Dear Parishioners,

This weekend the Church celebrates the special Solemnity of Saints Peter and Paul. These two apostles of the Church have had a special place in the Church liturgical calendar for centuries.

This solemnity, celebrated on the 29th of June, doesn't always fall on a Sunday every year, but every few years.

When one visits and makes a pilgrimage to the City of Rome, you can easily see how these two saints have shaped the life of the Church. Of course, everyone is familiar with St. Peter's Basilica in the Vatican. Not only is this a place of pilgrimage (because the bones of St. Peter lie directly below the main altar), but this is the place that the world is most familiar with as this is where the Pope resides and has all the major liturgies for the Church. This church was built near (or over) the place where Peter would have been martyred.

Then there is also a basilica dedicated to St. Paul: St. Paul outside the walls. It bears this name because it is believed that St. Paul was martyred outside the city walls of Rome. If you remember the readings that we heard in the Acts of the Apostles, the Lord tells Paul that his final journey will be to see Caesar. Paul knew that he would probably meet this fate. From the dates we have, St. Peter and Paul were martyred about three years apart in the 60's (yes, this is the actual 60's, not the 1960's!). St. Peter was martyred in 64 and St. Paul was martyred in 67. In just about 40 years, we will reach 2,000 years since they were martyred.

As we see the influence that St. Peter and Paul have had on the Church over the centuries, may their example of faith and discipleship also inspire us as they have done for countless generations. Saints Peter and Paul, pray for us!

You may have also noticed that we have been working hard on trying to get the church grounds back into shape. It certainly looks a lot better than it did a year ago (after all the damage from the tornado). A special thank you to all our volunteers, especially our Knights and others who have helped our staff make this possible.

Thanks for reading!

Fr. Mark

Reflection on the Readings

Today's solemnity commemorates Saints Peter and Paul, the two great apostles who together helped lay the foundations of the early church.

Our first reading finds Peter in prison, separated from the other apostles and the Christian community in Jerusalem. Previously, Jesus had told Peter: "when you grow old, you will stretch out your hands, and someone else will dress you and lead you where you do not want to go" (Jn. 21:18). Bound in double chains and pinned between two soldiers, perhaps Peter thought that this prophecy of his death would soon be fulfilled. Instead, an angel appeared and led him to freedom—through divine intervention, Peter was able to continue his ministry as the first leader of the newly founded church.

Our second reading also comes from a prison—Paul, under arrest and knowing that his death is near, writes a final letter to his beloved disciple Timothy. "The Lord will rescue me from every evil threat," he declares, "and will bring me safe to his heavenly kingdom." Shortly after, Paul was martyred in Rome. This time, the victory lay not in Paul's deliverance from earthly imprisonment but from his having "competed well," having "finished the race," and having "kept the faith" to the very end.

This idea of victory in death and triumph in loss cut sharply against contemporary Roman ideals of glory and honor (Kurz 107). Two great apostles of the church, both eventually executed like common criminals—how could anything good come from such an ignominious ending? But God uses the foolish things of the world to confound the wise. Those who entrust their lives solely to the Lord, as Peter and Paul did, find that help is always near: "The angel of the Lord encamps around those who fear him, and delivers them" (Ps. 34:7). Sometimes this deliverance comes at once, as for Peter. At other times, our very lives are asked of us, like Paul. Regardless, in every circumstance, we cling, as these saints did, to the hope of the heavenly kingdom and eternal life with Jesus. Sts. Peter and Paul, pray for us!
