Ordinary Time: Third Sunday

This week's readings: Jonah 3:1-5, 10 Psalm 25 1 Corinthians 7:29-31 Mark 1:14-20

It's hard to keep from singing in church. Singing is an integral part of Catholic liturgy. So often it's the text of a hymn or song that helps us remember the gospel of the day. Today, for instance, the story of Jesus calling the fisherman at the Sea of Galilee is told in the words of "Lord, When You Came" (Pescador de Hombres) by Cesário Gabarám.

The men respond: *O Lord, in my eyes you were gazing,
Kindly smiling, my name you were saying;
All I treasured, I have left on the sand there;
Close to you, I will find other seas.*

This gospel passage begins with Jesus' first spoken words in the Gospel of Mark, and within them the general theme of the whole of Jesus' preaching.

"This is the time of fulfillment. The kingdom of God is at hand.
Repent, and believe in the gospel."

The Greek word for repentance, "metanoia," evokes more than just a sorrow for individual sins but an actual turning of one's whole being toward the Lord. We've begun a new year – a year unlike any we've known before. We are challenged to find the "other seas" referenced in that song. Now is the time to be part of the kingdom, to turn our whole lives toward God.

Pax Christi-SJB Meeting

In 2017, in accord with Pope Francis' call to abolish nuclear weapons, the Holy See was the first nation-state to ratify the Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons (TPNW). On January 22, 2021, the TPNW, which has now been ratified by 51 nation-states, went into effect, thereby making nuclear weapons internationally illegal.

You can also sign the resolution at <https://preventnuclearwar.org> Join us in urging the United States to declare a "no first strike" policy, as a next step toward the total elimination of nuclear weapons.

If you would like more information, come to the Pax Christi-SJB meeting on February 8; contact Ronnie Fellerath-Lowell, vmfny@aol.com, for the zoom link.

Bereavement Ministry

Due to Covid 19, our Bereavement Ministry is still unable to safely hold monthly meetings at St. John the Baptist Church. We know that so many are grieving and may not have any other outlet for expressing the grief that you feel. We are brokenhearted that we cannot be with each of you to share your grief and comfort one another. If you need to speak with someone in the Ministry, please leave a message for Ruth Anne McCormick, 301-622-0664, or Maryanne Dulski, 301-384-1743. You may also email Ruth Anne at draram612@gmail.com.

From the Desk of our Pastor

Since the Kazista Center was built we have had ongoing issues with the HVAC system stemming from poor design which caused air flow issues. We have nursed the system along but recently reached a point where it needed to be replaced when we had no AC during the summer. The HVAC unit components were mostly original equipment installed during construction of the Kazista Center. The compressor, indoor coil and air handler were replaced at a cost of $21,196.71. However, new equipment did not resolve the air flow issues. The original air flow zoning system controller was not working properly so a new zoning system with new dampers, controller and actuator needed to be installed at a cost of $7,595.75. The timing couldn't have been worse, but we are fortunate your contributions to the Capital Improvement Fund enable us to cover these expenses.

Gratefully,

Father David

A service of Lament, Hope, and Healing

Monday, January 25, 7-8:30 p.m.

New offering of the Living the Gospel: Contemplation and Action program

This Adult Faith Formation program is a partnership of several Maryland Catholic parishes: St John the Baptist, St Camillus, St Patrick's, and parishioners from Resurrection.

This past year has been hard. Many of us have lost beloved family members and friends. Our country is more divided than ever. We have also lost many other things: our jobs, peace of mind, our ability to move around freely, opportunities, and more. We lament violence and divisions in our country as well as any violence that festers in our neighborhoods, homes, and hearts. In faith, we can bring these losses to God for healing. Join us on the evening of January 25 for a Liturgy of Lament to pray, share in small group sharing, and surrender to God amidst our losses. Hoping in God, healing can begin.

Register here:

Meeting Registration - Zoom

After registering, you will receive a confirmation email containing information about joining the meeting.

Please mark your calendars:

February 8, 7-8:30 p.m.:

Mystical Word

written by L.J. Milone, Director of Faith Formation, ljmilone@sjbssparish.org

"O happy nothingness, and happy hiding place of the heart!" There it is! Happy nothingness! When we remain in a spiritual state of nothingness, we are happy! Nothingness is a spiritual state, an interior state, or a state of the heart that is totally prayerful. To be happy is to be nothing within. Our interior and spiritual state has to be reduced to nothing. And we must be not only okay with that, but also rejoicing in it. John counsels us: "Souls will be unable to reach perfection who do not strive to be content with having nothing, in such fashion that their natural and spiritual desire is satisfied with emptiness; for this is necessary in order to reach the highest tranquility and peace of spirit. Hence the love of God in the pure and simple soul is almost continually in act."

The fullest contentment and deepest desire of our hearts is found in nothingness. Both our "natural and spiritual desire" must be "satisfied with emptiness." We are pleased, in other words, to have and be nothing. In such a way, which is no way at all because it is nothingness, we rest in God alone. For, according to St. John of the Cross and the whole host of Christian mystics, God is not a thing but transcendent mystery. As such, God seems to us like nothing. So, if we are happy with God alone, who is not a thing, we can rest content with our interior world "void of all things." Where there is interior vacancy, there is God. To be content with God alone is to be content with nothing since God is not a thing and since the soul must be left empty and void of all attachments and all thinking.

Again, happy nothingness is a spiritual state residing in the heart. It is "where" the heart hides from its cravings and attachments. Happy nothingness is when we allow our hearts to rest in nothingness without reacting to their cravings by satisfying them. It is an interior state in which we must remain "empty, naked, and purified of every appetite." And happy nothingness is not only an interior state which we practice but also a state into which God brings us. For, there comes a time when God takes us deeper into contemplative silence as we continuously abide in the empty state of being content with God alone. As God takes us deeper, we lose interest in the things that use to stimulate and excite our inordinate desires. We take delight in the nothingness within.

At its core, the practice of happy nothingness means to stop thinking since all our inordinate desires lie in our minds. John writes, "Let there be no particular knowledge or affection or other consideration in any of the spiritual faculties...and let there be no other digressions, forms, images, or figures of objects, or other natural operations in any of the bodily senses and faculties, either interior or exterior (the imaginative power and phantasy, and so on, sight and hearing, and so on). The soul says this because, for the perfect enjoyment of this communion with God, all the senses and faculties, interior and exterior, should be unoccupied, idle, and empty of their own operations and objects."

Besides the fact that our inordinate appetites lie in our thinking, the other major reason we have to stop thinking is that our knowledge, composed of thoughts and feelings, cannot grasp God in the divine mystery that God is. He says that those who seek God "must lean on dark faith...and rest on nothing of what they understand, taste, feel, or imagine. All these perceptions are darkness that will lead them astray. Faith lies beyond all this understanding, taste, feeling, and imagining" (A 2.4.2). God transcends our "understanding, taste, feeling, and imagining," in short, our thinking. No matter how exalted our experiences or thoughts of God, John counsels us, "that knowledge or experience will have no resemblance to God and amount to very little" (A 2.4.3). So, he is not talking about general thoughts only. He is also talking about good and holy thoughts, even thoughts about God. Happy nothingness, as John describes it, is the state of not thinking. He tells us to stay put in this state of quiet without adverting to anything exterior or interior. Happy nothingness is the practice of letting go of chronic thinking and of all mental phenomena while enjoying God as God whom we experience as nothing.

Now, based on our reflections on the selection from Letter 16, we can define "happy nothingness" as a dynamic state of contemplative prayer in which we rest contented and glad about God alone by not thinking and abiding in the nothingness within. We rest happy with God through interior nothingness, a spiritual state of not paying attention to our thinking.
