A Special Prayer for our Newest Graduates – “He Who dwells in the shelter of the Most High, will rest in the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the Lord, ‘He is my refuge and my fortress, my God, in Whom I trust.’” (Psalm 91:1-2)

Dear God, we ask You for Your powerful protection over our children as they go different places and embark on new journeys in life. We ask that You watch over their paths, and keep their footsteps secure. Protect their coming and going. We ask that You would cover them from behind and guard them from all evil. We pray that no weapon formed against them will prosper and that You would be their constant shield and defender from the enemy's attacks. Please hide them in Your shadow of Your wings; be their refuge and security in every place they go. We pray that You would give them a deep awareness of sin, that they would be quick to confess when they've done wrong and have the heart to make it right. We ask for freedom from condemnation or fear. We pray that You would help them when they face temptations in this life, remembering that You are always there and able to help them overcome. We ask You to guard their steps from evil, give them diligence in turning away from what is wrong, that they would be bold to say, “no” to what is wrong and “yes” to what is right. Thought Christ our Lord. Amen...

PENTECOST, Sunday June 5

What is Pentecost? Pentecost is one of the great festivals of the Church. In modern popular culture, it isn't nearly as known as Christmas or Easter, but for Christians it's profoundly significant. It marks the coming of the Holy Spirit on the disciples and their transformation from frightened and confused people to men who would face martyrdom for what they believed.

Pentecost is from the Greek work ‘Pentekostos’, which means ‘fifty’. It's the 50th day after the Sabbath of Passover week and in Judaism is called the Feast of Weeks (Leviticus 23:16).

The word Pentecost has become more common in the UK, but traditionally the Church celebrated it as Whitsun – ‘White Sunday’. It's believed that this is because it was a day for baptisms and those being baptized would wear white. Another explanation is that it derives from the “Anglo-Saxon word ‘wit’, which we still use for verbal cleverness but which meant ‘understanding’ – Pentecost was when God poured out the wisdom of the Spirit.

Luke tells the story in Acts 2:1-13. Some scholars think he was referring to an experience of ‘glossalalia’ or speaking in tongues, an ecstatic outpouring of praise in an unknown language. Others point out that what the disciples said seems to have been understood by their hearers.

One promise is in the Old Testament – Joel 2:28, which says “I will pour out my Spirit on all people”, and one in the New Testament where Jesus says He will send another Counsellor, the Spirit of truth (Jn 16:5-15).

Pentecostals are so called because of the emphasis they place on the gifts of the Spirit, particularly speaking in tongues. They stress the possibility of a direct personal experience of God, like the first disciples, which – just as it was then – is often manifested in dramatic ways. Modern Pentecostals trace their origins to the Azusa Street Revival in 1906 Los Angeles.

Luke tells of three distinct experiences. A violent wind filled the house: breath or wind is a symbol of the Spirit of God. Ezekiel 37 tells the story of the prophet's vision of a valley of dry bones which come together: when the ‘breath’ of God enters them, they come to life and stand on their feet. The Pentecost wind represents the power of God to bring life to the ‘dry bones’ of faith.

Tongues of fire separate and come to rest on each of them. Jesus told His disciples, “You are the light of the world” (Mt 5:14). In John 8:12 he says, “I am the light of the world.” The picture in Acts seems to be of a single flame that separates and symbolically rests on each of them; the disciples will do what Jesus did.

The nature of the original experience has been queried, but in Luke's telling of it the point is that it breaks down barriers between people. The story links back to one of the earliest of the Old Testament stories, in Genesis 11, when the people begin the huge Tower of Babel, God confuses their language so they can no longer understand each other. At Pentecost, this Babel confusion is reversed.

Pentecost is the birthday of the Church. It marks the beginning of Christianity as a purposeful movement and a new community. When Peter preached immediately afterwards, around 3,000 people believed and were baptized.
