Fifth Sunday of Easter

May 26th, 2019

From your pastor

After the resurrection of Jesus, the disciples realized that Jesus never abandoned them. To the contrary, it turns out they had abandoned him at a time Jesus needed them the most. Following their desertion of Jesus and his death and resurrection, Our Lord sought them out. We remember in the third apparition of Jesus he searched for his disciples as they were fishing without any success. Jesus went to them and told them to drop the empty net on the right side resulting in a huge catch of fish.

After this miracle they realized it was the Lord and went to the shore to be with him. When they arrived where he was, he was waiting for them with a meal. He was cooking fish and had some bread too. In a similar way, this is what Jesus does for us. He is always present and waiting to provide us with a meal. This is no ordinary meal, however. Instead, it is a meal which gives us eternal life.

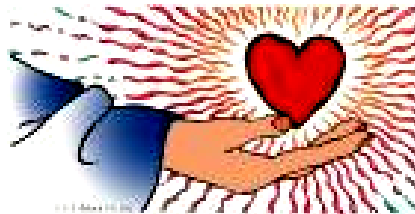

Our first communicants were hungry to eat this bread for the first time, and we see their faces every time they come to Mass waiting for the moment of communion to consume the Body of Christ once again. The presence of Jesus is always here, Jesus is present in the Church, in a most concrete way he is in the sacrament of the Eucharist. Jesus makes himself visible and available in the sacraments. The reality is that Jesus waits for us each and every Sunday to provide for us this eternal meal.

Let us pray that we may never miss any Sunday Mass so as to live in the presence of God as an anticipation of the heavenly banquet.

Sincerely,

Rev. Miguel González

V Domingo de Pascua

19 de Mayo, 2019

De parte de su pastor ...

Después de la resurrección de Jesús, los discípulos se dieron cuenta de que Jesús nunca los abandonó. Por el contrario, resulta que ellos lo habían abandonado en un momento en que Jesús más los necesitaba. Tras la deserción de Jesús y su muerte y resurrección, Nuestro Señor los buscó. Recordamos que, en la tercera aparición de Jesús, buscó a sus discípulos, ya que estaban pescando sin ningún éxito. Jesús fue hacia ellos y les dijo que dejaran caer la red vacía en el lado derecho, lo que resultó una gran pesca.

Después de este milagro, se dieron cuenta de que era el Señor y fueron a la orilla para estar con él. Cuando llegaron con él, los estaba esperando con una comida. Estaba cocinando pescado y también tenía algo de pan. De manera similar, esto es lo que Jesús hace por nosotros. Él está siempre presente y esperándonos para comer. Esto no es una comida ordinaria, sino que es una comida que nos da vida eterna.

Nuestros niños de Primera Comunión primeros comentaristas tenían hambre de comer este pan por primera vez, y vemos sus rostros cada vez que vienen a misa esperando el momento de la comunión para consumir el Cuerpo de Cristo una vez más. La presencia de Jesús está siempre aquí, Jesús está presente en la Iglesia, de manera más concreta en el sacramento de la Eucaristía. Jesús se hace visible y disponible en los sacramentos. La realidad es que Jesús nos espera todos los domingos para proporcionarnos esta comida eterna.

Oremos para que nunca perdamos ninguna misa dominical y de esta manera podamos vivir en la presencia de Dios como anticipación al banquete celestial.

Sinceramente,

Rev. Miguel González
