THE MUSINGS OF THE PASTOR

On Sunday May 3, 2020, Pope Francis made some noteworthy comments after he prayed the Regina Caeli. First of all he noted that this day brings to mind what Jesus said, namely that the field of the Kingdom of God requires much work, and we must pray to the Father to send laborers to work in His field. He also remarked that "Christian existence is always a response to God's call, in any state of life." He went on to say that "priesthood and the consecrated life require courage and perseverance and without prayer one cannot continue along this path." The Holy Father invited everyone to "ask the Lord for the gift of good laborers for His Kingdom, with hearts and hands open to His love."

The Pope also expressed his closeness those who are suffering from Covid-19, and to those caring for people stricken by the virus at this time. He offered his support for an international collaboration that is taking place to respond adequately and effectively to this serious crisis. It is important, he said, "to bring together scientific capacities, in a transparent and impartial way, to find vaccines and treatments and to guarantee universal access to essential technologies that will enable every infected person, in every part of the world, to receive the necessary health care."

Underlining the importance of prayer at this challenging time, the Pope said that he had accepted a proposal of the Higher Commission for Human Fraternity that on this Thursday, May 14, "believers of all religions should unite spiritually for a day of prayer and fasting, to implore God to help humanity to overcome the coronavirus pandemic."

Today I also want to conclude the brief history of the National Catholic Welfare Conference (NCWC) as it changed with the times to become the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops. The 1960's were a time of ferment in the Catholic Church. The Second Vatican Council began in 1962. Pope Saint John XXIII wanted to convene the Council in order to renew the Church and provide for the necessary modernization that would both make it easier to accomplish its mission in the modern world and to foster the unity of all Christians. This decade also saw a deeper involvement of the Church in the Civil Rights Movement, peace initiatives, and the rights of organized labor and migrant workers.

One of the documents from Vatican Council II the "Decree on the Bishops' Pastoral Office in the Church" (Christus Dominus) wanted bishops of each country to organize themselves into a national assembly of bishops as the American bishops had done in 1917. In many ways the American Catholic Church served as a model for what was then being requested of bishops all over the world.

THE MUSINGS OF THE PASTOR (continued)

In time the Bishops grew dissatisfied with having two separate organizations. By 1991 an ad hoc committee on Mission and Structure was formed to examine the theological status of the USCC/NCCB and to review the mission and the goals of both entities. The primary focus in this work was to encourage greater participation by the bishops and give a sense of greater unity. With that push for unity there came a proposed consolidation of the NCCB and USCC into a single conference. It took nearly a decade before there was consensus on how the final reorganization should look. The reorganized conference was called the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB)—the entity that we have today. Since 2001, the USCCB functions as an assembly of the hierarchy of the United States and Virgin Islands who jointly exercise certain pastoral functions on behalf of the Christian faithful in the United States.

Until next week,
Fr. John

Happy Mother's Day to all Mothers!

Never permit me to be separated from You. Amen*

THIS WEEK AT HOME

(Bulletin Insert)

Monday, May 11 - The Best of Intentions

The people who worship Paul and Barnabas recognize that something wonderful has happened, but their faith is misdirected. They need instruction on how to interpret and respond to the healing they witnessed. They need the Advocate, who will teach and guide them. This Advocate, the Holy Spirit, continues to guide the Church to this day. Ask God for the Spirit's help in discerning where and how God is acting and how you can best respond.

Tuesday, May 12 - Eternal Peace

Jesus offers a peace that no suffering or hardship can take away from us. His peace rises from God's salvation: we who believe in our Lord's triumph over sin and death no longer have anything to fear. St. Paul demonstrated confidence in this gift of peace when he resumes his mission right after nearly being killed for preaching the Gospel. Pray that whatever happens in your life, your faith in God's gift of peace may remain unassailable.

Wednesday, May 13 - Bearing Fruit

The first serious challenge to the unity of the Church was the question of whether Gentile converts had to obey the Jewish law. Since Jesus was Jewish, some people thought that those who believed in him must also become Jewish. Although the Church concluded that Christians did not also have to become Jews, we follow laws, such as the Ten Commandments that were given to the Jews. By obeying such laws we bear fruit, which Jesus, our true vine, commands us to do. What can you do to show you are bearing fruit?

Thursday, May 14 - St. Matthias, Apostle

Jesus reminds his disciples that he chose them; they did not choose him. This remains true when the disciples choose an Apostle to replace Judas. After narrowing the list of candidates, the disciples cast lots as a way of inviting God to choose between the two men. Do we readily invite God into our decision-making? Do we pray with the Scriptures and consult people who are faithful and wise? Do we open our hearts to God for a clear look at our motivations?

Friday, May 15 - Love One Another

Jesus tells us to "love one another," but how exactly do we do that? One example is the way the Church dealt with the question of whether Gentile converts to Christianity had to become Jews. The Apostles wanted to ensure that both groups could come together for ritual meals in which they worshipped Christ. By resolving the dispute in a way that acknowledged the concerns of both parties, the Apostles brought more people into the peace and friendship of Christ. In what specific way can you fulfill Christ's commandment to love?

Saturday, May 16 - Respect

It seems hypocritical for Paul to have Timothy circumcised when he previously said that Gentiles did not need to be. What Paul understands, however, is that Timothy, whose mother is Jewish, must honor his Jewish heritage. By upholding Jewish practices, Paul and Timothy also show their fellow Jews the continuity between Judaism and faith in Christ. Try to learn something more about Judaism today.
