Father Logsdon logging in...

My life is rich and full! Many of you have heard me say this, and all of us can relate to this. I prefer to use this term over 'I am busy', because saying that I am busy implies that I don't have time for others. My life is rich and full because of the people and the messes that people share with me as their spiritual father. I would not have it any other way. I am grateful for the opportunity that God has given me to minister for Him to all those in need.

There is a saying that 'You can't give what you don't have' and that is one of the greatest reasons that I can present for people to make retreats a part of your lives. I make a retreat at least once a year to collect strength, unload burdens, reconnect with the source of my strength, and to renew my love with the source of all love. Retreats can be done at any time of the year, and they are very Biblical. Every major encounter with God came with an intentional seeking. It is not necessary to 'go away' on retreat if we are disciplined enough to create a space and time in our homes and schedule to do it. The problem is that most of us (me included) do not make the time or space. Disconnecting from the busyness of everyday worries and connecting to the source of existence can take effort on our part, but is essential to growth in our spiritual lives. A great theme for this might be 'I need to retreat to advance!' This month it might be a wonderful idea to retreat into the arms of our Blessed Mother Mary to pray the rosary every day. A short retreat meditating with Mary on the earthly life of Jesus may be helpful because she knows Jesus better than any other person.

My prayer this week is that we all take the time to ask God to strengthen us for our common mission to make Him known to all nations. We do this by being courageous enough to speak about Him and witnessing to how we are different because of our encounter with Love Himself.

Offering Christ to the world,
Father Logsdon
