Dear Family in Christ,

Watching the news this week there was a constant competition for coverage between the Patriots and the snow storm; not sure who won. All of us go through those moments in which joy mixes with anxiety; the question is which one prevails?

We are only “half way” through Winter. That means that some of us during the next few weeks may get the winter blues. After being locked in, our homes, schools and working places may begin to ‘shrink’, and as a consequence of the shrinking... things and people will start to annoy us.

May God provide for us the tools and graces to find and hold on to joy and patience; and at the same time help us to be free from anxiety!

Be holy!

In Christ,
Fr. José
