REFLECTING ON THE GOSPEL

Who are the four people you would like to have dinner with in heaven? Many of us might choose famous personalities from history. Others might choose long-lost relatives. Whomever we choose, these are people we really want to be with. We'd want to spend time with them and learn from their experiences. On the flip side, there are those who love going to dinner parties, being seen at dinner parties. They love to rub shoulders with the powerful, the movers, and the shakers. They like their tickets to the cultural events, the opera, the symphony, baseball and football games. This type of person who lives to be seen is a well-known character in literature. It seems even in Jesus' time these people were readily spotted. For Jesus, they become a target. Jesus is especially critical of this character type who also happens to be a religious leader who "devours the houses of widows." They pray for show, and enjoy the privileges that come with their office. Their condemnation will be severe. In many respects Jesus' critique of the religious authorities is echoed by Pope Francis's critique of religious authorities.

Even though we may not be religious authorities, the critique certainly applies to us as well. Is our going to church for show? Is it more cultural and societal than religious and spiritual? In the second vignette in today's gospel Jesus criticizes the rich, who give large sums to make a show, and to attract attention to their giving. Even though their gifts were large, and undoubtedly made a difference, these people gave from their excess. It was pocket change, not the milk money. The poor widow, she whose house is being devoured by the religious authorities, gives everything she has. In other words, they who had much gave little of what they had. She who had little gave everything she had. What kind of givers are we? Do we give of ourselves or from our excess? Jesus' message is to give everything we have, without holding anything back. It's too easy to game the system, to make a show out of giving, to have our names on plaques or printed in newsletters. Today many charitable organizations and parishes even have giving clubs with various levels. And, of course, there is an entire industry today that has been developed around giving and fundraising. But Jesus is speaking of something more profound. Rather than the annual fundraising appeal that each of us participate in, or charitable contributions that are a hallmark of Christianity, we are summoned by Jesus to give our entire selves. Rather than write a check equivalent to a family dinner at a restaurant, Jesus wants us entirely, without reservation. Living Liturgy—year B

SOLES4SOULS SHOE DRIVE UPDATE FROM RACHEL BIGEJ

I am excited to announce that with your help, I was able to reach my goal of gathering 1,000 pairs of shoes to donate to people in need through Soles4Souls. St. Patrick's parish community donated over 300 pairs of shoes, which was amazing! On November 4th, with the help of family and friends, I sorted and boxed all of the shoes and they will ship this week to the headquarters in Tennessee. In March 2019, my mom and I will travel to the Dominican Republic with Soles4Souls on a shoe distribution trip to schools and orphanages. Thank you for donating and helping make a difference in the lives of others!

THE TINIEST CRUCIFIXION

By Colleen Dahlmann

Lord Jesus, could you rock him for a while?
He has no mother's breast, no father's smile;
No downy, silken pillow for his head.
They placed him in that bloody basin—dead.
He was so small, this body doomed to die.
His mother's rights, the only reason why.

From somewhere warm and safe, they tore this child.
Lord Jesus, could you rock him for a while?

Poor little one, who was it took your breath?
Who made the healer's hands a thing of death?
Who was your Judas? Mother? Doctor? State?
Or was it we who fought your cause too late?

Please, Jesus, rock the other babies too;
Forgive us, Lord we Do know what they do.
He had no cradle, cross, no grave nor tomb,
This baby-crucified inside the womb.
