THE MUSINGS OF THE PASTOR

Recently Bishop Mario E. Dorsonville, auxiliary bishop of Washington and chair of the U. S. Catholic Conference of Bishops' Committee on Migration expressed disappointment that the number for the fiscal year will continue to be at a historic low but appreciation that a number of persecuted refugee families who could not previously travel will finally be permitted resettlement in the United States. Here is his statement:

“The number of refugees who will be welcomed this year is far short of what we can do as a country and is not an adequate response to the immense resettlement need. We will work with the Administration, state and local officials and communities, and our colleagues to ensure that every one of the 15,000 refugees re-affirmed as this year’s ceiling are resettled safely and as quickly as possible. We expect the Administration to recalibrate and raise this ceiling, as it stated it would do Friday evening. We further encourage the Administration to build back the program to more normal and just levels by getting to an admission goal of 125,000.

“Given the unprecedented number of refugee families seeking new homes after being persecuted for religious, political, and other reasons, we appreciate that the U.S. refugee admissions program will now offer previously left out refugees an opportunity to resettle in our country. At the same time, we were hopeful that the Biden Administration would increase the ceiling for refugee admissions in this fiscal year, and we are disappointed that it has not yet done so. The dire circumstances confronting refugees and asylees has been of particular concern for the Catholic Church. The work of the U.S. Catholic bishops in assisting and advocating on behalf of immigrants and refugees is rooted in the recognition that every person is created in God’s image and must be valued, protected, and respected for the inherent dignity that he or she possesses.”

Perhaps you might be asking yourself what you can do to assist and advocate on behalf of immigrants and refugees. If you are interested in assisting with this, you should find the following information about a recent briefing by Chris King to the Parish Pastoral Council to be of interest. St. Francis of Assisi Parish (SFA) is a founding member with St. Rose of Lima Catholic Church, Temple Beth Ami and Or Chadash Congregations of the New Neighbor Interfaith Alliance (NNIA). ### PRAYER OF SPIRITUAL COMMUNION

My Jesus, I believe that You are present in the most Blessed Sacrament. I love You above all things and I desire to receive You into my soul. Since I cannot now receive You sacramentally, come at least spiritually into my heart. I embrace You as if You were already there, and unite myself wholly to You. Never permit me to be separated from You. Amen

NOW IS THE TIME: This past year of the COVID-19 pandemic has demonstrated how quickly one's health can unexpectedly become a crisis. While unexpected circumstances are not foreseeable, addressing critical healthcare planning and decision-making amid a crisis is avoidable. On April 16, we marked Annual National Healthcare Decisions Day, which is devoted to the importance of planning and telling loved ones and healthcare providers your wishes regarding healthcare decisions. To help you and others consider options and begin conversations, visit the End of Life Care on the Archdiocese of Washington website <https://adw.org/living-the-faith/marriage-family/end-life-care/>. Additional information is available through The Conversation Project, Aging with Dignity, and Voice Your Choice, which is supported by Nexus Montgomery Regional Partnership for decision-making and has many tools and resources for individuals and families.

Student textbooks are yours to keep and you may wish to take time over the summer to complete any lessons that have been missed during the school year. Please continue to also use the Bible provided for reflection and prayer at home. We hope that students will be able to use their Bibles again for RE classes when we resume in the fall.
