VOLCANOES & EARTHQUAKES

Volcanoes and earthquakes are powerful forces on Earth. A volcano is an opening in the Earth's surface that releases lava, gases, and ash. An earthquake is the sudden shaking or shock to Earth's surface. Both occur due to the movement of broken pieces of the Earth's crust, or tectonic plates. Volcanoes and earthquakes can cause much destruction in their paths. 75% of volcanoes and 95% of earthquakes occur in a place called the Ring of Fire. This Ring of Fire is located in the coastlines surrounding the Pacific Ocean. Many patterns can be identified by looking at the activity in the Ring of Fire.
