

Dear Friends,

As we gather around the mystery of Christmas once again, my heart is full of gratitude for each of you. In a world that can feel hurried and heavy, this season gently reminds us that God chooses to come close—quietly, humbly, and with a love that never grows tired.

The Christ Child meets us exactly where we are: in our joys, our worries, our routines, and even in the places we'd rather hide. He slips into the ordinary and makes it holy. My prayer is that you feel that nearness in these days—whether through a shared meal, a moment of peace, or the simple kindness of another person.

Thank you for the ways you bring light to our parish family. Your generosity, your prayers, your laughter, and your steady presence make this community a place of hope.

May the blessing of Christmas settle gently into your homes and your hearts. May you know the warmth of God's love, the comfort of His peace, and the quiet joy that comes from knowing we never walk alone.

Merry Christmas, and every blessing of the season to you and those you love.
