17TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

"Suppose one of you has a friend to whom he goes at midnight and says, 'Friend, lend me three loaves of bread,' and he says in reply from within, 'Do not bother me.' I tell you, if he does not get up to give the visitor the loaves because of their friendship, he will get up to give him whatever he needs because of his persistence." - Lk 11:5b, 7a, 8

A Morning with Martha & Mary

A MORNING OF REFLECTION

Presented by Deacon
Albert Blount

Thursday, July 28
9:15-noon
(lunch provided)

If you are available most Thursday mornings, you are invited to become involved with our St. Martha group. We meet in room 2 every Thursday morning at 9:15 and help with projects such as stuffing envelopes, mail outs, and assembling packets. This is a low-stress ministry where you can participate as your calendar permits. Just show up.

Mentoring Ministry

Do you feel called to a ministry as a mentor to men and women being released from prisons back into society?

A series of diocesan listening sessions to introduce a mentoring program for formerly incarcerated men and women will be conducted around the diocese. There will be two sessions in our area: July 26 at St. Margaret Queen of Scotland in Albany and St. Jean Vianney. Anyone who may feel called to serve as a mentor may want to attend. Interested parties need only attend one session. Both sessions will run from 7-9 p.m.

Any questions, please feel free to call Deacon Tim Messenger at 419.957.9848.

Prayer Service

Calling all School Teachers

Join us for a prayerful evening to equip you as you begin this new school year.

Bible Reading 101

If you have been even half-way paying attention to our homilies the past few years, it should be clear that we have been encouraging everyone to read the Bible. “But where do I start?” I recommend picking a Gospel. Since we are in Year C, choose Luke so that what you read personally will dovetail with what you hear each Sunday. Most Bibles have broken up the chapters into little sections with subheadings. See the picture for an example. You would read what’s in blue on Monday, green on Tuesday, red on Wednesday, etc. Simple!

So you’ve chosen your book and see the passage you will pray with. Now what? Well the Church is one step ahead of you (or maybe four steps . . .) with a process called lectio divina, Latin for “holy reading.” This is a way of reading the Bible developed and practiced for centuries in monasteries around the world. Are you ready to start reading the Bible like a monk? The four steps of lectio divina are: lectio (read), meditatio (meditate), oratio (pray), and contemplatio (rest).

(1) Read. Slowly read the text one time all the way through. Pause. Then do it again.

(2) Meditate. This might sound intimidating, but really this is simply pondering over the text, or chewing over what you are reading - what do the words and images remind you of? You might pause on one particular word. What other passages of Scripture come to mind? What memories from your own life emerge? Am I reacting to the text in some way? Whatever it is, pay attention to that and take it seriously.

(3) Pray. Simply tell God what’s going on. Relate to Him everything that’s coming up. Ask Him to open up the Scriptures more for you to understand. Ask Him for the graces you need in your life. Ask Him about what He seems to be saying. Or, ask Him why you aren’t getting anything out of it. Just be honest and trust that God is there and wants to be in dialogue with you.

(4) Rest. That is, after all that work reading the text, pondering over it, talking to the Lord about it . . . simply be still, be silent, and receive what the Lord wishes to give you. This part is not up to you, it is up to God. If He gives you the grace to rest in His Presence; just enjoy it. Be content to be in silence.

Many analogies have been used to illustrate these four steps. I like the image of sugar cane. I’ll never forget the first time I had a piece of sugar cane - one day when I was very young, my grandfather brought me a piece he had cut. So, I tried gnawing on this thing, and I don’t know if I expected it to be pure sugar or what, but I almost gave up because of the course fibers. That’s probably how we react to trying to prayerfully read Scripture for the first time. Its course, fibrous, and hard to get our minds around. But, just sit with it, cut off a small piece, and trust that the Lord desires to speak with you through the text. So read, that is, just bite into a piece of the cane, then meditate, chew it over; then pray, that is, seek to extract the flavor and finally rest, and simply enjoy the sweetness.

Oftentimes this last step is followed by a concrete resolution - how will I live my life differently in response to the Word of God I just heard. What is God asking me to do? What are some course fibers in my own life that I now need to spit out? At the most basic level, and most important for our own growth, there should be a resolution to set aside time to have another piece of sugar cane tomorrow. With consistency in this lectio divina, our hearts and minds can be transformed. We become more and more fertile soil for the Word of God to take root in us and bear fruit, thirty, sixty, and a hundredfold.

In Christ,

Fr. Taylor Sanford

Here’s a convenient summary of the process of lectio divina:

1. lectio: read the text slowly
Bite the piece of sugar cane.
2. meditatio: ponder over what strikes you
Chew the dense fibers.
3. oratio: pray for grace and let a dialogue arise
Extract the flavor.
4. contemplatio: rest with God in silence
Savor the sweetness.
