From the Desk of Fr. Chris

"The dignity of the human person implies and requires uprightness of moral conscience. Conscience includes the perception of the principles of morality; their application in the given circumstances by practical discernment of reasons and goods; and finally judgment about concrete acts yet to be performed or already performed." (Catechism #1780)

I wanted to begin this article with a bit of great news for our parish family. For the past several months we've been advertising a new position on the parish staff: Director of Youth and Young Adult Ministries. After posting the position on a variety of different websites and locally on social media, our website, and in our bulletin – I began the interview process about a month ago. I'm happy to announce that Mr. Brandon Bizzi has been hired as our parish's first-ever full-time Director of Youth and Young Adult Ministries. Brandon grew up in the Parma area at Holy Family parish. After graduating from Holy Family grade school, he would graduate four years later from Holy Name High School. In High School he was involved greatly as a teenager in youth ministry at his parish and Holy Name High School. It would be what would inspire him to eventually get his degree in Theology at Franciscan University of Steubenville. Brandon comes to us with experience both in youth ministry and he is currently running a young adult group at Mary Queen of Peace in Old Brooklyn. I look forward to seeing the good work that Brandon does in ministry here at St. Anselm. When he officially begins, he will introduce himself at weekend Masses. Also on a personal note, let's keep him in our prayers as he prepares for the Sacrament of Matrimony in a few months.

This weekend we celebrate Catechetical Sunday, which is also our annual kick-off for our PSR program. At each Mass we'll bless our catechists, those tasked with teaching the faith, and recognize them for their role here at the parish and across the Diocese. Thank you to all of you for your witness to our Catholic faith in both word and action. Let's say an extra prayer this weekend for Sr. Noel, our DRE, as well as our catechists and PSR students.

Last week we had students plug our annual St. Anselm Gala. This year marks the 60th anniversary of St. Anselm School. The Gala helps to support the efforts at St. Anselm School including providing scholarships, supplies, upgrades, and new equipment. As of this writing, there is a Gaga Ball pit that is pending installation near our playground that was a result of the fundraising efforts of the Gala and other events. Consider joining us for the Fall Gala on November 4th or contributing in some way to make this year's Gala another great success.

May God Bless You,
Fr. Chris

RELIGIOUS ORDERS

One beautiful and unique aspect of our Catholic faith has been the formation of what we call religious orders. Put simply, religious orders are communities of men or women that join together to pursue holiness under a common rule and set of charisms. In a general sense, a charism is a gift from God that helps build up the Church. For religious communities, a charism is the soul of the community, that which gives it purpose, motivation and animates its action.

In addition, every religious community has a rule, which helps to define what the community is and how it lives. The rule gives guidelines on every aspect of community life, from their habit, spirituality and ministry to even such things as how meals should be taken. Most religious communities base their rule off of the Rule of Saint Benedict, who is was the first to write a formal rule for his community, and is considered the pioneer in forming religious communities.

As stated earlier, religious orders can consist of either males or females. Some are cloistered orders, meaning that these men or women make the free choice to enter into a community in a single location (called a monastery) and vow to dedicate themselves wholly to prayer for the world. They decide never to leave the walls of their monastery, unless under emergency or extreme circumstances.

The religious that we tend to be familiar with are known either as sisters, or religious brothers and fathers. These men and women have a charism not only of prayer and reparation for sins, but often of a specific ministry, such as teaching, preaching, ministry to the poor, elderly, or youth.

Regardless of where or how they minister, these men and women are called specifically for God's purpose. It is a vocation, much like the sacrament of Matrimony, that lasts a lifetime.

Eternal Rest grant unto them, O Lord...

Mary Kowalsky

Please pray for our deceased brothers and sisters.

MASS ORDINARY

"The Parts of the Mass"

Notice something different at Mass? The Saint Anselm music ministry is excited to begin singing new Ordinaries (Gloria, Holy, Holy, Lamb of God, etc.), beginning the first weekend of September. The Gloria is from the Belmont Mass by Christopher Walker, and can be found at the back of the hymnal, #848. The Holy, Holy is found on p. 14 at the beginning of the hymnal in the Order of Mass. The Memorial Acclamation (A), Amen, and Lamb of God are found in this same Order of Mass on pgs. 16, 26, and 27. We hope these new musical settings offer a refreshing way to contemplate the texts of these important prayers we pray at every Mass. And don't worry if you miss the Mass of Creation setting we've been using for the past two years--we will still use this version during Christmas and Easter time. It may take a few weeks to become familiar with the new music, and that is normal! We will have "practice preludes" for the next couple weekends during the 10 minutes before each Mass for anyone who wishes to join.

-Rosemary Heredos

We will rehearse every Sunday at 12 noon (after the 11am Mass) in the choir room. The group will sing at the 11am Mass on the first Sunday of every month. Please email Rosemary Heredos to register at rheredos@stanselm.org. Rehearsal will commence on Sunday, September 17th at 12 noon. Children of all ages welcome!

Faith Seeks Understanding

The Thursday morning book discussions are back ---this time during the month of October, 2023 As before, they will be at the rectory, after the 8:30 morning Mass, beginning with coffee and victuals around 9 AM, and conversations about the book from 9:30 until 10:30 AM. We do keep the time limit as everyone has busy schedules! In the book's short chapters, Lewis cleverly and amusingly details how easy it is to compromise in our choices to avoid the necessary single mindedness of making decisions that lead to heaven. We invite anyone with interest in the topic of heaven and hell and/or C.S. Lewis to join us for these upcoming October Thursday morning discussions. You can call the rectory with your questions and get a copy of the book there also. The telephone number is 440-729-9575.

CATECHETICAL SUNDAY 2023

At the heart of the Church is catechesis. Catechesis is more than religious instruction; it is really about on-going conversion and faith formation. It is about integrating four building blocks: message, community, service, and worship. Throughout our programs, this weaving is being done. It calls for many people with diverse gifts. Let us give thanks to God!
