June 11 marked a special day for Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church in Lawton. It commemorated the 120th anniversary of the church, and the church celebrated it with an afternoon of family fun and activities.

“One hundred and 20 years ago this weekend, Bishop Meerschaert, our first bishop, came to Lawton to celebrate a Confirmation Mass. While he was there, he introduced Father Zenon Steber as the first resident pastor of Lawton, establishing Blessed Sacrament as a parish. Over the past 120 years, Blessed Sacrament has had 15 different pastors, many associate pastors and thousands and thousands of parishioners,” said Father John Paul Lewis, pastor, in the weekly bulletin.

“Whenever a man accepts responsibility for the life of another, in some way he becomes a father to that person” (Patris corde).

The following three fathers were brought up in very diverse backgrounds with very different life experiences. However, they all share a devotion to the Catholic faith and enjoy fatherhood.

Juan Perez, Saint Mary Catholic Church, Ardmore

Juan Perez and his family have been members of Saint Mary Catholic Church for more than 15 years. He and his wife Teresa are the proud parents of five children. He is employed at Chick-fil-A.

Perez said, “I draw inspiration when times are tough from Blessed Stanley Rother, who gave his life to save his sheep.”

As for being a good father figure, he said, “I always want my wife and kids to be better Christians and follow the example of the Holy Family. ... I strive to be a good example and a good father to my kids.”

Deacon Juan Jimenez said the following about Perez and his family, “I wish every family was as devoted to Christ. They should use this family as an example. They never miss Mass, they are here early for Mass, they serve as Mass servers, they serve as lectors, the

“A man does not become a father simply by bringing a child into the world, but by taking up the responsibility to care for that child. Whenever a man accepts responsibility for the life of another, in some way he becomes a father to that person” (Patris corde).

Archbishop Coakley’s statement on shooting at St. Francis hospital campus in Tulsa

“I commended Bishop Konderla, the priests of the Diocese of Tulsa and the Sisters of Mercy for their swift response to attend to the pastoral needs of those involved in this latest act of mass gun violence. I ask Catholics and all people of faith to pray for our men and women killed today and for their families who now must grieve tremendous losses. We need to speak louder in defense of all human life from conception until natural death, and find ways to stop the mass killing of innocent human beings.”

Archbishop Coakley’s statement on Oklahoma’s execution protocol

“No matter the decision of the Oklahoma protocol, the use of the death penalty only contributes to the continued criminalization of society and to the spiral of violence. Taking another life does not ultimately bring closure and peace to those who have lost a loved one, and it goes against the principle of valuing life. Justice is necessary, but it is not enough. Mercy speaks loudly in defense of all human life”.

Bishop chairman’s plead for peace as attacks on pro-life organizations mount

The unspeakable acts of violence chosen by those on death row have left lifelong scars for families and loved ones and we must hold these criminals accountable for their actions as punishment for killing others – only perpetuates the cycle of violence and hatred. In the interest of the nation’s reputation for redeeming Jesus Christ’s message, we cannot continue to profit from it if we’re wrong. The hardships of trauma and violence weigh heavy in our country these days, and I ask Attorney General O’Connor, Gov. Stitt and Oklahoma leaders to take this opportunity to reject a culture of death and build up a culture of life.”
Archbishop Coakley calls for investments for climate change, the common good

WASHINGTON – As Congress considers additional investments to protect the environment this year, Archbishop Paul Coakley of Oklahoma City, chairman of the U.S. Conference of the Catholic Bishops’ Committee on Domestic Justice and Human Development, has written a letter outlining the conference’s principles and priorities.

Key points in the June 8 letter to members of Congress include:

• Care for creation, and especially the climate which affects all life on earth, is integral to the care for humanity. The United States, a leading producer and consumer of global energy and one of the world’s top carbon emitters, has a distinct responsibility to address climate change. This is a critical time for investments in climate mitigation, adaptation, and innovation. The inclusion of $555 billion in climate investments proposed in the House-passed budget reconciliation bill was encouraging since those policies offer a comprehensive path to achieving net zero emissions.

• Climate legislation is being discussed alongside changes to the tax code and prescription drug pricing reforms, policies that can offset the cost of investments. We have long advocated that the tax system provide adequate revenues to pay for the public needs of society, especially to meet the basic needs of the poor and that ‘every person has a right to adequate health care.’

• Climate investments and economic decisions must be guided by the common good, and further investments under consideration must take into account the margins of society, strengthen families, protect religious freedom, promote care for creation, and respect the rights and dignity of every human life.

A fter the founding of the Diocese of Kingfisher in 1899, Father Felix De Greaser of Sacred Heart Abbey in Konawa and pastor of Guthrie, came to celebrate Mass in the homes of the people of the community. By 1901, a wooden structure became the first church dedicated to Saint Anne on the corner of Eighth and Wyatt under the care of the first resident pastor, Father Joseph Beck.

As the community began to expand, the need for a permanent structure became paramount and the process began in 1903. The pastor, Father Felix Vander Aa (himself a colorful character whose run-ins with Bishop Meiser were stuff of legend) was the driving force of the new location of Main and Euclid. While the cornerstone was laid “1903,” it was not finished until 1909 due to numerous construction delays and severe storm damage.

The edifice was dedicated to the patronage of Saints Peter and Paul. When completed, this architectural gem remains a landmark that still stands on Highway 81.

The first parish school was constructed in 1910 and was later replaced by the current school building in 1929. The Benedictine Sisters were the first order to provide teaching. The Carmelites ran the operation for a year and later Dominicans first from Springfield, Ill., and then from Siena, Wis., continued the work.

In 1928, the enrollment began to shrink as the non-Catholics were afraid to send their children due to fears of the Ku Klux Klan. The Diocese of Kingfisher saw an exodus of population, and the mission closed in 1950.

The view of the property in 2020 by the University of Oklahoma Archaeological Research Lab shows the evidence of a fire surrounding the cistern and surrounding area.

Catechesis of the Good Shepherd prepares adults serving children in religious formation

Catechesis of the Good Shepherd seeks to create and facilitate a sacred “hands-on” space for children called an Atrium.

Atriums will have the opportunity to attend a camp to enhance their skills to teach children through Good Shepherd Adult Formation.

“The courses are open to anyone who knows the call of the Good Shepherd to serve children,” said Mara Lemcke. “The archdiocese is offering two courses this summer. Level 1 formation is for those who serve children 3 to 6 years old. Level 2 is for those who have already completed level 1 formation and are ready to continue with level 2 formation, serving children 6 to 9 years old, including preparation for the Sacraments of Reconciliation and First Holy Communion.”

The goal of Catechesis of the Good Shepherd Adult Formation is to prepare and support adults who serve children in their religious formation.

The course presents the methodology and guiding principles of CGS through Montessori pedagogical principles and explores the religious nature and the most vital religious needs of children. It is a time of prayer and enrichment for the adult in a background of scripture and liturgy, theology and prayer, as well as the pedagogy of the child.

The Catechesis of the Good Shepherd seeks to create and facilitate a sacred “hands-on” space for children called an Atrium, in which both the children and the catechists can hear, ponder and celebrate the most essential mysteries of their faith as revealed in the scriptures and the liturgy.

The catechists will help the child’s relationship with God flourish by introducing and pondering with the child the core mysteries of the faith in a way that is respectful of both the child at this phase of her or his development and the rich spiritual and liturgical heritage of the sacramental tradition.

Focusing on God’s unconditional love through the parable of the Good Shepherd, the level 1 catechism formation course is based on the conviction that God and the child are in relationship.

Level II formation expands on the themes presented in level I, as well as introduces themes around the “History of the Kingdom of God” and a person’s role in it, “Moral Reflection” and the “Sacrament of the Eucharist.” Level I formation is a prerequisite for First Reconciliation and “First Communion.”

Pro-Vida de principio a fin

Se espera que antes que termine el mes de junio, la Corte Suprema de los Estados Unidos tome una decisión en el ya anticipado caso Dobbs, sobre el aborto. Debido a una falta de informe nunca antes vista, se espera que la decisión de los magistrados se la de hacer válida la decisión de una corte de instancia menor, que limitaría el aborto o incluso podría derogar la decisión de Roe vs Wade de 1973, bajo la cual legalizar el aborto en todos los estados.

Al derogar Roe, la capacidad de regular el aborto regresará a cada uno de los estados. Defensores pro-vida y todos aquéllos que reconocen que el aborto es una preocupación social premonitoria de nuestro tiempo se encuentran sin duda emocionados ante esta realidad.

Hemos rezado por un fin al aborto por casi 50 años. El aborto es una afrenta a la santidad de la vida. Cada vez que se otorga debería ser una crisis de conciencia que nos exige estar preparados para ponernos del lado de las madres y familias que enfrentarán la secularización del aborto, una realidad que se moverá a cada uno de los padres, las familias y la sociedad.

El aborto destruye la vida de un bebé inocente, pero también destruye nuestra vida como una institución en que cada vida cuenta. Este es un momento muy importante de nuestra vida en el que debemos mantener firmemente la verdadera fe de que todos somos creados con el mismo valor, valor que legitimidad el aborto.

Por lo tanto, debemos ser pro-vida de principio a fin! Como católicos creemos que el fundamento de nuestro compromiso es que nunca podemos, bajo ninguna circunstancia, vender el alma de aquellos que más nos necesitan. Hemos sido creados para vivir en eternidad con Dios en compañía de los santos. Este es el plan de Dios. Toda vida es preciosa a los ojos de Dios.

Con esta visión, hemos sido creadas para que podamos ser parte de la solución del aborto, no para que podamos ser parte de la solución del aborto. Para la mayoría de los católicos en el Estado de Ohio, la visión de su padre es que transforma a cada uno de nosotros.

Era familia, amigos y parroquianos han reunido más de $49,000 para el Centro Pastoral Católico en Oklahoma City. Los participantes trabajaron para hacer justicia sin tener que recurrir a la pena de muerte, la cual se perpetúa el ciclo de violencia. El uso de la pena de muerte no garantiza un cierto para las familias de las víctimas, ni la traerá de regreso.

Las oraciones, los ayunos y las oraciones de generaciones de defensores de la vida, nos han traído a un punto en donde podemos prever que no habrá más abortos en nuestro estado.

Las oraciones, los ayunos y las trágicas de los derechos de la vida deben continuar hasta que podamos también ver la eliminación de la pena de muerte en Oklahoma.

Local fathers share faith, unconditional love children are here. The family is far from rich financially, but they are so blessed and happy in many ways.”

Todd Allen, Saint Joseph Catholic Church, Ada

Todd Allen is 58 years old and was born and raised in the Catholic faith. His family moved to Oklahoma in 1970. He has owned “Ada Forget Me Not Floral” since 2003. He is married to Teddy and they have two boys, Collins and Mitchell. His wife is an elementary school teacher and they have been married since 2014.

Allen said some of his goals as a Catholic include teaching his boys the importance of the faith, treating others with love and respect and to be good examples to others.

“My parents instilled a strong work ethic and I learned the importance of treating others with love and kindness from teachers and when I was in Boy Scouts,” Allen said.

He said, his parish priest, Father Thomas Dowell, reinforced the positivity of strong Catholic values for everyday life. Allen and his family donate flowers for the nursing home residents who have little or no family in the area.

Julie Welch, office manager at Saint Joseph Catholic Church, said, “If you observe Tod and his family at Mass, you will notice the very best in a dad’s unconditional love for his wife and children. He simply adores and appreciates his family.”

Larry Currie, Saint Francis Xavier Catholic Church, Sulphur

Larry Currie was born in 1949 on a dairy farm. His fatherhood is modeled after the examples he learned from his uncle.

“I did have an uncle, David, who I named my son after, who was a kind, patient and compassionate man. As a dad, I found out, like my uncle, that I could love unconditionally and guide without force. Despite the rough childhood with my dad, I found out God had been with me all along,” Currie said.

In 2014, Currie met his future wife, Dorothy, and she invited him to church. He was brought up Baptist, but as he attended Mass, he developed a desire to know more. He believed that he had finally found the place where he could develop a relationship with God.

“Dorothy was the most holy person I had known in my entire life. I wanted to love and worship God as she did,” he said. “As Dorothy and I developed a loving relationship, I trusted her guidance and asked tons of questions about the Catholic faith.” They were married in 2017.

Currie said, “I wanted to learn more about Catholicism and was invited to attend RCIA. I was so grateful to have the opportunity to learn more and look forward to our weekly sessions. My confirmation was so emotional that I cried for love of finally getting that sacrament. My inner peace has grown exponentially since confirmation. I feel the power of the Holy Spirit dissolving my emotional doubts and fears with mercy and compassion.”

His son David said his dad is “the most spiritually-centered person” he’s ever known.

His wife said, “Larry has become a great example of what a father and husband should be. He is always striving to learn more about Catholicism. He is the kindest and most caring person I know.”

Currie summed it up with “Life is good … because God has been good to me.”

“I, for one, have found Blessed Sacrament to have had a tremendous impact on our own life, even before I was assigned as a pastor here. My grandfather, who was stationed at Fort Sill in the late 1950s, was a parishioner at Blessed Sacrament while he was here in the Lawton area. It was also while he was here that he met my grandmother, who was born and raised in Duncan. My grandfather is just one of thousands of people who have made their way through the doors of Blessed Sacrament to be strengthened by the Lord in their mission as disciples. Who knows the impact that this parish has had on the world in the past 120 years, far beyond the town of Lawton,” Father Lewis said.

“However big or small that impact is, we all can be grateful for the fidelity with which our ancestors followed the Lord, forming this community of believers those many years ago, and handing on that same faith to us, who are blessed to continue this tradition of faith, so that 120 years from now, this community will be even stronger and more faithful to the Lord and his commands.”

Following a specially scheduled 10 a.m. Mass, parishioners and guests gathered in the lawn area for fellowship and to share a meal.

“I think the 120th anniversary is significant because of how the church has affected the community over the past 120 years,” Deacon Robert Quinnett said.

“A lot of people have come through the doors of our weekly sessions. My confirmation was so emotional that I cried for love of finally getting that sacrament. My inner peace has grown exponentially since confirmation. I feel the power of the Holy Spirit dissolving my emotional doubts and fears with mercy and compassion.”
