PASTOR'S CORNER

Divine Motherhood for the Son of David

(Luke 1:26-38)

Through Nathan the prophet, God assured King David, "Your house and your kingdom shall endure forever before me; your throne shall stand firm forever." (2 Sm 7:16) Could this have been a bit of divine hyperbole? By the time Jesus was born, the line of kings from David had long before effectively died out.

Through their genealogies in the gospels, Matthew and Luke connected Jesus to King David, even though there are perplexing inconsistencies in how each traces Jesus' lineage. In the annunciation scene, Luke emphasizes the Davidic connection, where Mary's betrothed is Joseph "of the house of David." The angel says that the child will sit on "the throne of David his father." In addressing Mary, the angel repeats God's promise to King David that his "kingdom shall endure forever."

Before the gospels were written down, the link to King David must have already been well known. Even in his earthly life, Jesus was popularly called "son of David." This suggests that families of the time would have kept current with their ancestry and rehearsed genealogies with their children.

That there was a centuries-long interruption in the line of kings after David, does not necessarily contradict God's promise that the dynasty would last forever. There would, however, have to be a restoration of the throne in a way beyond anything that human beings could imagine or accomplish. It required a singular act on the part of God.

God's work of preparation was Mary, preserving her from all stain of original sin from the first moment of her existence—the Immaculate Conception. With her freedom thereby enhanced to do God's will, she was ready to be the mother of the Savior. At the angel's announcement of God's and plan and his desire for her cooperation, she agreed and conceived by the power of the Holy Spirit—the Virginal Conception of the Son of God and son of David. On Christmas we celebrate his appearance in the flesh and the restoration of his throne that will last forever!

~Fr. David
