Ordinary Time: Nineteenth Sunday

This week's readings: 1 Kings 19:9a, 11-13a Psalm 85 Romans 9:1-5 Matthew 14:22-33

In today's first reading and in the gospel, God and Jesus are not revealed in the storms that surround Elijah and the disciples. Instead, God is in the courage that Jesus offers to the disciples and in the quiet whispering sound following the wind, earthquake, and fire that shake the cave of Elijah. In our own lives of faith, do we find God in the quiet or is our gaze distracted by worldly shows of power and force?

The "boats" we inhabit today are varied, but we can expect turbulence much like the disciples themselves experienced. Though Peter was willing to step outside the boat, his faith was little, not enough for him to stand on his own. But he cried for help, was heard and was saved. We may take comfort in knowing that even if our journey is bumpy, the Lord is there to save us when we cry out.

Next week's readings - Ordinary Time: 20th Sunday
Isaiah 56:1, 6-7 Psalm 67 Romans 11:13-15 Matthew 15:21-28

Schedule of Masses for Saturday, August 15 (Feast of the Assumption) Holy Day

7:30 a.m. - Fr. Kozubek 9:00 a.m. - Fr. Brault 12:00 noon - Fr. Brault

Excerpts from Pope Francis' Letter Landato Si (On Care for Our Creation) CHAPTER THREE – *The Human Roots of the Ecological Crisis

III. The Crisis and Effects of Modern Anthropocentrism, continued

New biological technologies

The seven long paragraphs in this section are evidence of the complexities involved. Pope Francis refers often to "human intervention," with statements like: While human intervention on plants and animals is permissible when it pertains to the necessities of human life, the Catechism of the Catholic Church teaches that experimentation on animals is morally acceptable only if it remains within reasonable limits and contributes to caring for or saving human lives.

That is the framework for reflecting on human intervention on plants and animals, which at present includes genetic manipulation by biotechnology. While it is difficult to summarize the paragraphs on genetic modification, whether vegetable or animal, medical or agricultural, the document states that these issues require constant attention and a concern for their ethical implications.

The Pope concludes this section: We forget that the inalienable worth of a human being transcends his or her degree of development. As we have seen in this chapter, a technology severed from ethics will not easily be able to limit its own power.

Next week: CHAPTER FOUR

Sign up for Weekend Mass

on our website,

www.sjbssparish.org

Please sign up weekly all members of your family individually.

If you don't have internet access, please call the Parish Office, 301-622-1122, to sign up.

Personal Health Evaluation

1. In the last two weeks, did you care for or have close contact with someone diagnosed with COVID-19?

2. Do you have any of the following: fever or chills, cough, shortness of breath or difficulty breathing, body aches, headache, new loss of taste or smell, sore throat?

If you or someone in your family can answer yes to either of these two questions, please refrain from signing up for Mass. Thank you for keeping everyone safe and healthy.

Group Meetings Suspended

The Pandemic is currently making it impossible for us to hold any meetings. The guidance from the CDC, the State of Maryland and the Archdiocese of Washington is making the safety of each one of us the primary emphasis. For the time being all organizations should plan to use the electronic world for meetings. Thank you for your cooperation.

SJB Parish 'Drive Out Hunger' Food Drive

The SJB Parish Food Drive drop off will be the 1st and 3rd Saturdays of the month near the Lyon Center. The next drop off will be August 15 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Dry goods are preferred. Food donations will be distributed to the St. Camillus Food Bank. Thank you for your generosity. If you have a question or need more information, please email Rob Farrell at ROB@sjbknight.com

Check Out the Entrance Signs

As you enter St. John's from New Hampshire Avenue, please notice the nice looking entrance signs that were refurbished as part of an Eagle Scout Project. Thank you Nick Paulter for doing such a good job.

Parish Office Closed Monday, August 10

Due to the disruption from Parish Office air conditioning repairs, the Parish Office will be closed Monday, August 10, and will reopen Tuesday, August 11, at 9:00 a.m.

Sign up Weekly for Weekend Masses

Due to COVID-19, there are many precautions we must take for the health and safety of all as we once again begin public celebrations of the Mass. To insure proper social distancing between people we need to limit the number of seats available at each of the five Weekend Masses:

- Saturday 4:00 p.m. and 6:00 p.m.
- Sunday 7:30 a.m., 9:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m.
(no evening Mass)

Weekly sign up is needed for every individual member of your family who wants to attend one of the Weekend Masses. Sign up will open each week starting on Mondays at 12 noon and ending on Thursdays at 12 noon immediately preceding the upcoming Weekend Masses.

To sign up to attend a Weekend Mass, please visit our website at www.sjbssparish.org. If you do not have internet access, please call the Parish Office, 301-622-1122. Sign up is not required for Daily Mass. Please arrive early for all Masses.

Please know that when you come to attend Mass:

- A mask or facial covering must be worn.
- Entry will be through the main, front, wrought iron doors – only.
- Ushers will direct you to a seat.

Thank you for your patience as we navigate this new normal together.

Update on the Jubilarian Mass

The annual Jubilarian Mass has been rescheduled for Sunday, November 22, at 2 p.m. in the Basilica of the Immaculate Conception. If you have not done so already, please call the Parish Office before Friday, September 25, to arrange attendance, 301-622-1122

Mystical Word

written by L.J. Milone, Director of Faith Formation, ljmilone@sjbssparish.org

St. Catherine of Siena, that fiery young mystic, embodied godly freedom. And it was freedom that she communicated to her people: "Free yourselves from the bond of pride and bind yourselves to the humble Lamb." She said that surrendering to the service of God was the greatest liberty: "Oh how sweet is this servitude that frees us from the servitude of sin!" But what held us in bondage? From what was Catherine anxious to free others? For her, the root of all slavery lay in fear.

Fr. Paul Murray, contemporary Irish Dominican and commentator on the mystical spirituality of St. Catherine, writes, "[Catherine] names for us – now in one letter, now in another – some of the many different forms that fear assumes, noting for example how afraid we can become of other people, of what they think of us and of how they judge us; afraid of death and suffering, or of God's judgment; or afraid even of ourselves, of our own weakness and our spiritual and moral failure. "Oh how dangerous such fear is!" she writes. "It cuts off the arms of holy desire. It binds us and keeps us from knowing the truth."

Fear can consume us. It is not only easy but understandable that fear holds such sway in our world today when we consider the virus and the high levels of unemployment. St. Catherine would admonish us, "I have asked and will continue to ask the good gentle Jesus to free you from all slavish fear, leaving you only holy fear." We might think that is all well and good but I still feel anxious. What about my job? How will I live? While not dismissing these very legitimate concerns, Catherine might suggest that fretting about it only makes it worse. She knows and recommends only one way out of the chaos: turn to God.

"Our helper," writes Catherine, "is God, and he is such that no one can withstand him. As long as we continue to look to this strong loving helper, we cannot be weakened by the thought of our own frailty." Murray comments, "That contemplative focus on divine love is, for Catherine, absolutely crucial if we are to find the courage and strength to overcome our bondage to weakness and sin. Should an individual, therefore, be brought to the point of despair by the bondage of weakness, that man or that woman should go to God like a child going to its mother, bringing all its fear and all its weakness into the presence of love. Catherine explains that love – the 'wondrous charity' of God – is the 'gentlest of mothers.' It is the 'remedy for all our weakness.'"

Far from being a naïve solution to our problems, Catherine's simple way of turning to God in the middle of our personal fears, chaos, weakness, and sin, can very much free us. Catherine knows this because she herself has been freed by a contemplative centering on divine love. Murray says, "Catherine knew that an individual can become so totally caught up in the coils of sin that he or she begins to suffer a virtual moral paralysis. Should this happen, the sinner, in Catherine's understanding, is not just wicked or worldly. The sinner is afraid." Our fears can warp our perception of reality and cause us to do mean and selfish things. Our fears can run away with our lives and mess them up in the extreme. "But in this extremity, there still remains one way in which their freedom can be expressed, and that is by turning to God and asking for help," says Murray. So, Catherine teaches us, "Stay near your gentle mother, charity, who will free you from all servile fear and all coldness of heart, and give you strength, and breadth, and freedom of heart."

Even the more minor faces of fear can ruin stretches of peace in our lives. Catherine laconically states, "I have never seen a single burden relieved by impatience." How true that is! When has being impatient ever relieved a personal burden? She wants us to be free of fear in all its forms. The impatient person, if we were to dig underneath layers of repressed anger and bitterness, is likely caught in the steely grip of fear.

Whatever burdens we carry, whatever hurts afflict us, whatever fears overwhelm us, Catherine preaches, "If you want to be relieved of your burdens and infirmities, keep your eyes on the slain, consumed Lamb, so that the fire of his charity may warm your heart and soul to love for patience and consume all the cold and damp of selfish sensual love and passion and self-pity." We can be free!

Living the Gospel: The Quest for Racial Justice and Equality

Four parishes will collectively examine this urgent national issue

The 2020 Adult Faith Formation Series is a joint venture of St. Camillus, Resurrection, St. John the Baptist, and St. Patrick's churches

Presentations and discussions in the 2020 series will be anchored in what we profess as Christians and in our rich Catholic social teachings. Come along to explore what it means to be anti-racist, the implications for personal and communal transformation, and how to be advocates for equality. The journey promises to be personally and communally transformational.

...wherever any minority is persecuted and marginalized because of its religious convictions or ethnic identity, the wellbeing of society as a whole is endangered and each one of us must feel affected. -- Pope Francis

THREE MONDAY EVENINGS: AUGUST 17; 24; 31 (first part of a series):

A separate registration is required for each session. Participants are encouraged to register for all three.
