Saint of the Week: St. Cecilia

Saint Cecilia is a Roman martyr venerated in Catholic, Orthodox, Anglican, and some Lutheran churches, such as the Church of Sweden. She became the patron of music and musicians, it being written that, as the musicians played at her wedding, Cecilia "sang in her heart to the Lord". Musical compositions are dedicated to her, and her feast, on 22 November, is the occasion of concerts and musical festivals.

Jesus Debates with the Pharisees

In today's Gospel, Jesus and the Pharisees, in typically rabbinic fashion where a question is often answered with a question, debate the ever-timely issue of divorce. Jesus does not deny their interpretation of Deuteronomy 24:1-4, which does say that a man may divorce his wife if "he finds in her something indecent." However, he argues that the text represents not a law but a dispensation given by Moses "because of the hardness of your hearts." Then, returning to the biblical ideal of marriage, that is, marriage as God intended it "from the beginning of creation" he prohibits divorce absolutely and reiterates the prohibition when his disciples later question him about it.

Jesus' hard line on divorce can raise difficult questions for Catholics today as it apparently did for the disciples. Wilfred Harrington speaks to this point in his commentary on Mark: "Jesus prohibited divorce on the assumption that the marriage involved is a real marriage." And, he adds, this is the same Jesus who understands our humanness and who, according to Hebrews, is not ashamed to be called our brother.
