2025 Prayer List

Teachers of our Faith

As the Church moves past the halfway point in the liturgical calendar, God has already sent us His Son at Christmas, Jesus has died for our sins and was raised from the dead at Easter, and the Holy Spirit has descended upon us at Pentecost. This weekend we celebrate the lives of Saints Peter and Paul, early apostles of the Church, fearless teachers and defenders of the faith, and martyrs for that faith and their unwavering belief in Christ.

St. Peter, also known as Simon and Cephas, was a native of rural Galilee like Jesus. He was a poor, uneducated fisherman who spoke spontaneously, often before thinking and measuring his words. As recounted in today's Gospel, Peter was the rock Jesus built His Church on, the first to acknowledge Jesus as the Christ, the first man to affirm the Resurrection and the first to proclaim the Gospel after Pentecost. As we learn in today's first reading from the Acts of the Apostles, Peter was rescued and liberated from prison by an angel of God. At first Peter thought it was a dream until he realized that he had been truly rescued. "Now I am sure that the Lord has sent his angel and rescued me from the hand of Herod." Peter was eventually crucified for his faith - upside down because he did not consider himself worthy to die the same way as Christ did.

St. Paul, also known as Saul, was a tentmaker by trade and a Roman citizen. He was smart, refined, a student of the Talmud - the primary source of Jewish law and theology, and gifted with words. He was also a Pharisee, believing and acting on what he thought was the truth. This led Saul to be present at St. Stephen's stoning and responsible for the persecution of many Christians. His life was changed forever on the road to Damascus, and he became a fearless preacher of the faith, a teacher of the Gentiles, and a writer of letters that are still alive today in the Bible. He dedicated the rest of his life preaching to men and women, rich and poor alike, slaves and free men, Jews and Gentiles about the presence of God in the world through the death of Jesus. Paul also ended his life as a martyr, beheaded for his fervent faith, preaching and writings about Christ.

Although Saints Peter and Paul were polar opposites in personality and temperament, their message about faith is the same. This feast, though, is not just about the early Church of Rome; it is not just about Peter and Paul. Nothing could stop Peter and Paul from proclaiming Jesus Christ and nothing should stop us. The Feast of Saints Peter and Paul is about recognizing our own gifts and sharing them with others. Like Peter and Paul, we are also called to be disciples of Christ and to use our own talents to proclaim the Gospel to our world. The cost of discipleship is nothing compared to the joy of Eternal Life. Let us sing the praises of the Lord with Peter and Paul.
