Weekly Notes

Treat her like your own flesh!

Last Sunday the gospel tells us that the man and woman met and recognized each other. The look did not stop in the eyes. It reached the heart. Then began a story that lasts to this day. Both felt called to form one flesh, not only in order to procreate, but, further, to live united in love and thus become a sign of the love with which God loves us.

But reality has not always been that way throughout history. The reality is that man has mistreated women many times. For centuries, man has not considered woman as his equal. Man has felt dominating and has seen woman as one of his belongings, one of the objects at his disposal.

Jesus invites us in his Gospel to go back to the same creation. To realize that at first it was not like that. God created equal men and women. They are meat of the same flesh. That's why a woman can not be another possession of a man like someone who has a car or a house. In the first reading, we hear how man receives the order of God to name animals. And he does, but he realizes that they are not at his level. They are animals, not people. It is when meeting the woman, formed from himself, when he says: This is indeed bone of my bones and flesh of my flesh! In women, men recognize themselves and in men, women recognize themselves. Both need each other to father children but also to be happy, to live in the fullness of the love to which God has called us.

Today there are so many divorces, that the family seems to be in crisis. Jesus invites us to return to the beginning, to rediscover the original will of God and to try to make it a reality in each of our families. In this way each marriage, each family, will become a sign of the love with which God loves us all, a nucleus where life is recreated daily in love.

Fr. Jeff

¡Trátala como a tu propia carne!

El Domingo Pasado el evangelio nos dice que el hombre y mujer se encontraron y se reconocieron uno al otro. La mirada no se detuvo en los ojos. Llegó al corazón. Comenzó entonces una historia que dura hasta nuestros días. Ambos se sintieron llamados a formar una sola carne, no sólo en orden a la procreación, sino, más allá, a vivir unidos en el amor y convertirse así en signo del amor con que Dios nos ama.

Pero la realidad no ha sido siempre así a lo largo de la historia. La realidad es que el hombre ha tratado mal a la mujer muchas veces. Durante siglos el hombre no ha considerado a la mujer como su igual. El hombre se ha sentido dominador y ha visto a la mujer como una más de sus pertenencias, uno más de los objetos a su disposición.

Jesús nos invita en su Evangelio a remontarnos hasta la misma creación. Para darnos cuenta de que al principio no fue así. Dios creó a hombres y mujeres iguales. Son carne de la misma carne. Por eso la mujer no puede ser una posesión más del hombre como quien tiene un coche o una casa. En la primera lectura, escuchamos cómo el hombre recibe el encargo de Dios de poner nombre a los animales. Y lo hace, pero se da cuenta de que no están a su nivel. Son animales, no personas. Es al encontrarse con la mujer, formada a partir de sí mismo, cuando dice: ¡Esta sí que es hueso de mis huesos y carne de mi carne! En la mujer el hombre se reconoce y en el hombre la mujer se reconoce. Los dos se necesitan mutuamente para engendrar hijos pero también para ser felices, para vivir en la plenitud del amor a la que Dios nos ha llamado.

Hoy que hay tantos divorcios, que la familia parece estar en crisis, Jesús nos invita a volver al principio, a redescubrir la voluntad original de Dios y a intentar hacerla realidad en cada una de nuestras familias. De esa manera cada matrimonio, cada familia, se convertirá en un signo del amor con que Dios nos ama a todos, núcleo donde la vida se recrea diariamente en el amor.

Padre Jeff
