A friend recently confided in me that although he prayed frequently each day and was involved heavily in his parish, he did not sense much fruit coming from it all and was left feeling unsatisfied. I assured him he was not alone. I told him of a deceased pastor of mine who had spoken frequently about being in this type of situation. Even as a priest, he knew all too well of how we can feel like we are simply going through the motions. It is precisely at those times that continuing to pray and practicing good stewardship is most important, because it would be easier to simply take a break and risk never coming back. He liked to say, "Do the drill," meaning just do what needs to be done.

We are all called to be mature disciples who answer the call of Jesus Christ regardless of the cost. We cannot choose when and where the call will come. We cannot schedule our stewardship in a way that is always most convenient for us. Even when the fruits of our faithful efforts seem hidden from us, we hold to the promise that we are never called to give of ourselves for nothing. God is working through us and in us. No matter how dry the land may seem, seeds are being planted to yield a harvest greater than we can ever realize. Stay strong and do the drill!

— Tracy Earl Welliver, MTS

Liturgy of the Eucharist (Part One)

After the conclusion of the Liturgy of the Word, we move into the Liturgy of the Eucharist with the presentation of gifts. Typically, the bread and wine to be consecrated are brought up in procession by members of the parish. Sometimes, the collection is also brought up. The point of this ceremony is to remind us that God asks for our cooperation in our salvation, and we cooperate by offering to Him what we have been given. Wine is taken from the vine and prepared by human hands as is bread. The collection represents our gift of our own fruits. Once the celebrant receives the gifts, he takes them to the altar to prepare them. This begins by him praying the old Jewish blessing, "Blessed are you, Lord God of all creation. Through your goodness we have this bread to offer, which Earth has given, and human hands have made. It will become for us, the Bread of Life." When this prayer is audible, the congregation responds, "Blessed be God forever." A similar process is repeated for the wine which is mixed with water in the chalice to recall the water and blood which came from Jesus's side when he was pierced with the lance at the end of the crucifixion. Next, Father washes his hands as he prays, "Lord, wash away my iniquity, and cleanse me from my sins." By doing so, he acknowledges his own unworthiness before offering the sacrifice of the Mass.

The celebrant then invites the congregation to stand. He asks us the pray that his sacrifice as well as ours will be acceptable to God. This is because mass is a joint sacrifice. By presenting the gifts, and offering our prayers, we offer our sacrifice. By accepting the gifts, and offering them for consecration, the celebrant plays his role in the sacrifice as he acts in the person of Christ. Next, a prayer over the gifts is said and then the celebrant begins the dialogue.

First, the celebrant greets the congregation with, "The Lord be with you," which is the third time we hear this greeting in mass, and we respond the same way we did the previous two times. Next, he says, "Lift up your hearts." This is when the focus of the liturgy shifts from Earth to Heaven. This is why we say, "We lift them up to the Lord." We then conclude the dialogue with giving thanks to Almighty God because it is right and just. Next, the celebrant prays the preface to the Eucharistic Prayer which ends with the "Holy, Holy, Holy." This is a very important part of the liturgy because the ENTIRE Church joins in this hymn. Church Militant, (we who are here on Earth), Church Penitent, (the souls in Purgatory), and Church Triumphant, (the souls in Heaven), all convene as time stands still. The mass is the eternal sacrifice which isn't bound by space and time. Our hearts literally meet Heaven, though our bodies are still here on earth.

Next week, we'll pick up with the institution narrative and the consecration. For now, I invite you to reflect on that profound mysterious reality. Just as we gather physically with each other in church on Sundays, so too do we gather with all those who came before us and have preceded us in death, all the angels and saints, and, most importantly, Almighty God Himself in the Liturgy of the Eucharist. Perhaps, we would do well to offer thanks to Almighty God, that in His loving kindness, He doesn't make us wait until we die to taste Heaven. He lets us visit at every mass.

-Christian Guilbeau

GOSPEL REFLECTION

Patience is rooted in Hope (an image of a bush filled with birds would be great)

Life, like the church, is often burdened with evil, smallness, and impurities. The Lord's parables give us a hope-filled perspective on all three.

Evil: in Jesus' parable about the good farmer whose enemy plants weeds at night, Jesus tells us that God is not the cause of evil but permits evil to exist with good out of his patient love. He will finally deal with it, but his love lets things stay messy for a time.

Smallness: It's funny that Jesus says his kingdom looks like ... wait for it ... a bush. What a letdown! Yet this little shrub still somehow has room for all the birds of the sky. The smallness of the Church, and even our own little lives, still provides plenty of room for all whom God sends.

Impurities: divisions and hypocrisies in the Church and our own hearts exasperate us. Recall that Jesus compares his kingdom to a lump of dough with impure leaven eating away at it and therefore making it expand. It's the secret of the Cross. Not how we'd prefer it. But finally, great news.

The field, the bush, the loaf: all three parables invite us to embrace a patience rooted in hope: one day the field will be weeded, the bush filled with birds, and the risen loaf leaven-free.

— Father John Muir
