Gospel Reflection: Matthew 21:33-43

Jesus tells the parable about the wicked tenants.

Today's Gospel follows directly after last Sunday's Gospel in which Jesus was questioned by Jewish religious leaders about the source of his teaching authority. After refusing to answer their questions, Jesus tells the parable of the two sons and then criticizes the priests and elders for their lack of belief in John the Baptist.

In today's Gospel, Jesus once again speaks to the priests and elders with a parable. In this parable, the landowner leases his vineyard to tenants and sends his servants to collect the portion of the harvest that the tenants owe to him. Several times the servants are sent to collect payment, and each time they are beaten and killed by the tenants. Finally, the landowner sends his son to collect his rent. The tenants, believing that they will inherit the vineyard if the landowner dies without an heir, plot together and kill the landowner's son.

After telling the parable, Jesus questions the chief priests and elders about what the landowner will do to the wicked tenants. They all agree that the landowner will kill the wicked tenants and give the land to new tenants who will pay the rent.

In telling the parable, Jesus is clearly drawing upon Isaiah 5:1-7, which is today's first reading and one that the priests and elders would have known well. Jesus doesn't, therefore, have to explain the symbolism of the parable; the Pharisees would have understood that the vineyard represented Israel, the landowner represented God, the servants represented the prophets, and the bad tenants represented the religious leaders. Yet Jesus nonetheless explains the meaning of the parable for his audience: the Kingdom of God will be taken from the unbelieving and given to the faithful. The chief priests and elders have condemned themselves with their answer to Jesus' question. Today's Gospel has a parallel in Mark 12:1-12. There are some notable differences, however. In Matthew's version, the religious leaders condemn themselves; in Mark's Gospel, Jesus answers his own question. Matthew names the religious leaders as Pharisees and chief priests. Clearly this Gospel shows the tension that was mounting between Jesus and the Jewish religious leaders who thought that his message was dangerous. Matthew's Gospel was written about 70 years after Jesus' death and reflects the conflicts and tensions found in the Christian community for whom Matthew was writing. Many biblical scholars believe that the tension between Matthew's community and their Jewish neighbors can also be heard in today's reading.

This Gospel reminds us of the importance of listening to God's word. God speaks to us in many ways—through Scripture, through our Church tradition, in our Church's teaching, and through modern-day prophets. Are we attentive and receptive to God's word to us through these messengers? From Loyolapress.com*

World Mission Sunday Oct. 22—Mediation for this Sunday from the World Mission Societies

People in relationships are often aloof and cautious. How come? Because honesty is very risky, and revealing one's heart to others is often difficult and painful. In the story of the vine we receive today, God reveals himself, he discovers his weakness which is love for man. Through the image of the building of the vineyard, he shows how carefully and precisely he approaches relationships with people; he cares about every detail of human life like a friend who sets up and builds a vineyard and makes every effort to create the perfect place for the vine to develop. However, despite this great care (good place, fence, defensive tower, pruning, watering...), the vine ultimately does not bear good fruit. God's plan for man's life is the best possible plan, but it is often incomprehensible - to man. Therefore, rebellion, opposition, and even reproach to God often arise in the human heart. Referring to today's Word, like the vine we often rebuke the farmer; you built a fence and towers, that is, you wanted to limit me, you took my freedom; you pruned the branches, that is, you constantly hurt me; you weeded the vineyard, that is, you took from my life what I was attached to, what was close to me, you stole my pleasure. You sent rain when I wanted sunshine, that is, you took away my dreams and desires.... Man aspires to live as if God did not exist, according to his own life plan. But what will happen to a vineyard if the farmer does not fence it in, water it and take care of the vines? They will rake it and trample it.

THANKSGIVING BLESSINGS

On that day, you will say:

I give you thanks, O Lord;
though you have been angry with me,
your anger has abated, and you have consoled me.
God indeed is my salvation;
I am confident and unafraid.
For the Lord is my strength and my might,
and he has been my salvation.
With joy you will draw water
from the fountains of salvation,
And you will say on that day:
give thanks to the Lord, acclaim his name;
Among the nations make known his deeds,

proclaim how exalted is his name.

Sing praise to the Lord for he has done glorious things;

let this be known throughout all the earth.

Shout with exultation, City of Zion,

for great in your midst

is the Holy One of Israel! Isaiah 12:1-6
