebrates a graced combination in which a free person would be shackled neither by iron or by lust for vengeance. Imagining the humility and greatness of soul needed to pray for that sort of freedom helps us enter into the message of today's Scriptures.

The prophet Zechariah reflects a comparable combination of greatness and humility in his vision of the arrival of Zion's king. His savior arriving meekly on a donkey is a parody. It mocks the pretentious power of overlords who ride giant stallions and frighten children with the clamor of their armor and war chariots. Zechariah's people had witnessed the arrogance of such conquerors; some among them even recognized that the bullies' posturing and grandiosity were ultimately nothing more than attempts to hide the fragility of the tyrannical power.

The prophet tells his people that God's king will be the antithesis of their oppressors. Horses, chariots and weapons will be banished under this king. The one who comes in humility has no need of weapons. His victory is based on winning the hearts and minds of the people, therefore, he is the only ruler whose reign remains safe from rebellion. In today's Gospel reading, Jesus also celebrates the power of humility as he thanks his Father that his message has come home to the humble. We can imagine Jesus almost dancing with joy as simple people listen to him and get it. These are people who have gotten caught up in the dynamic of Jesus' love and mission. They've been captured by the love of his tender Father. The people he describes would know how to sing, "Ain't gonna study war no more." They can face those who disdain them with the self-assurance that comes from knowing they are loved beyond measure. Jesus says, "No one knows the Father except the Son and anyone to whom the Son reveals him." Why just some and not others? Jesus explains the privilege of "little ones," those who are the antithesis of the "wise and learned."

The wise ones he's talking about might be called sophisticated. We could think of their "learning" as technology or technique, the ability to control things. Those are acquired skills, achievements of mind and muscle that enable people to manage their world. Useful as these abilities are, they do not automatically put us in right relationship with ourselves, others or the world around us. The very word "sophistication" serves as a warning to us, for one of its closest verbal cousins is "sophistry," the use of apparently sound arguments to deceive others.

We can recognize these wise and learned by the way they strut, letting the world know they consider themselves above the rest — a status they believe they have earned, as if they had chosen wisely when and where to be born. The little ones? They're different. Their strength lies in the fact that they don't think they know it all. They're open to the free gift of God's love, never expecting to deserve it. The more they discover, the humbler they become and thus even more open to God.

This cycle of continual growth in humility creates greatness of soul. Not only that, but the humbler people are, the freer they become. The freer they are, the less impressed they will be by the self-acclaimed sophisticated ones. They can laugh at parodies of power and importance and feel sympathy for people who rely on them. Paul would recognize them as people who are in the Spirit; people whose humility and confidence, whose courage and humor, all spring from the energy of God's Spirit dwelling in them.

This brings us to Jesus' invitation, "Come unto me all who are burdened ... my yoke is easy." Imagine the freedom of never feeling you had to impress others or demonstrate your worth! (No more being "debtors to the flesh.") Imagine what it would feel like to have genuine sympathy for the "wise and learned," who rely on themselves, compelled to make a show of their prestige. Imagine laying down all those heavy burdens!

This is the invitation of the Gospel. When we rejoice in the fact that we can never earn it, we are prepared to enjoy it.

Themes in the Book of Zechariah

Zechariah's prophetic visions foreshadow the coming of Jesus Christ, who brings salvation, restoration, and eternal hope. Through this remarkable book, we are reminded of God's enduring love, His plans for our redemption, and His desire for a holy and transformed people. There are several main themes in the Book of Zechariah:

A Prophet with a Message: Zechariah, whose name means "Yahweh remembers," was a post-exilic prophet sent by God to the remnant of Israel who had returned to Jerusalem from Babylonian captivity. His message resonates with hope, restoration, and the call to repentance. Despite the challenges faced by the people, Zechariah encourages them to remain steadfast, for God's plan for their redemption and glory is at hand.

The Restoration of Jerusalem: The Book of Zechariah addresses the rebuilding of Jerusalem, both physically and spiritually. Zechariah reminds the people that God has not forgotten His chosen city. Through vivid visions and symbolic language, he prophesies the restoration of Jerusalem's glory, the rebuilding of the temple, and the coming of the Messiah, who will reign as both King and Priest.

Messianic Prophecies: Zechariah's prophecies about the Messiah are awe-inspiring. He foretells the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem (Zechariah 9:9), His betrayal for thirty pieces of silver (Zechariah 11:12-13), and the piercing of His hands and feet (Zechariah 12:10). These prophetic utterances are fulfilled in the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ, underscoring His identity as the long-awaited Savior.

Peter the Pebble, and gorgeous flower carpets
Feast of Sts. Peter and Paul - June 29, 2023

Pope Francis led the midday Angelus on this Solemnity of Sts. Peter and Paul, offering a reflection about his first Predecessor. Pope Francis praised the beautiful flower carpet arrangements adorning St. Peter's Square on this feast of Sts. Peter and Paul, saying that they are a reminder to never tire of praying for peace. After leading the midday Angelus, the Pope pointed out the creations that are part of a flower festival in its 10th year, led by various florists of Italy.

I am looking at some of the displays from here... beautiful carpets of flowers inspired by peace, and this tells us never to tire of praying for peace, especially for the Ukrainian people, who are in my heart every day. Before the Marian prayer, Pope Francis had spoken of the faith and role of the first pope, St. Peter. He considered three characteristics of his predecessor, symbolizing them as a rock, a stone, and a pebble (roccia, pietra, and sasso). This, he said, is because Peter is strong and steady, a support, and also little.

He is not a superman – he is a man like us, like every one of us, who says “yes” generously to Jesus in his imperfection. But it is exactly like this that – just as in Paul and in all the saints – it appears that it is God who makes Peter strong with his grace, who unites us with his love, and forgives us with his mercy. And it is with this true humanity that the Spirit forms the Church. Peter and Paul were real people. And today, more than ever, we need real people. Kathleen N. Hattrup -Aleteia.

The Branch and the High Priest: One of the central themes in the Book of Zechariah is the dual role of the Branch as both a King and a Priest. In Zechariah 3, we witness the vision of Joshua, the high priest, standing before the angel of the Lord, representing the people of Israel. Through this vision, God promises to remove the iniquity of the land and clothe Joshua with clean garments, symbolizing the forgiveness and righteousness brought by the Messiah, the Branch. In Zechariah 6:9-15, the crowning of Joshua with a royal crown points to the future reign of Jesus Christ, the true King-Priest.

Call to Repentance and Holiness: Zechariah's message emphasizes the need for repentance and holiness. He reminds the people that outward rituals and ceremonies alone cannot please God; a sincere heart and a transformed life are what He desires. The prophet encourages the people to exhibit justice, mercy, humility, and love towards one another, mirroring God's own character. Zechariah's words resonate with the teachings of Jesus, who also emphasized the importance of an authentic relationship with God and righteous living. Source: Young Catholics 07/09/2023

REACHING OUT TO HOME-BOUND INDIVIDUALS:
THE POWER OF A FRIENDLY GREETING

Most of us are fortunate enough to have the freedom to move about and live our lives without too many restrictions. However, for some individuals, being home-bound and entirely dependent on others is a daily reality. This can be due to a variety of reasons, such as old age, disability, or illness.

Why Reach Out to the Home-Bound?

Living in isolation can take a toll on one's mental and emotional well-being, which is why it is important to reach out and offer support to those who need it. A simple greeting, a warm smile, or a thoughtful card can go a long way in brightening someone's day. Your parish office can be an excellent resource for identifying home-bound individuals who would appreciate a friendly greeting. In addition, local nursing homes are always grateful to receive letters and cards for their residents.

Writing a letter or sending a card might seem like a small gesture, but it can make a significant difference in someone's life. A few minutes of your time can bring a smile to someone's face and let them know that they are not alone. Who knows, your friendly gesture might even lead to a meaningful relationship. Home-bound individuals have lived rich and fulfilling lives, and they have valuable insights to offer. By taking the time to connect with them, you might learn something new or gain a fresh perspective on life.

It is important to remember that we all have the power to make a positive impact on someone's life. So, reach out to a home-bound parishioner or a resident at a nursing home today. Your small act of kindness can bring joy and hope to those who need it the most. Young Catholics.

"I Will Give You Rest"

Today Jesus tells us, "Come to Me, all you who labour and are burdened and I will give you rest." God understands that we get tired and worn out. He wants us to come to Him when we need to rest. He refreshes our souls and gives us the energy and strength to carry on.

Do you ever feel like quitting when a job gets hard? Maybe you get tired of school or helping your Mom or Dad. When you feel like giving up it's time to start praying! Your work might seem easier when you pray, but even if it still seems hard you will be happier knowing that you are doing it for God.

Jesus tells us to take His yoke on our shoulders. A yoke is a sort of bar that is used to help carry heavy things. Jesus is saying that we should do His work. For some people that means preaching like He did, or healing the sick, or being a priest, but for most people it means just doing everything we have to do out of love for God.

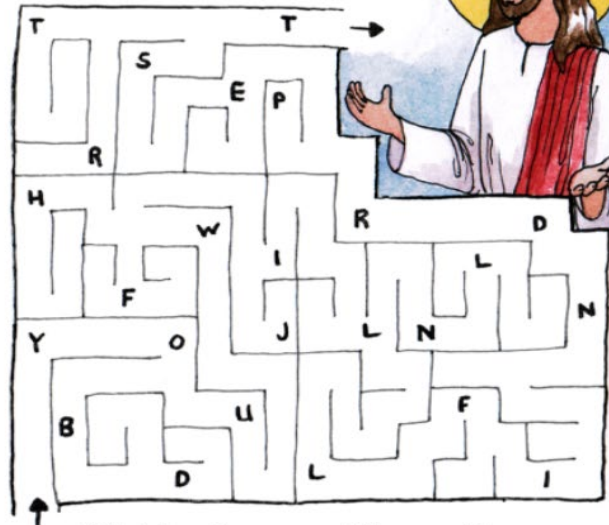

Answer to maze on front: You will find rest.
Answer to word-find: He is compassionate.
